Truman Orders Armed Force Increase; U. S. Patrol Escapes From Red Ambush

Senate Unit Carries Over Debate on U.S.Economy

GOP Amendment To Drop 50,000 Non-Defense Jobs In Dispute Today

By Jerry Kluttz
Post Reporter

The Senate Appropriations Committee today will resume its heated debate over a Republican-sponsored amendment to knock out 50,000 jobs from the Government's non-defense agencies.

Republicans on the committee are solid for the economy plan that would save an additional 250 million dollars annually. They are proposing it as a substitute to the House-approved Taber-Thomas and Jensen riders to the general appropriation bill that would wipe out upwards of 300,000 jobs in the next year.

Cuts Reported

The full Senate committee is reported to have approved without substantial change the budget recommendations of its subcommittees. The subcommitees had tentatively cut nearly $1,390,000,000 from the President's estimates. Mr. Truman has asked for a total of $36,161,358,148 for spending and contract commitments. The subcommittees recommended only $34,770,623,000. These are among the slashes reported to have been tentatively made:

Defense agencies, a cut of $82,283,000 to a total of $14,680,000,000.

Independent Offices bill which includes VA, Atomic Energy, Civil Service, ICC, and other such agencies, a cut of $449,110,000.

Interior, a cut of $57,965,000.

Agriculture, a cut of $30,290,000.

Treasury-Postoffice, cut $53,073,000.

Labor-Federal Security, a cut of $189,623,000.

State-Justice and Commerce, a cut of $119,516,000.

ECA, 250 million dollars.

State was cut 13 million dollars below the 217 million dollars approved for it by the House.

In the economy move, most of the Democratic members of the 21-man committee are reported to be opposed to the GOP general rider on the ground that many of the agencies involved already have been given budget slashes by the committee.

In a seven-hour session yesterday, the committee recommended 1951 budgets for all Federal agencies. It bogged down, however, when economy amendments were debated. At 10 a. m. today the committee is to meet again on them as well as the House rider to force employes to take annual leave this year as they earn it.

Exemptions Proposed

About half of all Federal workers would be exempted from the proposed GOP economy rider. Among them would be civilians in these agencies:

Defense, Army, Navy, Air Force, National Security Resources Board, National Security Council, the White House, the legislative and judicial branches, FBI, Customs Bureau, Immigration and Natural-

Dog-Gone, Thief Brings Tears To 2 Alexandria Children

By Bob Burchette—The Washington Post

THEY SIT AND WAIT—Mary Elizabeth, 3, and Eddie, 6, children of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Runnels, jr., sit on the front steps of their home, 107 S. Patrick st., Alexandria, Va., waiting patiently for some word of their missing dog, Michael

". . . and God, please bring Michael back home."

That is what Eddie and Mary Elizabeth Runnels want most. Before they went to bed last night they prayed for Michael's safe return.

Eddie is 6 and Mary Elizabeth is 3. Michael, a mixture of collie and shepherd, is their pet.

Being so young, they can't understand why anyone would drag a swell dog like Michael into an automobile and drive off with him. But someone was mean enough to do it.

Eddie and Mary Elizabeth are the children of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Runnels, jr., of 107 S. Patrick st., Alexandria. A strange man drove up to their house late Thursday, dragged their pet into his car and drove off.

The children are grief-stricken. Eddie wouldn't eat at all yesterday, his mother said, and Mary

Truman Asks $260 Million For H-Bomb

New Funds Asked Of Congress to Build 'Atomic Furnaces' For Explosives

President Truman yesterday asked Congress to vote another 260 million dollars to build hydrogen bomb facilities.

Almost all the money requested, it was learned, will be used in the manufacture of tritium, the explosive of the hydrogen bomb.

The request for an enlarged appropriation, in addition to the almost one billion dollars the Atomic Energy Commission has already requested for the next 12 months, was anticipated several weeks ago. It was planned before, and without reference to, the Korean conflict.

After President Truman's January 31 decision to proceed with the attempt to make the H-Bomb, the AEC did not step up by a substantial amount its new money estimates. Now, with more work and knowledge behind it, it has asked for additional funds.

Although the announcement of the request, made from the White House, did not mention "tritium" or "reactors" it is known nevertheless that the bulk of the funds are to be used to build the "atomic furnaces" in which the new explosive is created.

If the H-bomb is not found feasible the reactors will be able to produce plutonium, the fuel of the now "old-fashioned" fission, or A-Bomb. In that event, one informed source stated, "We'll have plutonium running out of our ears."

It is probable that in the expansion program the AEC may have to select another site, such as Hanford and Oak Ridge, on which to set up new reactors.

Meantime, the Associated Press said yesterday it had reports Mr. Truman is about ready to select a chairman for the AEC. The post has been vacant since the resignation February 15 of David E. Lilienthal.

One informant said the President earlier had narrowed his choice to three people and had almost settled on one.

The man under consideration was reported by one source to be Dr. Wilson M. Compton, an economist, who is president of the State College of Washington. He is the brother of two famous scientists who did much to advance the A-bomb project during the war, Arthur H. Compton and Karl T. Compton.

At his office in Pullman, Wash., Dr. Compton could not be reached for comment yesterday. His secretary said contact with him could be made today "in Washington, D. C."

The AEC now consists of only three members, the fourth, acting chairman Sumner T. Pike, having left a week ago when his term expired.

In the Senate, where opposition to Pike, a Maine Republican, had developed, there is to be a vote at 4 p. m. Monday on confirming

Fatal Duel

Red Tank, B-26 Blast Each Other

Tokyo, Saturday, July 8.—A Red tank and an American B-26 light bomber knocked each other out in Korea today.

Two crewmen who parachuted safely said their attack plane had knocked out the tank with rockets and machinegun fire near Pyongtaek, some 40 miles south of Seoul, but that the tank simultaneously had disabled their plane.

That was how hot the ground-air war waxed as the skies cleared and the B-26s swooped down to strafe at fifty-foot altitude.

Two B-26s were lost. So were three F-51 Mustang fighters. The jets came off with no reported losses. In the first good weather of the war, American pilots reported possibly 16 Red tanks destroyed. They shot up a locomotive. They blasted troop cars and killed troops by strafing. They hit half-tracks and trucks.

They met plenty of antiaircraft fire from the ground, but accord-

8 Red Divisions Maneuver in East Germany

McCloy Denies Early Attack Is Likely in Europe

Berlin, July 7 (AP).—Eight Soviet divisions are churning up the dust of East Germany's plains in extensive war games, American authorities reported today.

The Korean conflict and its uncertain political trends may be a factor, United States observers say, but they think it more likely that the Russians' maneuvers have been stepped up because of the influx of thousands of young, untrained troops.

United States High Commissioner John J. McCloy told a news conference in Frankfurt today there are no signs of any immediate attack on Western Germany "and I don't think there is going to be any attack."

"In fact, I think the developments in Korea may make such an attack less likely," McCloy said.

Ideal Tank Terrain

The maneuvers are being conducted in five areas of the Soviet Zone of Germany on terrain that is ideal for tank sweeps. An undetermined number of the Red Army's 2000 tanks in East Germany are taking part.

The areas, principally in Mecklenburg and Saxony, are flat lands where Prussian cavalry once learned the ABC's of lightning war.

Although this is normally maneuver time for the Soviet occupation troops, estimated at 200,000 comprising 20 divisions, United States experts note more activity than in previous years.

The Russians have always maintained an armed force in East Germany as large as the combined

'Morale Shaker' Said to Point Need For Larger Forces; Tanks Reach Korea

BULLETIN

Tokyo, Saturday, July 8 (AP).—General MacArthur today reported South Korean forces had regrouped and are now battling the Communist invaders near Mugung, 60 air miles southwest of Seoul.

A new or regrouped North Korean division was reported in the Mugung section and "considerable action has been reported in this area," the communique added.

Tokyo, Saturday, July 8 (AP).—American troops who probed ten miles deep into Communist-held territory ran into an ambush late Friday and were forced to retire with some casualties, front dispatches from South Korea said today.

It was the second retreat by American advance units in as many days, and while indications were that no major forces were engaged, Associated Press Correspondent Tom Lambert reported from the field that it was a morale shaker.

Lambert said it pointed up the need for more men, guns and ammunition to halt the Red invasion.

The setback occurred as a Tokyo headquarters spokesman announced arrival of American tanks in South Korea. The tanks had not yet reached the front, however.

"Crashing Halt" to Advance

Lambert said the North Koreans had allowed the Americans to infiltrate northward ten miles, then poured in flanking fire from the houses and hills of a village the Americans had passed through.

The Reds then drove a wedge between two American defense forces, he said, but it was quickly brought under American artillery fire.

The Communist action, he said, had brought "to a crashing halt" the first American counter-move on the ground in the Korean war.

General MacArthur's headquarters continued to stress the southward push of at least three North Korean divisions. A communique issued at 12:35 a. m. Japan Daylight Time (9:35 a. m. Friday EST) placed the invaders on a line roughly 70 miles below the 38th parallel and maneuvering to envelop the defenders.

The American patrol which ran into trouble had been ordered to "make contact and keep pushing—there's more heavy stuff coming behind you," Lambert said.

(In view of the report of tank deliveries, this still could be basically true.)

Lambert said the patrol had

Draft Board Lists 52,342 District Men

By Sam Zagoria
Post Reporter

Greater Washington's draft machinery is "ready to go" on the President's selective service directive.

The District Selective Service System has 52,342 men registered, of whom about 10,000 have been tentatively classified as 1A—available for service. A small number of these are 1AO—available, but conscientious objectors.

The exact number in the available category is uncertain since physical examinations have not been held since January, 1949, when inductions were halted, Deputy Director Frank Norton explained. In addition some may have taken on dependency status since their initial classification, he said.

In Maryland, of 143,000 men registered, about 20,000 are 1A or 1AO. Virginia has 235,186 registered and 31,561 in the 1A group.

Draft Use Authorized If Needed By Services

Guards, Reserves Not Called Now; At Least 60,000 Men Required

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

President Truman yesterday ordered an expansion of the armed forces "to meet the situation in Korea" and authorized use of the draft if required to obtain the men needed.

Defense chiefs issued a call for volunteers and said it was hoped that inductions would not be necessary. The best guess of top officials, however, was that for the present the Army would have to draft men in relatively small numbers.

To Await Recruiting

Spokesmen said any draft call probably will be delayed to see whether the call for recruits and reservists brings in enough men to meet Army needs.

Young men 19 to 26 years of age are subject to induction, while all must register upon reaching the age of 18.

There has been no decision as yet to order up any individual reserves without their consent or call out the National Guard or Organized Reserve units, the Army spokesman said.

The Air Force and Navy went further. Both departments issued formal statements that all reservists brought into active service would be on a voluntary basis.

They declared they wanted only highly qualified reserve officers and men or former GIs and had no need for raw recruits or draftees over normal needs. The Army, however, welcomed both untrained and trained men.

No official word was forthcoming as to the size of the expansion, but authoritative sources said the armed forces' immediate needs were close to 60,000 additional officers and men. It was estimated that nearly 30,000 are required by

Reds' Fighting Attributed to Propaganda

Gen. Smith, Baruch Urge Expansion of Information Program

The Communist troops in North Korea are "fighting like the devil," Lt. Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, commander of the First Army, told a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee yesterday.

He hinted that one of the reasons for this performance was their thorough indoctrination by Communist propaganda.

"It will pay us," he said, "to sit down and analyze why the Communists in North Korea are fighting like the devil and why those who are defending democracy do not seem to be doing so well. Certainly the Communist propaganda has been extremely effective."

Gen. "Beedle" Smith, who was chief of staff to General Eisenhower in wartime and Ambassador to Russia after the war, was testifying in support of the Benton resolution, backed by 13 Senators of both parties, for a greatly expanded program of American information and propaganda. Others who testified in warm support of the resolution yesterday were Bernard M. Baruch, President George D. Stoddard of the University of Illinois, and Senator Wayne Morse (R., Oreg.).

Drawing on his personal experiences in the Soviet Union, General Smith said "the highest compliment the Russians ever paid anybody is their jamming of the Voice of America broadcasts." He said the Kremlin decided to silence the American broadcasts after the Kasenkina incident, when masses of Russians believed the American account of the Russian school teacher who jumped from a Soviet consulate window in New York.

For a time, Smith said, the Soviet jamming succeeded within the Soviet Union, but in the satellite countries it was not nearly as effective. He estimated that the United States still had the ear of half the listening public in those countries.

"The most fertile field for our propaganda is in the satellite countries, where they still know what freedom is," the General said.

Japan's Police Force To Be Raised 75,000

Tokyo (Saturday), July 8 (AP). General MacArthur today authorized the Japanese government to increase its total police force by 75,000 men by establishing a "national police reserve."

This will swell the total of Japanese police to 200,000 men.

Presumably the move is to tighten internal security during the Korean crisis.

MacArthur also gave the Japanese permission to increase their fledgling coast guard from 10,000 to 18,000 men.

Colvin Retires From Labor Mediation Post

Conciliation Chief Cyrus S. Ching yesterday announced the retirement of Howard T. Colvin, associate director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, and the appointment of Clyde M. Mills as assistant director.

Colvin, who observed his 70th birthday yesterday, has participated in the settlement of hundreds of management-labor disputes nationally and locally during the past 20 years. Only last year he helped resolve the newspaper printing pressmen's strike.

A native Virginian and a resident of Alexandria for the past 30 years, Colvin will automatically retire July 31, but will continue in the conciliation service as a special consultant to Ching.

Mills, who is 50, has been with the Conciliation Service for eight years. Like Colvin, he was active in the Washington area labor movement before entering Government service.

Born in Iredelle County, N. C., Mills came to Washington as an apprentice printer in 1924 and worked for the Washington Star for several years until elected president of Columbia Typographical Union 101. He left this to become an NRA labor adviser on the graphic arts and printing codes; and later joined the Office for the Coordinator of Industrial Cooperation.

Mills then worked for a while as an International Typographical Union representative; for the Wage-Hour Division of the Labor Department; for the labor relations division, Washington Graphic Arts Association. He joined the Conciliation Service in February, 1942.

Assistant Director Mills was most recently active in settling the national telephone and bakery disputes, and the local milk strike. Three times a father and once a grandfather, Mills lives with his wife at Lyon Village, Arlington, Va.

Witness Links Business Firms To Racketeers

A list of 80 legitimate businesses taken over in whole or in part by big-time racketeers was handed yesterday to the Senate Crime Investigating Committee.

The list was prepared by Virgil Peterson, former FBI agent who now runs the Chicago Crime Commission. He told reporters the assets of the firms run into "hundreds of millions of dollars."

Names of the firms will not be made public, Chairman Kefauver (D., Tenn.) announced, until the committee has checked to be certain the information is correct. Peterson said he was uncertain about some of the firms listed and didn't want their names made public lest a clean business be damaged by mistake.

But during day-long testimony on racketeering in various parts of the Nation, Peterson named some instances in which gamblers have gone respectable in the business world. He referred to Frank

Boy, 14, Confesses Polo Grounds Slaying, Police Say

New York, July 7 (AP).—Police today announced a 14-year-old boy said he had fired a .45-caliber weapon from a nearby rooftop about the time a spectator was killed at the Polo Grounds July 4.

Police identified the boy as Howard M. Peebles, who has been held as a juvenile delinquent ever since the fatal shooting.

Bernard Lawrence Doyle, 54, of Fairview, N. J., was killed by a .45-caliber bullet as he sat in the stands.

Peebles had been held as a result of his alleged possession of two .22-caliber rifles, a .22-caliber pistol and ammunition police said they found in his apartment.

Snakes Alive! Those Scouts Sure Rattled Alec's Fans

More than 300 whooping Boy Scouts supplied an unscheduled accompaiment to the Watergate concert last night.

This account will deal only with the disappearance of a 6-foot bull snake and what followed. The concert critique will be left in the capable hands of Paul Hume.

Now, you may well ask how in the name of Dan Beard a 6-foot snake, Boy Scouts and an Alec Templeton concert got mixed in one merry meringue.

Take a deep breath, reader . . .

The 300 Boy Scouts (from Kentucky, suh) were returning to Washington in six buses after a sightseeing tour in Virginia.

As the caravan crossed over Memorial Bridge, one of the Scouts (riding in the lead bus) looked in his box and announced his pet bull snake (a non-poisonous wriggler from Texas) was at large.

This news was not long in reaching the ears of the driver, who stumbled over a worm as a boy and has been allergic to anything that slithers ever since.

"We're gonna stay right here until that thing is back in its box," the driver announced as he pulled over to the side of the bridge and stopped.

The other buses also stopped and a great search began for the missing snake. They looked in crevices and under seats. No snake.

Then the Scouts spotted the con-

Lodge, Hickenlooper Refuse To Agree Jessup Is Not Pro-Red

By Alfred Friendly
Post Reporter

On a test vote yesterday, the two Republican members of a Senate subcommittee investigating communism in Government refused to agree that Ambassador-at-Large Philip C. Jessup is not, as has been charged, a man of pro-Communist record and activities.

Accordingly, despairing of unity on anything, the subcommittee members decided to go different ways and write separate reports on the investigation they have been conducting for the last five months.

It was indicated there probably will be one majority report, signed by Democratic Senators Tydings (Md.), the subcommittee chairman; McMahon (Conn.) and Green (R. I.), and separate reports from each of the Republicans, Hickenlooper (Iowa) and Lodge (Mass.).

The majority report probably will be ready next week. It was not known whether Hickenlooper and Lodge also will be ready with their findings by then, or whether the Democrats will choose to await their reports before publishing their own.

Yesterday's trial vote, it was learned, was set up by Tydings to see whether there was any chance of full agreement on any part of the investigation.

He apparently chose to make a test on the figure of Jessup as one of the persons among the many charged with pro-communism by Senator McCarthy (R., Wis.) who seemed to him most palpably innocent.

Could the subcommittee members agree, he wanted to know, there was no evidence to support McCarthy's accusations against him? Was he not, in fact, one of America's finest citizens and public servants?

The three Democrats voted in the affirmative. Lodge and Hickenlooper did not. It was not clear from the reports whether both voted a flat negative or whether one or both simply abstained and voted only "present."

Nor was it known whether they took the position that Jessup had pro-Communist leanings, as McCarthy has proclaimed repeatedly, or whether for policy reasons they declined to state any findings.

Both have been critical of the U. N. Council Votes to Unify Korean Forces Under U. S. Lead

Lake Success, July 7 (AP).—The United Nations today cleared the way for appointment of Gen. Douglas MacArthur to be the first Supreme Commander of U. N. forces in Korea. It also authorized him to fly the blue and white U. N. flag beside the Stars and Stripes.

The U. N. asked nations supplying forces in the battle against Communist North Korea to put them under a unified command headed by the United States.

The action was taken by the Security Council by a 7 to 0 vote. Three members, Egypt, Yugoslavia and India, abstained and the eleventh member, the Soviet Union, continued its boycott of the council.

A peace demonstrator who said he was a conscientious objector was thrown out of the Council chamber just before the meeting began. He gave his name as James Peck of New York City.

Warren R. Austin, chief United States Delegate, told the Council the United States gladly accepts the responsibilities and obligations placed upon it by the Council.

Appointment of MacArthur is expected to be made soon by Washington and an American spokesman said the Americans certainly would fly the U.N flag beside the United States emblem.

The council by its decision today backed up more fully its resolu-

Coast Ports Feel Tempo Of Wartime

Los Angeles, July 7 (AP).—Los Angeles and other West Coast airports and harbors are quietly and swiftly stepping up their activities toward a wartime tempo today.

Airlines and shipping firms report they are marshalling their fleets of planes and ships to supply American fighting forces in South Korea.

Sydney D. Smith, district sales manager for Pan-American Airways, said no priority system has been set up yet for civilians, but the line is "offering its fullest facilities to the department of defense."

Transocean lines has recalled all personnel on leave and reports it is attempting to augment its fleet of DC-4 transports.

The Flying Tiger line, headquartered at nearby Burbank, is on a virtual wartime footing, as it is chartered by the Federal Government to rush men and materials to the Far East. Mechanics are equipping the line's C-54 cargo planes with extra fuel, tanks and fireproofing.

The American President shipping lines announces it has asked the U. S. Maritime Commission for more vessels. President George Killion of the line said the newly chartered ships would "bring home strategic materials for stockpiling in this country" in addition to carrying war supplies to South Korea and Japan.

Alien Seamen Reported Taken Off U. S. Ships

Mobile, Ala., July 7 (U.P.)—The Mobile Press said today the Coast Guard has started removing alien Crewmen from Government-subsidized American Flag vessels as a security measure.

The newspaper said the Coast Guard informed five aliens aboard the United Fruit Co. freighter S. S. Junior here they must vacate the ship. Two of the aliens were Chinese, two Hondurans and one Spanish.

According to the Press, the action was taken under a general Coast Guard directive issued June 30 in Washington.

Carrier HMS Unicorn Sails for Japan Soon

Singapore, July 7 (AP).—The British aircraft carrier HMS Unicorn will sail for Japanese waters on July 12, a Royal Navy spokesman said today.

The Unicorn arrived here from Hongkong on June 20 and earlier had been scheduled to remain for some time. She is used mainly as a "floating base" for other carriers.

The Hague, the Netherlands, July 7 (AP).—The 1796-ton Dutch destroyer Evertsen left Indonesian waters today for Korea. She is the first Netherlands vessel to be sent by the Netherlands to aid the United Nations in its efforts to repel the Communist invasion of South Korea.

London, July 7 (U.P.)—The Russian reply to the British note on Korea was interpreted in some diplomatic quarters here today as a Russian feeler for a specific British proposal to settle the Korean conflict.

Prime Minister Clement Attlee and Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin met during the day to study a report from Sir David Kelly, British Ambassador in Moscow, on his talks last night with Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

Attlee and Bevin also studied the account of Tass—the official Russian news agency—of the Kelly-Gromyko discussions. Officially, the Foreign Office was silent on Kelly's report. Diplomatic quarters said the Tass statement was being studied because of its "interesting implications."

An official announcement of the Moscow meeting said only that "a short conversation was held on the basis of the previous British approach." Britain recently proposed that the Soviet Union cooperate in a peaceful settlement of the Korean conflict.

Tass said this "requires no reply" because Kelly "made no proposals to the Soviet government for a peaceful regulation of the Korean question." He restricted himself "to expressing hope that the conflict would in time be regulated."

Sections of the British press branded the Soviet statement as a "snub," but diplomatic quarters said it should not be regarded in that light. One official said:

"The Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister told Kelly that because the British note made no proposals, no reply was necessary. This could well be an invitation to make some proposals as to how the Korean conflict could be ended."

It was believed here that the British Foreign Office would explore the possibility with the United States.

Soviet Press Features Condemnation of U. S.

Moscow, July 7 (U.P.)—The new Soviet condemnation of American action in Korea, following resident Truman's naval blockade order, was given prominent play in all Moscow papers today, but there was no editorial comment.

The Russian note said that the USSR will hold the United States responsible "for all consequences . . . and for all damages to the interests of the Soviet Union" that might result from the naval blockade. It called the blockade a "new act of aggression."

Most papers also continued to give front page space to the collection of signatures to the petition banning the atom bomb. The papers also reported that orators at mass meetings declared their confidence in the Soviet peace policy.

Press reaction from other nations—China, East Germany, East Europe—approving Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Gromyko's branding the United States an "aggressor" also appeared.

Indian sources, meanwhile, confirmed their Ambassador had visited Deputy Foreign Minister Valeri Zorin July 1 to express the hope that the Korean conflict could be peacefully settled.

Forty-five of the 59 U. N. members have indorsed the action and six—the United States, Britain, Australia, Canada, New Zealand and the Netherlands—actually are chipping in armed forces.

Terms of Resolution

The resolution today in brief:

1.—Recommends that all members providing military forces and other assistance make such forces and assistance available to a unified command under the United States.

2.—Requests the United States to designate the commander of such forces.

3. Authorizes the unified command at its discretion to use the United Nations flag in the course of operations against North Korean forces concurrently with the flags of the various nations participating.

4. Requests the United States to provide the Council with reports on the acts of the unified command.

Sir Gladwyn Jebb of Britain, one of the sponsors of the resolution, said the idea of a Supreme War Council within the U. N. was dropped. He said it was not believed necessary now.

After the Council adjourned, Secretary-General Trygve Lie presented to Austin a blue and white flag used by Acting Mediator Ralph Bunche during the Palestine troubles. It will be shipped to MacArthur immediately for use at the new headquarters of the unified command.

ing to AP Correspondent Tom Lambert at the front, they ruled the skies with no North Korean planes seen in the air.

Communiques from Tokyo headquarters said that for the second straight day the Twentieth Air Force's B-29 Superforts bombed strategic targets in Northern-held Korea. In some cases they still could not observe results because of clouds, but reported "good to excellent" results when they bombed a big oil refinery at Wonsan, 70 miles up the east coast above the thirty-eighth parallel.

At Kojo, 30 miles down the coast from Wonsan, bombs hit other rail targets and bridges. Another mission bombed bridges and railway yards near Seoul, the fallen capital.

A Fifth Air Force communique summed up the aerial war for the first ten days with a score of 22 planes downed by each side through July 6.

More good weather is expected to step up the close support of ground troops—already reported to be building up to a counter attack in Korea—and to mean heavier strikes at enemy supply lines.

Australian Mustangs covered American bombers Thursday on a bridge-blasting mission south of Seoul, and later shot up roads and rail targets south of Suwon with rockets and machineguns. They met no North Korean planes.

They too were boring in low at their targets. Fragments of an exploding locomotive damaged one Australian when a rocket from it hit the engine.

moved northward through Chonan, south of Seoul, against only light opposition.

Overhead American attack bombers and fighters, operating in close support, controlled the sunny skies. Earlier Friday these planes blunted the Red armored thrust with blazing rocket and machinegun attacks.

An otherwise unconfirmed report from a south Korean colonel said Pyongtaek, 14 miles north of Chonan and Chungju, 40 miles east of Pyongtaek, had been recaptured by defending forces.

This suggested something of a no-man's land in the Chonan-Pyongtaek area, with boht sides probing around in relatively small numbers.

General MacArthur's communique said the North Korean 3d and 4th divisions were trying to envelop the defenders from a point north of Chonan to Mugung, 25 miles east of Pyongtaek, and 15 miles farther east to Chungju.

Only 24 hours earlier a MacArthur communique had reported south Korean troops were regrouping at Chungju. There was no indication of the southerners' present position.

On the basis of Saturday morning's communique the front line appeared to run 40 miles across the north Korean invasion route from north of Chonan ot Chungju.

Fifth Division Mentioned

The North Korean Fifth Division, mentioned for the first time in action, was located by MacArthur some 26 miles north of Chungju and probing south and west. The Fifth Division had occupied Wonju.

Earlier, field dispatches estimated 70,000 to 90,000 North Koreans now were committed to the invasion with 150 Russian built tanks supporting them.

(Field stories have generally been running ahead of headquarters communiques by several hours or more but an advisory note early Saturday from Korea said the one telephone circuit was so clogged that headquarters accounts were catching up.)

Clear skies Friday gave American airpower a better chance to make itself felt. Fifth Airforce light bombers swooped on Red tank concentrations north of Pyongtaek and left an unspecified number of them crackling in flames. Mustang F-51s strafed the invaders in close support of the ground forces, ripped into enemy trucks, tanks, half tracks, troop cars, and one locomotive.

Total enemy tank losses added up to a possible 16.

5 U. S. Planes Lost

The communique announced loss of two B-26 attack bombers and three Mustang fighters. This made the announced loss of United States planes 27 since the United States entered the conflict June 28.

The Twentieth Airforce sent its B-29 Superfortresses deep inside North Korea to smash again at the Japanese-built Rising Sun Oil Co. refinery at Wonsan on the east coast. Railroad yards and bridges near Red occupied Seoul also were hit with results described as "good to excellent."

The naval forces of the Far East command, providing mobile artillery support, cruised both the east and west coasts of Korea. Warships bombarded oil tanks and bridges particularly along the east coast where the invaders have established three widely separated beachheads.

MacArthur noted that Red guerrillas were active on the east coast near Yonkdok, 100 miles south of the thirty-eighth parallel. Friday's communique had placed a new landing effort at Pohang, 43 miles south of Yongdok and only 80 miles above the main American port at Pusan.

At the advanced base in South Korea, unconfirmed reports said a Communist column led by two tanks and two armored cars had raced down the east coast to within 80 miles of Pusan.

The column, hugging the coastal road, was said to have reached Byongkok, a tiny fishing village between Yonghae and Yongdok.

South Korean troops were reported holding Yongdok, 25 miles up the coast from Pohang.

(Pusan is the most important southeastern Korea deep water port. Its facilities were used to debark some of the first seaborne U. S. troops landed in South Korea at the outbreak of war.

Pohang is a large port on Yongil Bay.

Truman Arms Step Is Backed at Capitol

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

Ranking members of the Congressional Armed Services committees yesterday backed up the President's move to start draft machinery in motion.

President Truman broke the news to top Democratic and Republican members of the two units at the White House while newsmen were receiving details at the Pentagon.

Four legislators attending the unusual bi-partisan huddle said no immediate legislation or request for funds is involved in the draft action, but additional appropriations ultimately will be needed.

"The President can exceed the money ceiling for military personnel by spending in 9 or 10 months now available for the full year," Senate Armed Services Chairman Millard E. Tydings (D., Md.), told reporter.

"There is no reason to ask Congress for more until we know the whole picture."

Tydings Feels 'Much Better'

Tydings said he "felt much better" about our situation in Korea after Mr. Truman's briefing on developments.

Senator Styles Bridges (R., N. H.), ranking minority member of the Senate Armed Services group, said the military manpower move had his "complete support."

Others attending the White House draft conference were Representatives Lansdale G. Sasser (D., Md.), acting head of the House Armed Services group, and Leslie C. Arends (D., Ill.), ranking minority member, who also backed the action.

"Mr. Truman did not go into all of the details," said Arends. "But in view of all of the circumstances I think I will be in support of the steps they are taking."

Keep Draft Total a Secret

One of the conferees indicated the number of draftees to be called was intentionally kept secret because it would enable the Russians to "gauge what we are doing."

The draft announcement led to increased speculation that Congress may now have to abandon its plans to adjourn August 1, and also sidetrack the tax bill, but Tydings said the President expressed no desire for Congress to continue indefinitely in session.

Bridges told reporters he believed the plan is to bring in some reserve officers on a voluntary basis and use the draft to build up our enlisted personnel.

Congress generally reflected the bipartisan support volunteered by members of the Armed Services Committees.

Morse, Knowland Approve

Senator Wayne Morse (R., Oreg.) said the President reached "the only decision possible under the present international situation" and Senator William F. Knowland (R., Calif.) termed the draft steps "obviously necessary."

"Having put our hand to the plow, we must go through and finish the furrow," said Senator Paul Douglas (D. Ill.).

But Senate Republican Leader Kenneth S. Wherry (Nebr.) again called on the President to review the situation before a joint session of Congress and said the draft meant the Korean conflict is "much more than a police action."

Senator A. Willis Robertson (D., Va.) said the action inevitbaly means an increase in military spending and this "must be considered" in any Senate action on the House-passed bill cutting excise taxes a billion dollars.

Prior to yesterday's draft action, the Senate Armed Services committee scheduled a series of meetings starting next Tuesday to "get all the facts" on the Korean situation from key military leaders.

West Va. Youth, First GI Killed

Associated Press WIREPHOTOS

PVT. KENNETH SHADRICK, 19, of Skin Fork, W. Va., is reported to be the first American foot soldier killed in Korea. He had left home at the age of 17 to join the Army because he wanted "to see the world." Kenneth was one of 10 children of Coal Miner Theodore Shadrick and his wife Lucille. Their home is a one-story frame house up a mountain hollow near Wyoming, a mining town. The youth was killed while operating as a member of a bazooka squad in a unit of the Twenty-fourth Division in Korea

Navy Recruit Training Shortened by 3 Weeks

Great Lakes, Ill., July 7 (U.P.).—Recruit training at Great Lakes Naval Training Center has been shortened from 14 to 11 weeks in accordance with orders from Washington, Commanding Officer Capt. J. S. Keating announced today.

A two-week leave usually given recruits near the end of the training period will be eliminated along with a one-week retraining period given after the leave, Keating said.

Weapon Found To Destroy Heavy Tanks

New York, July 7 .—Dr. Vannevar Bush, scientist, said today a powerful new land weapon which could make short work of heavily armored Russian tanks could be in production in six months.

"How fast it will be put into production depends upon how much pressure is put behind it," he said on his arrival from Europe on the liner Vulcania.

In a recent speech in Paris, Dr. Bush, wartime chairman of the Joint Research and Development Board in Washington, described the weapon as "a marriage of the bazooka and the recoil-less gun." He said it was one of the most dangerous developments since the last war. American troops have been reported using the bazooka and the recoil-less gun in Korea.

Asked about the danger of the new weapon falling into Russian hands, Dr. Bush said "they might not use it in Korea for that reason."

American, British and French force in the west. Intelligence sources say this relationship has not changed. McCloy said "our own (Allied) actions will determine to a large extent whether there will be any aggression in Europe."

Weakness Invites Aggression

"If we show weakness, aggression is likely," he said, "but I think that war can be avoided, chiefly by showing strength in the West and convincing the world that we are ready to fight if necessary."

McCloy said he had no reports of any "unusual" troop movments in Eastern Germany or any other indications of early military action. He said there were some reports of troop movements in the Balkans, but that he could not evaluate their significance.

Soviet veterans of three years' service in East Germany have been recalled and replaced with Rookies. Divisions under-supplied in materiel recently received large stores of antiaircraft batteries and additional weapons with which the newest soldiers were unfamiliar.

Trapped Yank Counts 40-60 Red Tanks

An Advanced American Outpost in Korea, (Saturday) July 8 (AP).—An American officer who was trapped for 32 hours behind Communist lines said today he had counted 40 to 60 North Korean tanks in that time.

First Lieut. Adolph Damish, 34, Mattapan, Mass., returned safely late Friday. He was with a machinegun squad overrun by the invaders Thursday.

Damish described the Reds as well armed and well disciplined, but added, "They're on the offensive, and it's pretty easy to keep discipline then."

U. S. Officials Still Regard Korean Fighting Calmly, Not as Start of Third World War

By Ferdinand Kuhn
Post Reporter

Seasoned American officials who are well informed about the Soviet Union still take a calm and generally confident view of Soviet intentions in the Korean crisis.

These professional observers do not believe, and have not believed, that the Korean affair will provoke a new World War.

They do not go along with the theory that the Communist aggression in Korea was a deliberate plot to suck the United States into a Far Eastern morass and to keep it there.

On the contrary, their firm belief is that the Kremlin never expected the sharp and swift American response to the Korean invasion, and it certainly never expected the result to be a virtual alliance of 44 nations ranged against Communism.

The last thing Stalin wanted, these officials believe, was to push the United States into marshaling its vast industrial resources and mobilizing some of its untapped military power. From this standpoint President Truman's latest draft order may cause renewed anxiety in the Kremlin, although this was not apparently its motive.

Played Game Cautiously

The Soviet game since the end of the war has been to divide, distract and confuse the capitalist world, but until the Korean invasion Stalin always played this game cautiously. The belief among informed officials here is that he never would have authorized or instigated the move in Korea if he had foreseen the out come.

Accordingly there is a good deal of quiet confidence in the Administration that the Kremlin will pull out of its Korean adventure in due course, just as it abandoned the Berlin blockade. Officials see in current Soviet behavior a good many reasons for their confidence.

For one thing, the Soviet Union has given no military guarantee and no treaty of alliance to North Korea, although it has done so for all its other satellites except Albania. This means that there is no binding legal reason why the Russians must come to the North Koreans' defense.

Calm in Diplomacy

Moreover, the Russians have been calm and moderate in all their diplomatic dealings since the Korean invasion, in spite of the shrillness of their propaganda. They have been scrupulous to answer every communication from the United Nations, thus suggesting that they still are not ready for a break.

They even went to the lengths of paying $5,177,000 to the United States in interest on postwar Lend-Lease shipments—and they did it politely last Monday, after American ground troops had been ordered to Korea.

As for Korea itself, the Russians have refused to ask the North Koreans to stop fighting, on the ground that they do not interfere in the "internal affairs" of an "independent" country. The reason is fiction, but the portrayal of North Korea as "independent" gives the Russians a way out if they want one.

Uncertainty In China

The most uncertain quantity in American calculations is not Russia but Communist China. The United States now has no official contact with Communist China and only the scrappiest information of what goes on there. The other western powers are in a similar position, although the British do get some second-hand information out of Hongkong.

India was the most powerful non-Communist friend of Communist China, with a well-informed and persuasive ambassador in Peking, but India's position in Peking has been changed by her decision to support the U. N. decisions on Korea. Her standing in Communist eyes has been shaken, and there is nobody from the non-Communist world who can put a restraining hand on the Chinese Communists at this moment.

If Russia has tried to produce restraint in Peking, it is not evident from the warlike tone of the Chinese statement on Formosa on Thursday, or from the anti-American frenzy of Chinese radio propaganda.

What gives some anxiety to American officials, then, is the possibility of large-scale or full-scale Communist Chinese participation in the Korean war. The Chinese Communists are naive and inexperienced in foreign affairs, and there is no telling what they may decide, with or without prompting from their ideological masters in Moscow.

Red Spirit, Propaganda Linked

millions in Asia would believe the Soviet propaganda story that the United States was the aggressor in Korea, and he told the subcommittee that "we must slap down" the Soviet story by every possible method.

Baruch, making one of his infrequent appearances on Capitol Hill, said it was of "the utmost importance" to expand the Government's information services and to set up a world-wide radio network.

"It is particularly important now," he said, "because of what appears to be the enemy's strategy to delude other people into fighting the enemy's battle. This should be exposed.

"But let us not make the mistake of thinking in terms of words alone. Words are not as important as actions to implement the words."

Baruch indorsed General Eisenhower's proposal of last Wednesday to set up a civilian "general staff" to direct the policy of American information and propaganda abroad. He thought the Government propaganda agency here should not be in the State Department but, instead, "directly under the President," headed by the same man who has charge of incoming intelligence from abroad.

Assistant Secretary of State Edward Barrett, now in charge of this work, said a request for a greatly expanded State Department program probably would go before the Senate Appropriations Committee in a few days.

Senator Morse, another witness, said he was troubled by reports that the South Korean government did not have much support from its own people. As soon as the present fighting in Korea is over, he said, "we ought to bring some economic reform to South Korea."

"It doesn't do much good," he said, "to talk to men in exploited areas about political democracy in America if they are still exploited by feudal lords in their own countries."

Reds Reported In Tibetan Lamaseries

London, July 7 (U.P.).—Peiping radio today indicated Communist China had secured a foothold in Tibet through installation of commissars in lamaseries near Lhasa, the Tibetan capital.

The reports said there had been "an exchange of correspondence" between Peiping and the abbots of Sakya Monastery, headquarters of "The Red Hat" faction which for centuries has challenged the all-powerful Dalai Lama.

Pieping radio said the abbots of Sakya had expressed their willingness "to exchange representatives" with Pieping.

Some Chinese Communists already had arrived at Sakya and the abbots "were very happy to receive them," Peiping radio said.

British officials said there had been reports the Chinese Communists had established a "Tibetan Peoples Government" in northeast Tibet, where the population was being indoctrinated in Communist ideals by the abbots of "Red Hat" monastaries.

They said the Communists were pursuing their efforts to wrest power from the 14-year-old Daiai Lama and his regent, Takdag Pandit Hothokthu, and to install the 13-year-old Panchen Lama.

It was believed there was a possibility the abbots at Sakya could rally disaffected elements for the Communists.

Nehru Outlines His Conditions For Mediation

New Delhi, India, July 7 (AP).—Indian Premier Jawaharlal Nehru today said the return of Soviet Russia to the United Nations and admission to the U. N. of Communist China are "necessary prerequisites to ending the Korean hostilities."

Nehru told a press conference both he and his government stand ready to mediate in the Korean conflict but "only if requested by the parties concerned."

India, he said, had been working through diplomatic channels to secure U. N. membership for the Peiping government as the "best way to restore normality in the working of the United Nations."

The Security Council, he declared, had no alternative except to ask for a cease fire, to call North Korea the aggressor and ultimately to use force. India had supported the council action because she felt it was the only way to avoid an extension of the conflict, he declared.

India indorsing the council resolution had said she still favored mediation if at all possible. Later the Indians were reported to feel mediation would not be possible while military action continued.

Nehru said today that "any step, governmental or individual, that might be helpful must be taken." Asked if he would heed a request for his personal intervention, the premier replied:

"If there is any chance of peace coming out of negotiations, Jawaharlal Nehru will go to the ends of the earth."

Turks Get $16,400,000 From World Bank

The World Bank yesterday granted Turkey two loans totaling $16,400,000 for port development and grand storage facilities.

The bank will provide $12,500,000 to cover foreign exchange costs of importing equipment and materials for a $38,600,000 port development and construction program.

It will lend $3,900,000 to finance construction of storage facilities for grain, Turkey's largest crop.

The bank described these projects as "essential for Turkey's present needs and for its future development."

ARTHUR B. EMMONS
. . . describes Korean retreat

Americans were evacuated from Seoul in an atmosphere of "calmness and deliberation" despite enemy aircraft.

Arthur Brewster Emmons, who next week will take over as officer in charge of Korean affairs, was back at his desk at the State Department yesterday with a first-hand account of how Americans were brought out of the fighting zone.

The Red attack caught Seoul by surprise, he said, but the South Koreans stabilized the line. Eventually they had to give way to the pressure of armored spearheads. The South Koreans were short of antitank weapons.

Planes moved in quickly from Japan to fly out the Americans. Five took off from Kempo Airport while under attack. Fighter planes provided air cover.

About 250 State Department and ECA employes left by air. Their families were moved to Inchon port and evacuated by ship.

Emmons, in Korea on a special mission, went south by jeep to the port of Pusan.

The car traveled over rough roads and ramshackle bridges. Other vehicles, carrying more than 85 persons, about half of them women and children, made up the convoy.

The refugees made the 14-hour trip to Japan aboard the freighter Lone Star State.

Emmons said "great credit" is due to the personnel that organized the evacuation.

He flew to Tokyo from Fukuoka and then to Washington.

The 39-year-old international affairs officer lives at 511 Rolling rd., Rollingwood, Md., with his wife and two daughters.

Another evacuee, Richard J. Comisky, 42, of 3523 Wilson ave., Alexandria, landed at National Airport yesterday at 3 p. m., where he was met by his wife and 4-year-old son.

A position classifier for the Economic Cooperation Administration, he arrived in Seoul on a business trip June 24, the day North Korean launched the invasion.

He said he was flown to an undisclosed destination and finally reached Tokyo, where has taken aboard a chartered Northwest Airlines plane. He arrived at Seattle, Wash., Thursday night.

Back in 1949 Comisky left Shanghai, where he had been on business, a mere day before the evacuation began there.

With the ECA since June, 1948, Comisky has done much traveling. He has lived in the Washington area since 1930, when he came here from Lostant, Ill., to work for the Census Bureau. He also worked for other Government agencies before joining ECA.

Pakistan pledged herself to follow the lead of the U. N. Security Council ahead of the sanctions resolution, and India, a member of the Council, adhered to it. Both acts did as much as anything to make the police action in Korea truly universal. However, neither nation can participate in military enforcement, not out of unwillingness, but because their armed forces are fully employed—in watching each other. This constraint, in so far as it relates to India, is the substance of a New Delhi communication to Lake Success, though the reason is not, of course, given in our plain language.

An armed peace subsists between the two nations of the great subcontinent of India. The rival forces are fronting each other while their leaders are trying to work out an agreement on half a dozen issues of deep and debilitating import. Both governments are being helped by the U. N. mediator, Sir Owen Dixon, and it is hoped here that agreement will be expedited by the new danger to world peace exposed by the invasion of Korea. But the prospect, according to the newspapers in India, remains bleak, for mediation requires voluntary agreement on the part of governments which give every sign of being thoroughly stuck in their opposing positions. Though India and Pakistan have drawn back from the precipice which seemed about to engulf them three months ago, nevertheless they are doing little else than mark time, and getting nowhere in their negotiations.

In the past the men in the fighting forces of these two countries have done yeoman service in the struggle against the aggressor. As recently as the Iran outbreak in 1947, they were posted to Abadan, and strengthened the arm of Secretary Byrnes in dissipating the danger. They would be of great value in more ways than military if they could participate in the campaign to restore peace in Korea. The lesson is that in the brooding presence of conspiratorial Stalinism, American statesmanship should have left no stone unturned in removing lesser tensions. Of these the greatest has always been the Hindu-Muslim one, a dispute, moreover, which, we have always insisted, is tractable to third party arbitration under American leadership.

Strike Test

The reason given by the head of the Switchmen's Union for the decision to continue the strike against the Rock Island Railroad is that the union wants "to find out whether a legal strike against a railroad is possible in this free country." We think the question should be phrased differently. For what the union is really trying to determine is whether the Government will consider a strike against a single railroad system sufficiently serious to justify resort to the drastic action threatened by the President, which led to abandonment of the strike against four other roads.

Strikes against the railways are unquestionably legal and their increasing frequency answers the query as to their possibility. The really important issue that the Switchmen's Union ought to be considering is the effect on public opinion of exercising the right to strike. The fact that members employed by four railroads were ordered to return to work after the President issued his warning shows that the union realizes that the right to strike is, in fact, though not legally, limited to strikes which, in the opinion of the Government, do not create national emergencies.

However, any strike that ties up an important segment of the transporation system—in this case the Rock Island—has a demoralizing effect on the economy that calls for protective action in the public interest. If railway unions proceed on the assumption that a long suffering public will tolerate localized strikes that permit unions to pick off their victims one by one in a struggle to gain wage increases or other concessions, they are mistaken. For the public is interested not only in preventing strikes against the railways, but in maintaining an efficient system of rail transportation. By using the strike as a weapon for extorting from the roads greater concessions than they can afford to grant, unions increase railway operating costs and compel the roads to raise their charges—in short, they exact tribute from the entire country.

Whether strikes are directed against one or many roads, reliance on this kind of coercion as a means of settling disputes is bound to lead ultimately to legislative restriction or prohibition of strikes. Compulsory arbitration of railroad labor disputes, as proposed in a bill sponsored by Senator Donnell, would, as Senator Morse pointed out in the course of a debate on the switchmen's strike, set a precedent for Government control of a segment of the national economy, and might lead to establishment of similar controls over electric utilities, mines, and the merchant marine. Nevertheless, the public requires protection against strikes that endanger health, demoralize trade and industry and, as at present, threaten national security. If peaceful settlement of railway disputes cannot be effected through collective bargaining, the only alternative will be to ban strikes, despite the dangerous potentialities of this kind of Government intervention.

Action On Korea

President Truman has satisfied some of the demand for more vigorous measures to meet the challenge in Korea by his authorization lifting the limitations on armed forces strength and by his decision to invoke the draft. Both steps were necessary to meet the need for replacement of the troop units now being sent to Korea. A replacement system for casualties is imperative; it also is necessary to provide forces in place of the devisions sent from Japan, as well as any diverted from this country. The same holds for air squadrons. Such replacements are manifestly impossible within the present manpower strength and budgetary limitations of the armed forces.

This is not general mobilization. Obviously, whatever forces are drawn must not be called indiscriminately, but must be related to the need for them in the task at hand. Perhaps it will not be necessary to draft many men or activate much of the reserve. Fortunately, the country has six National Guard divisions which have had priorities in equipment and are semitrained. Though they are by no means ready for combat, they might be used to replace divisions diverted from this country. Since funds also become a problem, the Senate cannot afford to dally over the 1951 appropriation. Congress also must be prepared to vote additional money as it becomes necessary.

At the same time, it seems to us, Senator Morse is wrong in asserting that the United States must "face the fact that we are at war." The action in Korea is more analagous to what happened in Greece, except that American troops are involved directly. The hope of preventing a general war lies in confining the conflict in Korea to essentially a policing job carried out under sanctions of the United Nations. Let that never be forgotten! The need, of course, is to conclude it as quickly as possible, for the more it comes to be regarded as a general war, the more likely it is to lead to one.

While there is danger that the situation may not be taken seriously enough, there is at least an equal danger that pressures may force the wrong kind of mobilization and bog the country down in confusion. Governor Dewey has done well to warn that victory will not be easy and that the people must expect to forgo luxuries and accept hardships. But his call for all-out armament "to match and then outstrip the Soviet production of arms" overlooks the fact that quality, rather than mere quantity, is the formula being followed in respect of the new weapons. It would be easy, for instance, to squander money to little purpose, as was done in the reactivation of camps at the time of the Berlin airlift. In other words, whatever additional effort is necessary must be channeled constructively to meet the present problem.

One thing that is apparent from the strain which the Korean action has placed upon the military establishment is that permanently larger forces are necessary. The Army needs a minimum of two more divisions beyond the present 10 to provide it with a reinforced corps as a ready force. Similarly, the Air Force drastically needs more tactical aviation—fighters and fighter-bombers. These are practical considerations, involved in Korea or similar police actions that might become necessary, which Congress ought to take up promptly. For the type of action for which the country must be prepared, as in Korea, involves not miracle victories but hard grubbing.

Is It Constitutional?

Senator Douglas has added another valuable chapter to the discussion of the foolish Moscow pretense that the President's action in ordering American troops to resist the aggression in Korea was unconstitutional and a violation of the United Nations Charter. He dipped into the history of the Constitutional Convention to show that the founding fathers deliberately changed a proposal authorizing Congress to "make" war and conferred upon it only the power to "declare" war. The object is clear. The founding fathers wished to leave the President free to repel sudden attacks. Accordingly, the President has used force—short of war—in a great many instances to protect the interests of the Nation and its citizens, without ever calling upon Congress for the exercise of its war powers.

This history cannot be denied. It is true, however, as Senator Douglas points out, that in some instances the President's authority to employ military force has been abused. The occupation of several Latin American countries in past decades is now looked upon as an unfortunate chapter in our history. Theodore Roosevelt's seizure of Panama is difficult to defend on a legal basis. But it is not necessary to rely upon such precedents for justification of the United States' present course in Korea. The adoption of the United Nations Charter has given specific international sanction to police action against aggressors. It has entirely changed the nature of the problem facing the President when lawless elements in other lands resort to violence to accomplish their aims.

As we pointed out the other day, the Charter of the United Nations, with its outlawry of aggression, is now the law of the land. The Constitution makes it so. The President is authorized by the very nature of our system to enforce that law along with other laws that are on the statute books. Of course, he cannot declare war in order to accomplish this purpose. That power is left to Congress. But he may employ the armed forces that Congress has placed at his disposal. Congressional leaders of both parties and virtually all American citizens recognize this fact. They recognize also, as Senator Douglas pointed out, that "what we are really doing in Korea is to serve as a police force to carry out the decision of the United Nations that its member nations should help to repel the invasion of South Korea."

We must expect Moscow to pull every string at its command to convince the American people that this sane and legal police action is an illegal war. But the American people are not likely to be deceived. They know that we have "a fighting Constitution," as Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes once called it. That Constitution is adapted to international police action as well as to immediate self-defense and to total warfare whenever it becomes necessary to our national security. What really hurts the Muscovites, who are yelling about violations of the Constitution and the United Nations Charter, is the fact that this country has found legal and orderly means of resisting the Communist aggression in Korea. Dictators habitually make the mistake of assuming that free peoples will become entangled in legal technicalities, and when they are disappointed their only means of saving face is to pretend that the law has been violated.

Neglected Nomination

Nearly nine months ago President Truman nominated William H. Hastie to be a judge of the Third Circuit Court of Appeals. Congress adjourned a few days after the nomination reached the Senate, and the President gave Judge Hastie a recess appointment, sending his name up for confirmation again in January when Congress reconvened. A Senate Judiciary Subcommittee held a hearing on the nomination April 1 at which no witnesses appeared in opposition. It made a favorable report April 3. But the full Judiciary Committee has taken no action. The recess appointment will automatically expire at the end of this session of Congress.

By all the criteria of character, education and experience, Judge Hastie is eminently qualified to sit on the Third Circuit Court. An honor graduate of Amherst College, he went on to the Harvard Law School where he took not only the regular law degree but also a doctorate of jurisprudence. He has served as a Federal district judge and as Governor of the Virgin Islands within the Third Circuit. He was dean of the law school at Howard University. There is covert opposition to Judge Hastie's confirmation which finds refuge in vague allegations that he has belonged to "subversive" organizations. Being a Negro, he was no doubt identified at one time with groups protesting against racial discrimination, some of which may have come under Communist influence. But he has been a consistent foe of communism and has done much to guide Negroes away from the groups that have spuriously posed as their champions.

These charges of leftist leanings were raised against Judge Hastie, were investigated and were thoroughly refuted when he came before the Senate for confirmation as a District judge and as Governor of the Virgin Islands. The whole of his record supports the President's promotion of him. We hope the Judiciary Committee will report his nomination favorably without any more delay and that the Senate will give him the confirmation he deserves.

Tardy Justice

Washingtonians had been hoping that the addition of three new judges to the District Court last October would speed up the administration of justice. It is especially disappointing, therefore, to learn that the court began its summer recess with a large increase of cases awaiting trial. Apparently there was no let-down of effort. The judges disposed of 3803 cases in the fiscal year ending June 30, compared with 3223 for the previous 12 months. It is said that the court encountered a larger number of especially difficult cases. Whatever the cause, the result is most unfortunate. The report of the assignment commissioner says ominously that approximately 20 months will elapse between the time a jury case is placed on the trial calendar and the date it will be reached for trial. The time lag in nonjury cases is about 14 months. Such delays are a mockery of the idea of "speedy justice."

This backlog of untried cases has piled up in spite of vigorous efforts on the part of Chief Judge Laws to achieve a current calendar. Some of the judges are doing their utmost to reduce the pile of unfinished work. The fact that some others feel less concern about the frustration of justice by delay seems to us to intensify the need for the court as a whole to devise some means of meeting its problem. One step the court could take would be to shorten its summer recess until the time gap between the placement of cases on its calendar and their disposition has been substantially narrowed. No executive bureau would think of declaring a full summer vacation for most of its top personnel with a backlog of 4219 cases awaiting disposition.

To be sure, it is difficult to try cases in the summer when many witnesses and lawyers are away from the city. We have no doubt, however, that many of the stale cases on the calendar could be disposed of in summer sessions. The court recognizes the need of keeping judges on duty to try some criminal cases and hear civil motions. Is not the disposition of 20-months-old civil cases equally urgent? As soon as the District Courts are installed in their new air-conditioned building, it would be no hardship on the judges to sit for 11 months each year until this condition is corrected.

Washington Population

Why should we be disappointed by census figures showing that the District's population growth is smaller than has been estimated? We desire a city in which it is good to live. So our feeling should be one of relief because our problems are not as great as we had thought.

We know, without the aid of the census, that the city is overcrowded—a casual survey of street traffic is fairly convincing. Add to that the experience of families, especially families with children, who are seeking homes. Add to that the difficulty of providing such essentials as schools.

One of the worst things that can happen to a city is too rapid growth. Our wrongly estimated growth in population has led us to accept expedients that will plague the community until the bicentennial in the year 2000. Because we thought we had so many people, we have permitted increased land overcrowding. Because of that false belief we have permitted the erection of thousands of "efficiency" apartments (one room with a day-bed), assuming that these "efficiencies" will profitably meet a continuing demand.

During the past two or three years we have begun to awaken to the fact that our real local unit is the Washington Metropolitan Area, not the District of Columbia alone. But we are not yet awakened enough to act effectively. We still carry on as we did in the days when the word "county" meant undeveloped parts of the District beyond Florida Avenue and other boundaries of the L'Enfant Plan. As a result we think of the Maryland and Virginia counties as competitors of the District which the District must beat by futile efforts to get and keep all population and business at no matter what cost in terms of lowered living standards or dollar expenditures.

The Maryland and Virginia counties seem to be equally short-sighted, equally competitive minded. So, forgetting that they have abundant vacant land, they lower their standards, permit the erection of tightly built congeries of multifamily dwellings that contain one-bedroom and two-bedroom apartments. Today these are accepted by families which have only a Job's choice, but at sacrifices that have been vividly portrayed by Mrs. Meyer in her Washington Post articles. But this acceptance will diminish when there is choice. Then the counties will have headaches. J. I.

Children's Programs

Several of your readers have been writing you letters deploring the crime that is forced down the public's throat by way of radio and television, especially because of the harm done to children.

The National Academy of Broadcasting Foundation, Inc., with headquarters at 3338 16th st., expects soon to offer programs that will be entertaining as well as inspirational and educational. Included in the types of programs will be: a series of games, youth round table discussions of current problems, historical highlights dramatized, famous short stories dramatized, lives of interesting people dramatized, and other programs of a constructive and delightful type.

The foundation has a group of workers on a voluntary basis, who serve as an advisory committee. This committee is composed of writers, educators, and others who know how to grade programs according to the age of children. In some localities, women's clubs are backing the foundation. In West Virginia, the American Association of University Women is actively cooperating. Plans are now being made for the local clubs to be told more about the foundation.

Although programs are to be furnished for the bare cost of material, a certain amount of money is needed to pay artists, writers of scripts, and others who help produce the programs. Local sponsorship by civic organizations, public utilities, and others who wish to help support these instructive and entertaining children's programs, will be welcome.

Radio stations which have found it difficult to present children's programs because of the financial problems involved are happy to know that the foundation has been established to make programs available through a traveling library of tape recordings. Several hundreds of local radio stations all over the nation have expressed enthusiasm. P. D.

Deaf Students

A group of mothers with little children having severely limited hearing, those called deaf, have been before the Board of Education and asked that it consider educating these deaf children in the public schools.

It seems to me that the public schools have much to offer these deaf children, much more than the best institution for the deaf could possibly give them. Public schools provided with special teachers for the deaf, together with the necessary training instruments, would open a new world to these children. The joy of being a "regular guy"; of participating in art, gym, etc., with normal children; the opportunity to attend other classes with normal children as soon as he is able, the feeling of athomeness with everyone!

How much more pleasant would be the memories of a deaf child schooled in normal surroundings, participating in as many activities with normal children as he is able, enjoying the stimulation of their conversation and their companionship than the memories of a deaf child schooled in an institution, the very nature of which constantly reminds him of his handicap.

Open the public schools to the deaf children. Give them a chance to live a normal life.

Democracy In Korea

On Tuesday evening a great American, John Foster Dulles, spoke to a Fourth of July crowd of 250,000 on the Washington Monument grounds of his recent trip to Korea, describing the "religious and intellectual liberty of the Republic of Korea." He said "The society was so wholesome that it could not be overthrown from withi..."

The following morning your editorial page carried a communication from Yongjeungkim expressing precisely the opposite view that "America cannot hold the Korean people to the democratic banner with this (Republic of Korea) regime because it is not democratic."

Let us cite Mr. Dulles once again: "I was in Korea only two weeks ago and saw with my own eyes that the republic was a land of freedom. The people had just had their second general election. Eighty percent of the eligible voters had gone to the polls. A majority of the representatives elected were independent of the party which controlled the election machinery and the police force. That is proof of real political liberty."

Your Korean correspondent cries that the United States and the Soviet Union should leave "the Korean people, both north and south, severely alone." Russia having trained a large north Korean army, having armed it to the teeth with tanks, planes, and artillery, having given it extensive battle training in the Chinese war, is eager indeed to have the United States leave the relatively untrained and lightly-armed Republic of Korea forces "severely alone."

Some facts should be kept in mind. The United Nations Commission in Korea has certified to the fairness and freedom of the Korean election. The Associated Press, in four semi-annual reviews of press censorship around the world since the inauguration of the Republic of Korea has consistently listed the republic among the select few of governments that have permitted full and free reporting of the news. The Rhee government has accomplished the unparalleled feat of breaking up the landlord system of farm tenantry, and provided for sale of the land to its tenant occupants for one-fifth of the annual crop over a period of five years. The Communists have tried for five years to subvert South Korea and failed.

Under enormous political, military, and economic handicaps, the Republic of Korea during the past year increased its over-all factory and mining productivity by 50 percent. During the past six months the inflationary problem was brought under control by the reduction of the won in circulation from a high of 75 billions to a low of 58 billions. The illiteracy of 70 percent left by the Japanese had been reduced to an estimated 30 percent. Troubled and beset as South Korea was, it was making rapid and substantial progress, economically, politically, and socially.

The reason the Communists took the great risk of war to strike in force against the Republic of Korea was not because the republic was failing to make good, but because it was notably succeeding. The great danger to Moscow was that the republic was offering to all Asia an example of the success of democracy—that, plus the fact that unwise American commentators repeatedly asserted that Korea lay "outside the American line of defense in Asia."

One final point seems worth making. In your July 5 editorial, "Far East," you assert that "power - conscious President Syngman Rhee was insistent that the American troops should be withdrawn" (as they were, on June 29, 1949.) President Rhee was in fact too "power conscious" to desire that the power of the United States should be withdrawn while the power of the Soviet Union remained in North Korea. I was in Seoul during March, 1949, when the decision to withdraw American troops was made. I can testify positively to the fact that this decision filled all South Korean officialdom with alarm and dismay—including President Rhee.

Beginners On The Job

By Malvina Lindsay

Modern Pitfalls

THE OLDER executive looked cautiously about. "I wouldn't dare say this publicly," he told his younger colleague, "but it really does seem to me that new youngsters on the job get more shiftless every year. Or am I just getting older?"

"Probably both," said the younger executive wearily as he glanced at a muddle of papers on his desk. "I wonder," he added, "if 20 years ago I was as rabid to get out of the office a split second before 5 o'clock as Buzz Flitt and Bobo Glyde are today."

"That's what bothers me," said the older man. "Am I seeing a trend? Or is it just the warped viewpoint of one who had to write over and over again in his copybook, 'Anything worth doing is worth doing well'?"

"How come you weren't at Oxford, Ohio, last weekend for the reunion of the McGuffey societies?"

"Now wait! I don't go back to McGuffey—though my parents studied his readers. At that he had something. Remember, he was a radical for his day. Instead of preaching at youth continually, as previous educators had, he tucked his little moral essays in among a lot of thrilling reading matter. But today youth doesn't get any exhortation whatever on order, industry, responsibility."

"Exhortation's passe. Youth won't stand for it. The idea now I gather is to develop character by what's called 'learning experience.'"

"HOW WOULD you say it was working out?"

"I can't say. There's something wrong but it can't be cured by preaching. It seems to me there are too many young workers who can't take it. They lack guts when the going gets hard — when they meet up against tedious tasks, uninteresting work, a demand for efficiency in detail, unpleasant situations, delay in what they call 'going places.'

"That's my feeling. Still I'm wondering if the young worker with great industry, dependability, initiative hasn't always been largely the exception."

"Yes, the kind who becomes a magazine success story. But I'm thinking of the many with average talent, who're weak on work attitudes or on drive. For instance, I just read about a salesgirl determined to be a buyer. She did a lot of extra things, including 40-minute private speech lessons twice a week on her noon hour. I can't imagine Bobo Glyde spending any noon hour that way."

"Well, to be fair," said the older man, "I have some fine young workers. For that matter they're all bright, intelligent, attractive. It's just that often that I run on to a lack of stability. I don't think it's hardening of the arteries that makes me say that."

"No, a lot of other people have been saying the same thing lately. Bernard Baruch complains of what he calls the rising incompetence in this country."

"But he's an old man, too."

"JUST THE same tell me this—Do you know of a place where I can get a decent shoeshine? No, I think our young people are a little weak on work habits for all their brightness and talents. As the TVA personnel director said the other day, too many college graduates don't know how to work for someone else."

"Of course the young worker's been a little spoiled these last 10 years."

"That's right. But it goes deeper I think. The dean of the College of Home Economics at Cornell University summed it up pretty well when she said there'd been an overemphasis in child training in the last 20 years on praise and protection, and that this had filled high schools and colleges with young people who couldn't stand up to difficulty. I suppose that's why so few meet the test of good work habits."

"What would you say these were?"

They've been listed in management studies as the ability to take orders, to do work whether pleasant or not, and to adjust personal preferences to requirements of the job."

"How are kids going to learn those things—without McGuffey?"

"The schools, I understand, are beginning to do a good deal in this line by modern methods.

"It's got to start earlier."

"You're right. The kid who can't see anything through is often that way in the first grade. And the bright college boy or girl who expects to do everything with a turn of the wrist usually has a messy room and undone chores at home. But parents are learning a lot."

"I wonder . . . Say, wouldn't you like to listen in on the fellows who have our jobs 20 years from now?"

A Bombs For Korea

What are we waiting for? Why don't we send a note to the leaders of the Korean Communists saying "If you don't call off the invasion by such and such a date, we will start dropping atom bombs on your supply bases north of the thirty-eighth parallel?"

That would bring this war to a quick end, either by the mere threat or the actual use of the bomb. It would also put the whole world on notice that any nation that starts an aggressive war which threatens our security will receive the same treatment.

Mistakes On Korea

By Marquis Childs

Time For Thinking Ahead

THE FIRE fighting operation in Korea tends from day to day and almost from hour to hour to get out of hand. Yet, it is in that frame of reference—putting out a local fire with the fire apparatus readily available—that Pentagon planners want to keep the war.

Childs

The fire chief on the scene is General MacArthur. He is responding to one alarm after another. But for additional resources, as they become necessary, he must call on headquarters in Washington.

When MacArthur decides that major additions to America's troop strength in Korea are necessary, some difficult decisions will have to be made here in Washington. For the additional forces cannot be found in Japan. That is to say they could not be moved out of the Army of occupation unless they were replaced by other troop units. It is interesting to note that the original decision to throw American strength into Korea was made on the confident assumption it would not be necessary to use American troops.

As the call for more men comes from MacArthur, some degree of mobilization will be necessary. And that is a step the Administration cannot postpone very long. Planning as of today is for a six-months operation.

IN A series of articles in the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin, Carl McCardle, just back from Korea and Tokyo, makes plain how unprepared military men in the Far East were for the Communist attack. McCardle, an able and conscientious reporter, says that in South Korea there was a determined complacence about the military menace of the Communists. And this was true in spite of reports of the massing troops and tanks in North Korea.

Col. Sterling Wright, acting commander of the American military advisory group of 500 in South Korea, said our Korean intelligence was so good that we knew 24 hours in advance every move the North Koreans had in mind. He expressed the view that there would be sufficient warning of an attack so that mines could be laid to stop any Communist tanks which might get through.

So strong was this confidence in the highest military quarters in Tokyo that the invasion was considered to be no more than a raid in strength for the first 24 hours. The North Koreans would retreat as soon as they met effective resistance.

It is easy—far too easy—to blame our professionals and "experts" for not warning us of the danger. The fact is that we did not want to see the danger. Something like a conspiracy of optimism existed from the top, with President Truman talking about how peace was nearer than at any time in the past five years, all down the line.

IN THIS space at the end of May I pointed out the danger of our becoming preoccupied with a quarrel over who was responsible for the mistakes of the past. I quoted the words spoken by Winston Churchill in England's gravest hour in June of 1940: "If the past undertakes to sit in judgment on the present, then the future will be lost."

It seemed to me, as I said then, that the present is a time of danger at least as great as June of 1940 when a totalitarian enemy had overwhelmed so much of the free world. Even inside the Government to say nothing of public opinion, there was too little agreement on the course to be followed. And optimistic and sometimes boasting statements were a substitute for vital decisions and actions urgently required.

The Korean attack brought a surface agreement just as did the sneak attack by the Japanese on Pearl Harbor. But there is still a deep division over our goals and how to achieve them.

Evidence of this is seen in the action of the Senate Appropriations Committee cutting down the Point Four program almost to zero. The logic of Senators Taft and Wherry is that if we need more money for guns and planes, then obviously we can't spare any for technical aid to industrially backward peoples.

But if we are to win in the struggle with communism, one is almost as important as the other. To resist the armed Communist enemy is obviously vital. It is nearly as important to win the loyalty of Asian peoples who have lived so long at a submerged level. If they once get the idea that we are interested solely in force, then no amount of force that we can bring to bear will be sufficient to hold the line for a civilization based on the freedoms of the West. It is late, as the Korean war has shown. But perhaps it is not too late to try to understand the meaning of what is happening in Asia.

Missouri U. To Admit Negroes For First Time

St. Louis, July 7 (U.P.).—Negro students will be admitted to classes at the University of Missouri next fall for the first time.

Roscoe Anderson, chairman of the board of curators, said today Negroes would be lalowed to enroll in courses at the university and the School of Mines that are not available at Lincoln University for Negroes.

Anderson's announcement followed a Circuit Court ruling that refusal to admit Negro students for studies not available at Lincoln violates the Federal and State constitutions.

the Army, 20,000 by the Air Force and 10,000 by the Navy.

Still more manpower would be needed if additional Army divisions or smaller troop units are organized, the Navy puts more ships into service or new Air Force groups are created—as is considered likely.

If so, the forces could add some 547,000 men—up to their top legal limit—but nothing anything like this is in view now even with these contemplated new forces.

What actually now is ordered is the procurement of enough officers and men for the following: to expand troop units, air groups and warship complements actually engaged in or supporting the Korean operations, from peacetime to war strength; and to provide replacements both for battle casualties and for units moved to the front from other places.

Yesterday's action only lifted the budget ceilings for military personnel — which total 1,506,600 under the 1951 appropriation bill still before Congress.

But it was added that this is "a first step to build up to full operating strength the units of the Army, Navy and Air Force to be used in the Korean operation, to provide further maintenance and support therefor, and to replace units to be moved to Korea."

Navy and Air Force spokesman said the order did not authorize the enlargement of the Fleet or the 48-group Air Force structure by hauling ships and planes out of mothballs. The Army spokesman said he had no information about creating additional units.

But from the use of the term "first step," it was plain that lifting the budget ceilings for operations—fuel and supplies—and materiel also is in prospect.

"You can't boost personnel without providing the materiel for them," said the Army spokesman. "Don't consider this the last thing necessary to do the job."

In fact, an authoritative source told The Washington Post that the present plan contemplates a permanent or semi-permanent expansion of the level of the armed forces which will cost at least another two billion dollars a year. This would raise the defense budget to nearly 16 billions annually.

While there are yet no firm decisions, it is expected that the Army will add another two divisions, the Navy will activate some patrol type vessels, amphibious craft and possibly destroyers and an aircraft carrier or two, and the Air Force will add perhaps a couple of groups of tactical aircraft.

The Army hopes to be able to create the additional units—one of which probably will be another armored division, plus special Corps and Army troops—on a gradual basis without calling in any National Guard forces.

But if the Korean fighting or the world situation required it, certain selected Guard divisions or other units might have to be ordered into service, it was said.

The Department of Defense's announcement yesterday, however, did not go into these still tentative plans. Officials indicated it purposely was left vague because the program is not yet complete and rapid changes in the picture may force further action overnight. The text:

"To meet the situation in Korea, upon recommendation of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, concurred in by the Secretaries of Army, Navy and Air, and with the approval of the President, the Army, Navy and Air Force have been authorized to exceed the over-all budget ceilings for military personnel.

"This action constitutes a first step to build up to full operating strength the units of the Army, Navy and Air Force to be used in the Korean operation, to provide further maintenance and support therefor, and to replace units to be moved to Korea.

"The use of Selective Service has been authorized. Voluntary enlistments also will be accepted."

Observers wondered about the absence of any statement of the action having Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson's approval, but there was no explanation offered.

The announcement was made to a packed roomful of reporters at the Pentagon at 3 p.m. yesterday. Later, spokesmen gave some clarification, and the Navy and Air Force issued statements. Said the Navy:

"The Navy Department plans to augment the personnel on active duty in the light of increased ceilings approved by the President, by recall of members of the Naval Reserve, officers and enlisted, on a volunteer basis.

"Those required will be in the categories needed to expand the operating forces. Trained enlisted personnel in the technical ratings are particularly required. Officers required will be limited generally to officers of the line, including aviation and staff corps qualified for duty at sea in grades of lieutenant commander and below."

The Air Force also announced that all of its "recalls to active duty will be on a voluntary basis." USAF spokesmen said recourse to the draft was not planned.

"The officers accepted for active duty will be Reserve or Air National Guard officers and the airmen will be from the Reserve components or those who have prior Air Force service.

"Both officers and airmen eligible for recall should have certain special military skills currently required by the Air Force.

"Greatest current need for officers is for those . . . who have been trained as navigators, bombardiers; communications, radio and radar specialists; medical and dental officers; weather specialists and armament officers. There is also a requirement for a smaller number of officers in most categories of Air Force assignments."

While there may be need later for additional pilots, the Air Force said it can get all it now requires by giving flight status—and flying pay—to officers now in uniform who recently were given ground jobs due to the economy program.

Enlisted specialists now required are experienced aircraft and engine mechanics, radar and radio operators, other communications personnel, armament men and medicos. A smaller number of former airmen are needed for general assignments.

Particularly welcome, the Air Force said, are persons not long out of uniform or those who hold civilian jobs in their specialty.

Air Guard and Reserve officers wanting active duty should apply to the particular Air Force which keeps their records—the Ninth Air Force at Langley AFB, Va., for those in this area. Reserve airmen should apply through their unit commander, the USAF said, a former airman can enlist in any recruiting station. Both can sign up for "hitches" of one to six years. Reserve officers get one year tours.

Air Force spokesmen say they need immediately to "beef up" groups in the Far East by adding extra flight crews and ground personnel. The Navy particularly wants to expand warship crews—which are about 67 percent of full complement on an average, though somewhat higher than that in the Seventh Fleet. Army divisions generally are about 80 percent of war strength.

There is a pool of some 2,555,000 officers and men in the reserve components to draw from. They include 332,000 in the Army National Guard and 600,000 in the Army Reserve; 1,096,000 in the Naval Reserve; 128,000 Marine Reservists; 45,000 Air Guardsmen and 354,000 Air Force Reserves.

Active strength of the Army on May 31 was 596,000 officers and men—well under its projected 1951 budget ceiling of 630,000. Top legal peace-time strength of the Army is 837,000, but the appropriated total controls.

The Navy had a strength of 379,900 on May 31 and the Marines totaled 74,500. Their overall legal limit is 666,882 but the projected 1951 appropriation ceiling was 460,600.

On May 31, the Air Force had 408,000 personnel in uniform — 8,000 under their planned 1951 ceiling. The top authorized limit is 502,000. (The overall legal limits given do not include an authorized 161,000 special one-year enlistees, which the Services no longer accept).

Selective Service officials say there are some 1,440,000 young men classified 1A, who can be called if needed for 21 months service. Most non-veterans aged 19 through 25 are eligible for call, though men with dependents now are deferred.

him to a new four-year term. Yesterday Senator Brewster (R., Me.) predicted Pike would win.

Brewster now is backing Pike, although earlier there were rumors he wanted to "ditch" Pike because of potential political threat he might become in challenging Brewster's Senate renomination two years from now.

In asking for the 260 million additional dollars for the AEC, Mr. Truman warned that Russia's refusal to accept "effective international control" of atomic energy leaves no choice but to "strengthen our defenses."

But he again pledged unremitting efforts to win a foolproof world agreement to end the atomic arms race.

The President said the huge fund is needed to "build additional and more effective plants and related facilities" required by the Atomic Commission to "continue its work on all forms of atomic weapons, including the hydrogen or fusion bomb."

"First Installment"

Chairman Brien McMahon (D., Conn.) of the Congressional Atomic Energy Committee, said the outlay is just the "first installment." He estimated the program will cost 250 million dollars a year for several years.

But he stressed this "is not large" compared to total United States defense spending, and added ominously:

"In fact, the cost of our hydrogen program is such as to underscore the logic that Soviet Russia can well afford her own program."

Mr. Truman said the new plants "will be of advanced design" and their operation "will provide new knowledge that will speed the progress" of the entire atomic program, both for war and far peace.

He said he has "complete confidence" in the ability of the Atomic Commission to carry out the H-bomb undertaking because of the "able and vigorous leadership" it has displayed in the past.

That apparently was aimed at the Republican-led Senate bloc seeking to reject his renomination of Pike.

draft boards have been meeting monthly to check the registration of persons 18 to 25 years of age and to make tentative classification, subject to physical checks before induction. The 17-year-olds have been placed in a special category since they are not liable for induction until they become 19.

Some in the total registration are no longer in line for induction, having passed the 25-year mark since registration.

Norton said the District's 15 five-man boards have placed 3035 in the 18-year-old group; about 100 in 2A—occupational deferments; 3000 in 3A—dependency deferments; 17,000 in 4A—veterans; and 10,000 in 5A—over 25 years of age.

Physically Disqualified

Anoher 1800 have been found physically disqualified from previous registration; and other small groups include these in the armed services, and in the National Guard, Norton said.

The D. C. Selective Service unit has seven persons on duty in the headquarters—temporary building No. 2, 1901 D st. nw., where each board also is located. Norton said this staff is suffielent to meet the needs arising from the President's order.

He asked that any persons in the 18 to 25 age group who have not registered previously do so immediately at the D st. address. Any persons previously registered who have changed addresses without informing the Selective Service should submit their new addresses in writing.

In Virginia, Col. Asher W. Harman, State director, said his organization was in "good shape" to handle inductions. The Old Dominion's 129 draft boards have been meeting regularly, Harman said.

The headquarters staff in Richmond includes four officers and 13 clerks—"enough for immediate needs," Colonel Harman declared.

Sixty-six Boards

Maryland's organization includes 66 boards, of which 26 are in Baltimore. The office there has a staff of three officers, two civilians and five stenographers, Col. Henry C. Stanwood; State director, said.

Of the 143,000 registered, there are about 15,000 over 25 years of age and 10,000 to 12,000 in the 18-year-old category, Colonel Stanwood said.

In addition to registration duties, each of the Selective Service units has in its charge the draft records of World War I. In the period from March 31, 1947, to June 24, 1948, the Selective Service organization was shelved in favor of an Office of Selective Service Records. Then the 1948 Selective Service law was enacted and the draft organization reinstated.

International Flavor At Vacation School

A slight girl of 10 bounded into the office of the Community Vacation School, 16th and Harvard sts. nw., with two wide-eyed towheads, one hanging onto each arm.

"I brought two more with me," she beamed to Mrs. Mercedes Draisner, director of the summer school for "children of all races, faiths and nations."

After registration they were off to learn of arts and crafts in one of the Pierce Hall rooms being used for kindergarten through sixth grade "fun" headquarters.

"That's how most of our 80 children have come—they hear about it from others," Mrs. Draisner explained.

Although the school has been in existence for seven years under the administration of the Friends Meeting of Washington, this is the first year that All Soul's Unitarian Church, 16th and Harvard sts. nw., has taken the major responsibility. Laurence C. Staples is executive director of the church.

Play and reading are centered around the theme, "The World in Our City," to show how children of all races can "learn to work and play together."

The volunteer staff of 26 includes Sunday School graduates, college students, mothers of the children and teachers.

Mrs. Joyce Hirabayashi, of Japanese descent, tramps around the gymnasium floor with the first grade during their handball recreational period. Thaddeus Malinowski arrives to teach Polish folk dancing. He is a "loan" from the Society of Friends.

Miss Judy Knight, charge d'affaires of the fifth grade and office secretary at the church, oversees a special project on Chinese life. She herself visited China at 15 and brought back chests, postcards and books that she now uses for illustrating the civilization.

A Chinese comic book reads from back to front, and that proves doubly amusing to the children. In one corner where a pile of cardboard boxes and berry holders, sticks and twigs now stand, next week, under her supervision, will be a Chinese village.

Trips to the Pan-American Union, the embassies and the zoo have been planned. The object of the zoo visits, besides fun, is to point out animals from various countries, emphasizing the "world" theme.

Speakers of all nations appear at the assembly sessions from 12 to 12:30 p. m. Yesterday C. C. Hung of the Washington Chinese Community Church appeared with some of his Chinese boys. Mrs. Roma Palit on Monday will tell tales that children of India like to hear, and Mrs. F. Moravec will speak on "Children and Customs of Czechoslovakia," sometime next week.

"We feel that we are accomplishing our aim just to have the children of all nations and religions learning to play together and respect each other. It's the more subtle approach to religion, and is as much fun for the teachers as for the children," Mrs. Draisner said.

The Community Vacation School will be open through August 15.

100th Anniversary Of India Martyr To Be Observed

Washington Baha'is, together with members of the Baha'i World Faith in 100 countries, will observe the 100th anniversary of prophet- martyr Bab, Sunday.

Dr. Palit

"A Common Denominator in Religion" will be the topic of Dr. A. R. Palit, scientist and director of the Indian Embassy Supply Mission at Pierce Hall, 16th and Harvard sts. nw., at 8:15 p. m. Sunday, Spiritual Assembly headquarters announced.

Playwright William Sears, chairman of the Philadelphia Baha'i Assembly is to speak on "The Martyr Prophet of a New World Faith."

Trinity Lutheran To Conduct School Starting Monday

The last of the vacation Bible school announcements list classes at the following:

Trinity Lutheran Church, Hyattsville, Md., will conduct its school July 10 to 21, from 9 a. m. to 12 noon, under the direction of the Rev. Edwin E. Pieplow, pastor.

"Friendship and the Community," is the theme of a cooperative church school to be conducted by Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church and the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church. Classes will meet from 1:30 p. m. to 4:30 p. m. in the Community House of Mount Vernon Place Church, 900 Massachusetts ave. nw.

Hull Springs will be camping grounds for girls, 9 to 11, on July 16-29, and 12 to 14, on July 30-August 12. The camp activities are also sponored by the Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church.

500 Adventists Depart for Frisco Parley

During the past two weeks, more than 500 Seventh Day Adventist officials, institutional delegates and their families left Takoma Park, Md. bound for San Francisco to attend the first session of the forty-sixth General Conference on July 10.

Precouncil meeting of 100 or more general conference officials have been held at Takoma Park to make final arrangements for the quadrennial world meeting, Adventist headquarters said.

Officials Going

Elder J. Lamar McElhany, retiring president; Ernest D. Dick, secretary, and William Nelson, treasurer, are among those attending the San Francisco meeting.

Since Takoma Park is the world headquarters for Seventh Day Adventists, the new officials will live in this area. The Washington Sanitarium, Washington Missionary College, Review and Herald Publishing Association, Columbia Union Conference, the local Potomac Conference, and the Theological Seminary are located here.

For 12 days sessions of the conference will hear reports from "13 organizational divisions on medical work, school system, youth programs and other phases of worldwide work," according to Takoma Park headquarters.

Elder to Speak

Elder McElhany will address an expected 15,000 delegates at the opening evening meeting, July 10.

Discussions to center around the "closing of all denomination missionary work in China several months ago," and the "rising menace of communism in relation to Adventist work" has been announced for discussion.

Sixty-eight countries expected to be represented include nationals from Singapore, Korea, South America, Mexico, Guatemala, Nigeria, Burma, India, Indonesia and the Solomon Islands.

William H. Anders, pioneer missionary, who established the first station in Africa 54 years ago, will receive special honors.

Dr. Elson to Preach On 'Quest for Peace'

As his last sermon topic for the summer, the Rev. Dr. Edward L. R. Elson, pastor of the National Presbyterian Church, Connecticut ave. at N st., nw., plans to preach on "Christian Alternatives and the Quest for Peace."

During Dr. Elson's absence, the list of guest speakers includes: The Rev. Dr. Louis H. Evans, of Hollywood, Calif., July 16; the Rt. Rev. Roy D. Whitehorn, of the Presbyterian Church of England, August 20, and the Rev. Dr. David R. C. Read, chaplain of University of Edinburgh, Scotland, August 27.

Christian Endeavor Conference

Four Washington delegates plan to attend the World's Christian Endeavor Union convention, delayed eight years by World War II, to be held July 22-26 in London.

Composed of 40 national units with a membership of two million Protestant youth, delegates from all over the world are expected.

"They will outline the strategy of the organization's operations for the next four years, discuss world peace, compare notes, pool resources and try to be some help to unfortunate people," the Rev. Dr. Ernest R. Bryan, president of the International Society of Christian Endeavor for the United States and Canadian groups, said this week.

Dr. Bryan, who lives at 5203 Massachusetts ave. nw., intends to leave July 20 by chartered plane from New York with his daughter, Carol, and Miss Helen E. Beiswanger, 1636 Kalmia rd. nw., another delegate.

The Rev. Harold V. Porter, pastor of Westminster Memorial Presbyterian Church, 434 7th st. sw., is listed among the delegates of the International Society who will attend from Canada and United States.

New Thought Group to Meet

The thirty-fifth annual Congress of the International New Thought Alliance is scheduled to convene at the Statler Hotel at 2:30 p. m. Sunday.

"Our 1950 Challenge" by Miss Florence E. Frisbie 4522 Warren st. nw, chairman of the Congress, will inaugurate the program. Dr. Robert H. Bitzer INTA president will address a public meeting in the Presidential room at 8 p. m. on "Thy Kingdom Come."

Other lectures listed for July 9 through July 14 include "The Secret of Successful Living," "Peace of Mind," and "Television Eyes."

Theologian to Speak On Cathedral Steps

The Rev. Clifton E. Olmstead, philosophy and religion instructor at American University will address an outdoor vesper service at 7 p. m. Sunday, on the Pilgrim Steps of the Washington Cathedral.

Mr. Olmstead will speak on "The World's Major Religions," the Washington Federation of Christian Youth announced yesterday.

German Visit To Promote Fellowship

Two German religious leaders arrived in Washington this week "to promote world fellowship" under United States Government auspices in cooperation with the World Council of Churches.

Dr. Wunderlich

The Rev. Dr. Frederick Wunderlich, president of Methodist Theological Seminary in Frankfurt, will address the Calvary Methodist Church, 1459 Columbia rd. nw, on Sunday at 8:45 a. m. and 11 a. m. The other visitor, Dr. Manfred Mueller, pastor of Lutheran Church in Stuttgart and leader of all young people's societies in Southern Germany, will continue on to Philadelphia.

"In Frankfurt I think there was not one week in which we did not have an American visitor, and now it is my privilege to repay the visits," Dr. Wunderlich said yesterday.

He visited in the United States in 1948 to attend the Methodist Church Conference at Boston, Mass. In 1923 he received his masters degree at Northwestern University.

"The tour," Dr. Wunderlich explained, is "to promote mutual understanding of our countries, especially among Christian brothers."

Dr. Mueller and he will meet at the World Council of Christian Education meeting in Toronto, August 10 through 16 after completing their scheduled good-will tours.

25 Area Men Named to Board Of Youth Group

Twenty-five Washington business and professional men have been elected to the Board of Trustees of the Catholic Youth Organization of the Archdiocese of Washington, Leo A. Rover, president of the C.Y.O. announced yesterday.

They are: Superintendent of Police Robert J. Barrett, Fire Chief Joseph A. Mayhew, J. Matson Cunningham, jr., James A. Sullivan, Robert V. Viner, Richard L. Lamb, Leo F. Stock, jr., Dr. William P. Argy, Dr. Michael F. Kennedy, Michael F. Keough, George I. Borger, Earl P. Ready, Herbert R. Grindner, Thomas A. Cannon 3d, Charles E. Ford, Francis J. Collins, John J. Slattery, John M. Beauty Contest Deadline

The deadline for entries in the "Miss Washington" beauty-talent contest, sponsored by the Washington Junior Chamber of Commerce and Radio Station WWDC, is tonight at midnight.

New Census Poses Redistricting Problem for Va.

Richmond, Va., July 7 (AP).—Virginia's 1950 population count apparently has confronted the General Assembly with another problem of redistricting to provide equitable legislative representation in the Senate and House of Delegates.

Ten years ago a State commission reduced the number of House districts from 83 to 77 and the number of senatorial districts to 36. In the Senate, it gave a new seat to Arlington but declined any extensive reshuffling.

Governor Battle has appointed a nine-member commission to study the problem and redistrict the State on the basis of the new decennial census.

On the basis of the present allocation, Halifax County with a population of 41,457 has the same representation in the Senate as does Norfolk County-Portsmouth-South Norfolk with a combined population of 182,776.

DP Family of 25 Will Settle in Md.; 11 to Arrive Today

Eleven of the 25-member Federov family from the Soviet Urkaine will be among 738 DPs arriving in New York today, the United Press reported yesterday.

They are Nikifor Federov, his wife Olga, a son Ivan, with his wife and two children, and another son Michail and his family of four.

The 14 other Federov sons, inlaws and grandchildren will come to this country later and all will settle at New Windsor, Md.

In 1931 Papa Federov was stripped of all his possessions and sentenced to five years in a Siberian concentration camp. Other family members were sent to forced labor in the forests.

Square Dance Planned

The Mount Vernon, Va., Citizens' Association will give an old-fashioned square dance at Fort Hunt Park at 8:30 p. m. Tuesday. Admission will be voluntary contributions at the gate. Proceeds will go for additional equipment for the Hollin Hall School playground.

Miss Katherine E. Bowers, public relations assistant at the Hamilton National Bank, who has just returned from a pilgrimage to Rome, and a tour of Europe, will give "do's" and don'ts" of traveling abroad in The Washington Post Sunday travel pages.

Pleven Designated To End French Crisis

500 Convene Here

25th Division 'Old Timers' Hold Reunion

The Twenty-fifth Infantry Division is on the move.

In Japan it is one of the four divisions girding for the Korean warfare. These are the "new guys."

In Washington yesterday some 500 "oldtimers" of the Twenty-fifth converged on the Statler Hotel to keep alive the "esprit de corps" of the "tropic lightning" division of World War II.

Although some cast worried eyes at newspaper headlines, most concentrated on conversation along these lines:

"You remember the time we moved up on Vella LaVella . . .

"Old Sergeant Johnson, what became of him? What's he doing now?

"Well, how are you? I didn't recognize you in civies."

Remember Funny Incidents

Then as first greetings wore off and the inevitable pictures of the offspring were exchanged, the conversations turned to the "funny incidents—not the sad ones; not the guys who were killed," said Arthur Barratt of Natick, Mass.

He recalled the officer who insisted on boiling hot coffee in steaming Guadalcanal, New Caledonia and the Philippines.

"One day the cook, who was fed up with his complaints about cold coffee, got it up as hot as he could. It was so hot it melted the old guy's bridgework."

The key man at the reunion is Lieut. Col. Stanley R. Larsen, acting chairman of the Division Association. He is an aide to Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Chief of Staff of the Army and onetime commander of the division.

Larsen said the association was formed last February when 15 to 20 officers, formerly of the 25th, met in the Fort Myer Officers Club. Out of this grew an organization dedicated to keeping the 25th tradition alive through reunions and publications. No politicking—that's taboo, Larsen declared.

Tonight is the big night when the banquet and dance are held.

Paris, July 7 (NYHT).—Rene Pleven, former Defense Minister, tonight accepted the task of trying to end France's two-week-old political crisis and reforming the anti-Communist and anti-Gaullist parliamentary majority in the government under him as Premier.

Pleven, who worked in the French Resistance as one of Gen. Charles de Gaulle's chief advisers in London and Algiers, accepted the nomination as Premier-designate after the Socialist Party had proposed a formula providing a better deal for labor as the only means of solving the political crisis.

Pleven is the leader of a small splinter party—the Democratic and Socialist Union of the Resistance—close to the moderate Radical Socialists.

The attitude of the Radical Socialist Party to the Socialists' insistence on wage reforms was a decisive factor in the government crisis, which has no connection with foreign policy with the exception of the Communist line.

A statement from the Radical Socialist Parliamentarians said they were in a conciliatory mood, if not completely won over to the Socialist program of pay rises to wrest control of organized labor from the Communists.

The developments followed two days of mediation by Socialist Leader Guy Mollet to find a basis of agreement for the "third force" coalition.

While declining to become Premier-designate, he undertook the truce mission at the request of President Vincent Auriol after Socialist insistence on improve living standards for workers had overthrown two French governments since June 24.

French Assembly Group Backs U.S. Action in Korea

Paris, July 7 (AP).—The French National Assembly's Foreign Affairs Committee today approved, 25 to 13, United States action in Korea. The opposing votes were cast by Communists, who proposed a motion terming the U. S. action "aggression." It was defeated by the same vote.

NLRB Ends Hearings On Pressmen's Dispute

Hearings were completed here yesterday on conflicting claims of Local 1 and Local 351, International Printing Pressmen's Union, to represent 250 employes of the commercial print shops in this area.

The hearings, held before an official of the National Labor Relations Board, ran two days. The parent union urged the NLRB not to recognize the claims of Local 1, thereby making the dispute a unique one.

PLAYMATES—Three-year-old Betty Jean LeBrun of Newton, Mass., has two baby robin playmates, Brownie (left) and Sparkie. The friendship began a few weeks ago when Sparkie fell out of his nest. Betty Jean treated the injured bird's leg and fed him so well he didn't want to return to his nest. Brother Brownie tumbled out of the nest a few days later. He was fed and returned home. Now both birds flutter out of their nest and perch on Betty Jean's shoulder whenever she calls them

20 Red Agents a Day Reported Slipping Across Line Into West

Bonn, Germany, July 7 (U.P.).—At least 20 Communist agents and couriers slip across the border from the Russian zone daily as part of a three-pronged Soviet espionage campaign, the chief of Western Germany's unofficial counter-spy organization said today.

The reports of this intelligence network, which are highly rated and relied upon by both Allied agencies and the Bonn government, show that Communist spywork here is now organized in these three channels:

1. The overt Communist Party (KPD), whose importance has shrunk to the point of triviality in intelligence matters.

2. An undercover organization, referred to by the intelligence chief as "the illegal Communist Party." It is staffed primarily by men sent here from the Soviet zone and is considered the greatest present danger from the espionage viewpoint.

3. A highly-trained "elite corps" of fanatic Communists, under direct Russian control and freshly schooled in sabotage techniques. Information about this group, bearing the code-name "Tersch," is skimpy and Western files on it are still thin.

Leopold, Wife Expect Second Child in 1951

Brussels, Belgium, July 7 (AP).—The death of King Leopold's mother-in-law led to an announcement today that the exiled monarch and his wife, Princess de Rethy, are expecting a second baby early in 1951.

The announcement was made by a secretary of Leopold in Geneva, Switzerland, where the King is awaiting Parliament's decision on his bid to return to the Belgian throne. It explained that the princess will be unable, because of her condition, to travel to Belgium for the funeral of her mother, Mrs. Henri Baels, who died in Ostend yesterday.

A sidelight was the arrest of her son Walter Baels, 40, as an Army deserter when he sought to enter Belgium.

Police took Baels into custody at the French-Belgian border. He was sentenced in abstentia in 1946 to three years in prison for desertion. The charge was based on his failure to report when he was called to service with the Belgian Army in 1940. Men involved in such cases usually are released soon after being apprehended.

King Leopold and Princess De Rethy were married in 1941, a year after he had surrendered Belgium's army to the Germans. A striking brunette, she was a commoner. The marriage was opposed by many Belgians. The couple's first child, Prince Alexandre, will be 8 years old July 18.

The King has three children by his first wife, Queen Astrid. Of these, Prince Baudouin, 19, is the heir apparent.

The Belgian Parliament is to debate next week the Social Christian (Catholic) government's proposal for cancellation of bars to the King's return.

Legion Post Indorses District Home Rule

Home rule for the District was indorsed by the George Washington Post, No. 1, American Legion, at a meeting Thursday night in the American Legion Hall.

The post will urge the District Department to go on record favoring the proposal at its convention July 20 to 22 at the Shoreham Hotel.

ECA Nations Agree to Set Up European Payments Union

Paris, July 7 (AP).—The 18 European members of the Marshall Plan agreed unanimously today to set up a European payments Union (EPU), designed to open new channels for freeing world trade.

In general, the EPU will act as a clearing house where member nations will settle accounts with all others as a group instead of individually, as at present.

Robert Marjolin, Secretary-General of the European Economic Cooperation Organization (OEEC) which helps administer the Marshall Plan, termed the move the "most important financial decision since the foundation of the World Bank" in 1946.

It provides Europe's first post-war multilateral trading system, a significant step toward unfettered commerce, Marjolin told a news conference.

Foreign and finance ministers, or their deputies, from the Marshall Plan nations adopted the EPU after Switzerland, the last holdout, had agreed to its provisions. The ministers were sitting as the general council of the OEEC, which will put the EPU into operation.

The OEEC has still to draft the detailed convention for EPU operation, a process estimated to take another two or three weeks.

The final payments union convention is expected to be signed early in August. Its provisions are to be retroactive to July 1.

United States aid funds will furnish the EPU's initial operating capital and pay administrative costs. American sources said the capital will be between 300 million dollars and 375 million dollars. An OEEC official predicted it will be 350 million dollars.

This money will come from the 600 million dollars authorized by Congress to promote multilateral trade in Europe.

Store Sales Here Remain Firm in Week

By S. Oliver Goodman

Washington department store sales in the week ended July 1 showed a 1 per cent increase over the like 1949 week, while sales on a nationwide basis were up 10 per cent in the same period.

The local "lag" was easily explained. In Washington, stores were open Saturday, July 1, and also on Saturday, July 2, 1949. In many other cities, however, the July 1 week had an advantage over a year ago because stores remained open on Saturday this time which had begun Saturday summer closings in the 1949 week.

Incidentally, major stores here inaugurate their summer Saturday closings today.

Meanwhile department stores apparently were paring their orders for new goods compared with earlier months this year but were still buying more heavily than a year ago. The Federal Reserve Board reported yesterday that orders outstanding on May 1, 1950, were valued at $251 million by 296 large stores compared with $270 million on April 30 and $207 on May 31, 1950.

The same outlets had inventories valued at $901 million at the end of May, $926 million at the end of April and $876 million at the end of May last year.

Dun & Bradstreet in its weekly retail comment noted that fighting in Korea caused little or no increase in consumer buying in the past week.

"The lengthy Fourth of July weekend," the research agency said, "served as a sales spur in the week ended this Wednesday as shoppers responded favorably to summer clearances . . . Country-wide retail dollar volume was slightly above the level for the corresponding period of 1949. There was no appreciable reflection of international developments upon consumer spending."

ALL SOLD: An offering of 105,000 additional shares of $10-par stock of National Bank of Washington has been sold. Common shareholders of the bank through rights subscribed to 104,680 shares at $20 a share. Johnston, Lemon & Co. as underwriters reported that the remaining 320 shares were privately placed. Bank of Washington's recapitalization plan is now complete. The original stock was split 10 for 1, par value was changed to $10 a share and outstanding stock was increased 100 percent. The bank now has capital of $2,100,000 and surplus of $2,100,000.

ASSENTS: Atlantic Coast Line Railroad Co. yesterday reported that assents have been received from holders of more than 51 percent of the outstanding first consolidated mortgage 4 percent bonds, due 1952. President C. McD. Davis stated that as of July 6 over 1020 bondholders with aggregate holdings in excess of $26,200,000 principal amount of the $50,724,000 outstanding bonds had given their assent. The company's offer provides for exchange of these bonds for new general mortgage 4 percent bonds, due March 1, 1980, bearing interest at the rate of 4½ percent. The exchange offer will terminate July 26.

AUTO FRONT: Kaiser-Frazer Corp. laid off its 10,000 production workers at Willow Run, Mich., "indefinitely" Thursday night due to a shortage of transmissions caused by a strike at Borg-Warner's Indiana plant . . . General Motors Corp. produced 386,934 cars and trucks in June, highest for any month in its history. Output for first six months also set a new peak of 1,883,902, up 520,693 from the same 1949 period.

ODD LOTS: Lewyt Corp., reported receipt of a $16,750,000 contract from the Army Signal Corps for manufacture of radio transmitters and receivers . . . Walter A. Buck, retired rear admiral, has been named vice president and general manager of the RCA Victor Division of Radio Corp. of America . . . General Telephone Corp. offered its common stockholders the right to subscribe to 199,350 additional shares of common at $25 a share . . . Republic Aviation Corp., has purchased 500 acres of airport and aircraft plant area near Farmingdale, N. Y., from the Government for $5,332,000.

American Viscose Hikes Prices 5% on Yarns

New York, July 7 (AP).—American Viscose Corp. today announced approximate 5 percent price increases in its textile viscose process and acetate process rayon yarns.

The increases, effective July 7, will not affect rayon tire cord and rayon staple.

The company said it has maintained unchanged prices for some time but increased production costs make the adjustment necessary.

Wesson Oil Net Soars Despite Drop in Sales

New York, July 7 (AP).—Wesson Oil & Snowdrift Co., Inc., in a report for 9 months ended June 3 showed net profit of $5,623,572, equal to $4.07 a common share. This compared with $2,376,157, or $1.28 a share, in the ninth month ended May 28, 1949.

Net sales dropped to $116,620,483 from $141,038,446 in the 1949 period. Operating profit rose to $9,220,644, however, from $3,378,475 a year ago when it was reduced by a provision of six million dollars for reduction in valuation of inventories.

One on the Aisle—

Youth Has a Fling In Warner 'Rogues'

By Richard L. Coe

"ROGUES OF SHERWOOD FOREST," at the Warner, is one of those history-on-the-half-shell projects that also allows you to reflect that Alan-a-Dale, Will Scarlet, Friar Tuck and ole whatzisname have been reading "Life Begins at 97" and "How to Hold Onto Your Glands."

Which is perfectly ducky with me because, though hearty in a Dale Carnegie sort of way, they were and are good fun, especially Billy House's friar and Alan Hale's Little John.

This time, under the leadership of John Derek, they're forcing the Magna Carta out of King John, so you can't say things don't happen in "Rogues of Sherwood Forest," including Technicolor.

But what does absolutely shake me about "Rogues of Sherwood Forest" is this child Derek. I don't know how old John is and, after thinking about it for a half-hour and a pack of hashish, I'm pretty sure I don't care. But he certainly looks to me as though he should be tucked into bed by 10 at the latest.

Good Lord, I keep thinking to myself, I'm hitting 29; in fact, I've been hitting 29 for years now, and here's this kid whacking out Magna Carta and I'm still going to the movies. Thomas Jefferson was 33 when he wrote the Declaration of Independence, but he was a pretty studious fellow even though he did ride a horse, which, of course, everybody had to in those days and, anyway, he didn't have movies.

I don't know whether you saw John in "Knock on Any Door" and "All the King's Men," but he has the face of a choir boy day-dreaming through the sermon. They've fitted a mustache on him, though I'm not sure Jerry Colonna would call it that, and they gave you a wispy hint that there's hair on his chest, but I've been to the circus enough not to be taken in by such mild skullduggery. And if the child is fully grown. I'm sorry, because they do say men of 5 feet 4 get awfully tangled psychologically.

"ROGUES OF SHERWOOD FOREST." Columbia Pictures release produced by Fred M. Packard. Screen play by George Bruce, from a story by Ralph Bettinson. Photographed in Technicolor by Charles Lawton. Music by Heinz Roemheld and Arthur Morton. Directed by Gordon Douglas. At the Warner.

Good News for Youth

Now please don't think I'm critizing John. I'm not. Nor his employers. They take mighty good care of him, see that he doesn't try too many hair-raising leaps and stunts on horseback. That's one of the great things about the movies. They can show you John, an arrow in his bow, and the next shot gives you an arrow in someone's chest and all us mugs are willing to say, yes, John's a whacking good shot.

No, what I'm getting at is the way history in the movies gets younger and younger. It's all mighty stimulating to think that Robin Hood's son, a mere child, can rouse the nobles of England into revolt after, mind you, he's already been "The" hero of the Crusades, at least that's what the King says. This year we've had a Samson to whom 20 years were the length of a radio jingle, and a child widow of 18 who brought Texas into the Union. And now John's revolutionary.

So, you kids, if you're young, and all those books about decrepitude bore you, take heart. The past will be yours.

MARY MARTIN, who broke other hearts as well as her own by having to give into illness after her 505th "South Pacific" performance, is back in the cast, but there's even a tougher story in back of that... Sandra Deel, one of the "Oklahoma!" darlings, was Mary's understudy for a year, never got a chance... Offered a lead in the touring "Miss Liberty," Sandra bowed out of "SP" for a road tour in the Irving Berlin musical, which came to a sudden halt in Chicago... Billie Worth, who succeeded Sandra, reaped the publicity and raves when she took over from Mary, and now theres more talk of a third "SP" company the turn of the year... No biz like show biz, huh?

ROBERT LOWERY, lunching with Vicki Cummings at Olmsted's reveals that he's Lulu McConnell's nephew, the wonderful Lulu of "It Pays to be Ignorant," which, so far as I'm concerned, is the only radio program worth listening to... Lulu was signed by Metro to take Marie Dressler's place; they insisted on yanking all her teeth and, during $1500 a week for a full year, discovered that the false uppers were picked up on the soundtrack... So Lulu never got Marie's programmed parts... Long a musical comedy joy, Lulu lured her Kansas nephew into the movies and now he's an unabashed King of the B's.

SIBYL BOWMAN, whose mimicry is a laughable headline everywhere she goes, from F st. to the late war fronts, is letting us all down by getting married.... The fellow who'll have laughs in his life is Tom F. Stapleton of New York's coffee set; St. Patrick's will see the wedding march as soon as they can find the right home.... Writes Sib: "I have the ring (four karats), I have the man. The dress and the priests are ready. But no apartment!"... Sib's now a big hit in "Roberta" at the famed Paper Mill Playhouse, but where, she wants to know, will she find the right Gotham apartment?... You be good to that girl, Tom, and start by installing an ice cream soda bar.

ROBIN AND LITTLE JOHN: John Derek, as Robin Hood's son, and Alan Hale, as Little John, in "Rogues of Sherwood Forest." The Warner Technicolored adventure tells you how young Robin got the nobles to force King John into signing Magna Carta

Chinese Reds Free U. S. Ship Captain

San Francisco, July 7 (AP).—Capt. William Murray, skipper of the California Bear, has been released by the Chinese Communists and is on his way home, Pacific Far East Lines officials announced today.

Murray, who remained at Tientsin to help settle claims following a collision of his ship and the Chinese ship Sinan last April, was reported "apparently in perfect health."

Mineral Oil Aids Suspect to Flee Prison Ward

Los Angeles, July 7 (U.P.).—A burglary suspect escaped from a 13th floor prison ward today by greasing himself with mineral oil, squeezing through a tiny hole and lowering himself by a makeshift rope.

William B. Rakoski, 23, wanted by New Jersey and Louisiana authorities, was arrested several weeks ago. He was taken to General Hospital's prison ward for an appendectomy June 30.

After squeezing through a 7- by 10-inch space in a barred window, the 5-foot 6-inch suspect lowered himself to the 12th floor with a rope he fashioned of bed ties used to restrain violent patients.

On the 12th floor he pulled the rope after him and repeated the performance until he reached the eighth floor.

Officer G. E. Simmers saw Rakoski drop 37 feet from the eighth floor to the concrete floor of a sun deck on the fifth. Simmers said he got up, walked through a door into the hospital and disappeared.

Vishinsky Back Soon, Moscow Envoys Hear

Moscow, July 7 (AP).—Diplomatic circles in Moscow expect Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky back at work soon. They have been told by the Soviet Foreign Office that he has been on vacation.

Vishinsky was not present at the meeting of the Supreme Soviet (Parliament) of the U. S. S. R. which began June 12.

The continued absence of Vishinsky from the public scene gave rise in diplomatic circles outside Russia to speculation that he was on a mission to Asia.

Dulles Asks Boost In Production of Military Material

Hamilton, N. Y., July 7 (AP).—John Foster Dulles said tonight the United States should step up military production to prevent further aggressions by Russian-equipped Communist forces.

The Republican foreign policy adviser to the State Department said the Soviet Union may not be prepared to commit its total might to total war "because of its relative economic weakness."

But, Dulles said, "international communism is prepared to use, in open warfare, the armed forces of puppet and satellite Communist states which are equipped with armament of Russian manufacture."

"Even now it is not too late to put peace onto a more stable basis than ever before," Dulles asserted

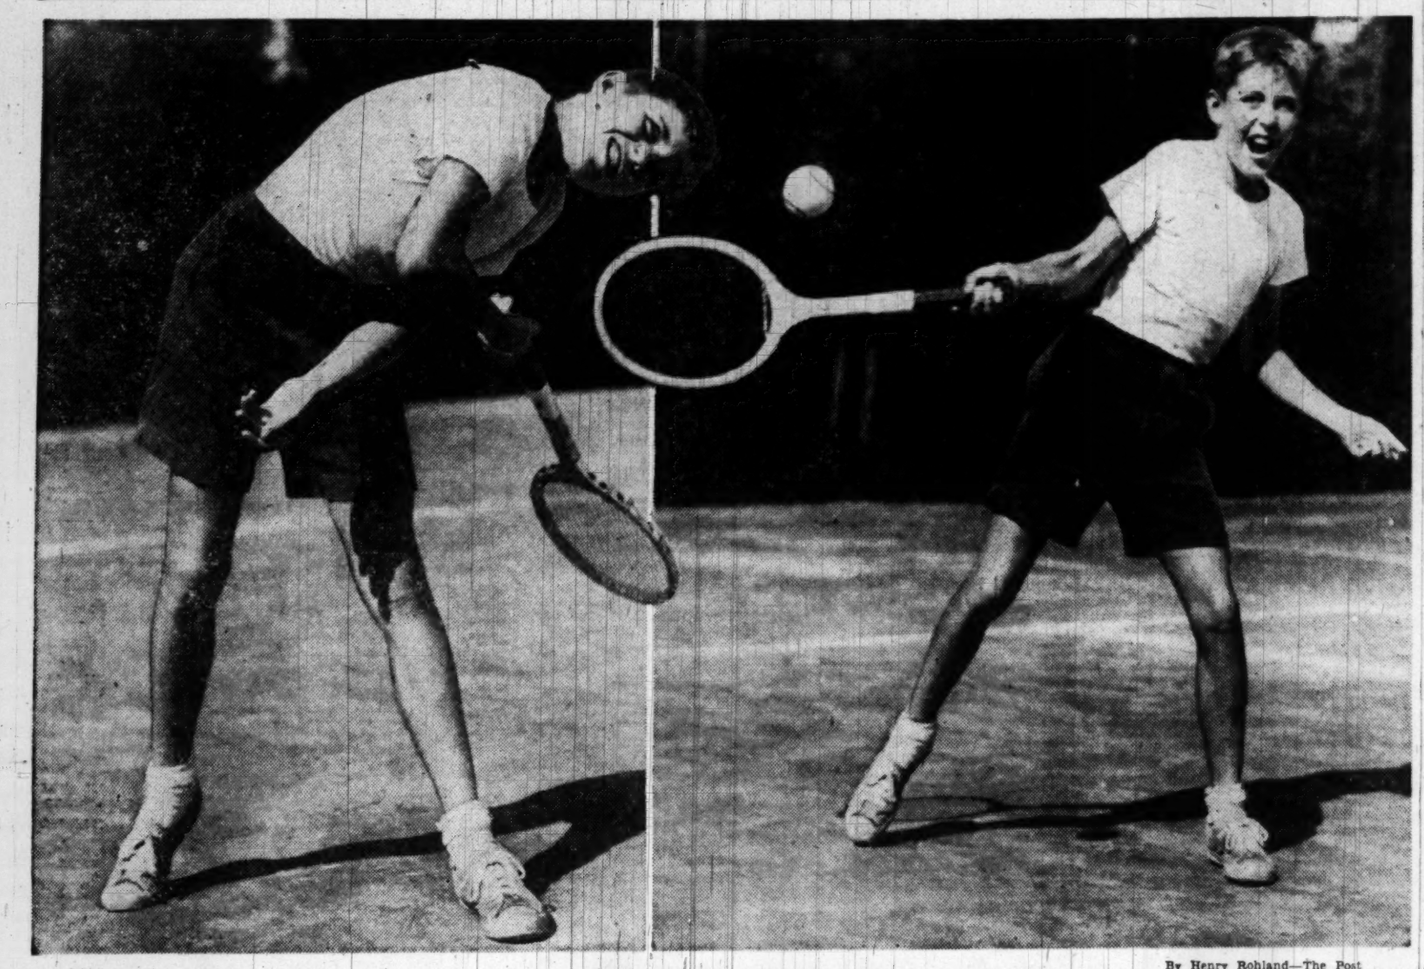
Nats Pelt A's for 18 Hits, Win Behind Haynes, 7-5



By Henry Rohland—The Post

Yost's Four Hits, Homer By Stewart Rout Hooper

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

Philadelphia, July 8—The Nats made a stab at making one hit for each of the 2464 customers in sparsely-settled Shibe Park tonight, and then happily compromised on an 18-hit output and a 7-5 victory over the Athletics.

It was no breeze despite the rat-a-tat they beat out against Bob Hooper and Ed Burtschey, the A's pitchers, and Mickey Harris had to pitch himself out of trouble in the ninth after Philadelphia put the tying run on base with none out.

Joe Haynes did more to win the ball game than anybody else. From that unexpected source, Manager Bucky Harris got a superb relief pitching job. Haynes walked into the contest with one out in the third inning, two on base and Chico Marrero suffering.

Harris Gets in Deep Trouble

In the next five and a third innings, Haynes didn't give up a run. Harris retired him for a pinch-hitter in the ninth, and then almost rued it when Mickey Harris got in trouble.

A single by Moses, a walk to Valo and another single by Chapman filled the bases with none out, and Harris trying to protect a 7-4 lead. He tightened nicely at that point, got rid of Hitchcock on a fly that scored Moses, struck out Suder and then held Wahl to a modest fly to Noren.

Only the pitchers went hitless as the Nats fattened their batting averages down the line against righthander Hooper. Despite 16 hits he allowed, Hooper was left in by Connie Mack for seven full innings. Eddie Yost blasted four hits, Noren and Vernon each accumulated three.

Marrero wasn't exactly baffling the A's, either. They rapped him for eight hits in the two and third innings he lasted, but he was still able to retire with a 5-4 lead, so smartly were the Nats belaboring Hooper.

They wrenched three runs out of Hooper in the first inning after Yost led off with a single to center. Singles by Noren and Vernon scored him, and then Cass Michaels doubled against the left field wall. Vernon, ignoring Coach George Myatt's frantic hold-up signs, scored all the way from first.

In the third, they made it 5-1, on Noren's double off the right center wall, Vernon's single to center, a single by Mele and Dente's long foul.

Chapman Homers

But Marrero gave three runs right back to the A's. Chapman walloped his 13th homer into the left field seats with Valo on base, and then Hitchcock doubled, and Suder and Wahl singled. That's when Haynes got the job.

Eddie Stewart gave Haynes another run to work with in the sixth, upping his lead to 6-4, with an inside-the-park homer. It was a line drive to center on which Chapman missed a shoestring catch and the ball rolled to the deepest corner.

Sam Dente led off the seventh with a double, and two outs later Lost scored him with a single to center to make it 7-4. The Nats filled the bases against Rookie Burtschy with none out in the ninth, but couldn't score, although they're not mad about that right now.

IN SHORT . . . The 18-to-25 draft of single men leaves the Nats unbothered. They don't have any . . . ex-Nat Billy Hitchcock showed his temper after Marrero brushed him off with a head-high pitch tonight. He tried to drag the Cuban into the path of a bunt, and when he scored later in the inning he went into Catcher Al Evans with spikes high . . . Mickey Vernon's run-production is zooming. He has drive in 22 with the 26 hits he has made since being obtained from Cleveland . . . the A's were struggling even to put a team on the field. Eddie Joost is in the hospital with a twisted knee, and Ferris Fain is out with a lame back. Second baseman Pete Suder was drafted for first base.

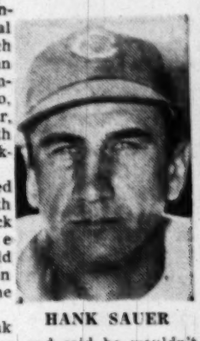
In All-Star Game

Chandler Orders Shotton to Use Sauer

Cincinnati, July 7 (AP).—Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler today ruled that Hank Sauer, slugging Chicago Cub, must be in the starting lineup of the National League club in the All-Star game next Tuesday.

Sauer was chosen for a starting position by the fans in a Nation-wide poll.

DUKE SNIDER



HANK SAUER

Burt Shotton, manager of the National League team which will play American League stars at Comiskey Park, Chicago, had decided, however, to replace Sauer with Duke Snider of Brooklyn.

It was announced yesterday that both Chandler and Frick permission to use Snider in centerfield had given Shotton for the start of the game.

Manager Frank Frisch of the Cubs protested Shotton's action and said he wouldn't blame Sauer if he didn't show up for the game.

Sauer was voted an outfield spot in a poll of baseball fans along with Enos Slaughter of St. Louis and Ralps Kiner of Pittsburgh. Shotton said he made the request because none of the starters picked by the fans was a centerfielder.

"If the commissioner says I don't play Snider then I don't play him, and there is nothing I can do about it," declared Shotton today.

Shotton said he had not yet made up his mind how he would line up the National League outfield, which is composed of Sauer, Ralph Kiner and Enos Slaughter.

"Baseball committed itself to play the men chosen by the fans," Chandler told a newsman.

"The point was raised by Arch Ward of the Chicago Tribune, (which originated the all-star game) in a protest to me. He said the poll would lose its value if it was not followed—that it would be a breach of baseball's word. I agree. So do the others. It is the only proper thing to do."

Commissioner Chandler said the matter of a starting outfield for the National Leaguers came up before the poll was completed.

"Ford Frick called and asked for permission to use a center fielder in the starting lineup," Chandler said. "I cleared it with Will Harridge, then Arch Ward called and protested.

"Today, I called Frick and said the lineup should be that chosen in the poll. He agreed. Sauer will be in the lineup—at least for the first three innings, in keeping with the fans' desires."

Tigers Top Tribe, Yanks Down Bosox by 5-2

Gray Hurls Four-Hitter For 10th Win

Detroit, July 7 (AP).—Lefthander Teddy Gray of the Detroit Tigers set the hard-hitting Cleveland Indians down with four hits tonight as he posted a 5 to 2 decision for his tenth triumph of the season.

A crowd of 55,145 saw Gray edge out Bobby Feller and gain revenge for a 5-3 setback he suffered at Feller's hands last Sunday.

The win kept the league-leading Tigers three and a half games ahead of the New York Yankees who beat Boston tonight.

Detroit surged into a four-run lead in the first inning as nine men went to bat against Feller, who now has an 8-7 record. Four hits and two walks figured in the scoring with Gerry Priddy's two-run homer, his fifth of the season, the big wallop that got Gray off to a flying start.

Harvard Crew Wins in Henley

Henley-On-Thomas, England, July 7 (AP).—Harvard nudged the last British boat out of the Grand Challenge Cup in the Royal Henley Regatta today.

The Crimson crew beat an underdog London Rowing Club eight by a length and a quarter over the one mile, 550 yards course.

Little Potato Stars at Third Base Too

Best Cuban Player of All Heading Nats' Way; He Pitches Shutouts, Slugs Homers

AN ASSOCIATED PRESS story out of Big Spring, Tex., tells about another sensational Cuban whom the irrepressible Joe Cambria has cornered for the Nats.

His name is Carlos Pascual, and he's nicknamed "Potato." He's only 19 years old, and he's not sure whether he's a third baseman, pitcher or outfielder.

Nats' Vice President Calvin Griffith is sure of this though: "He has the best arm of anybody in Organized Baseball."

Potato has been playing for Big Spring, a Class D subsidiary of the Nats' Havana farm club for two season. Last year, he slugged Longhorn League pitching for a .366 average, drove in 125 runs and clouted 25 homers, and he's hovering around the .360 mark now.

He had just settled down to being the best third sacker and outfielder in the league when on July 4, Manager Pat Stasey called on Potato to pitch the first game of a double-header against the first place Odessa.

He shut 'em out, 8-0, in the first game, and came back to win the second one too, 4-0. In his double shutout, he allowed a-total of five hits, struck out 10, and pitched a hitless stretch of 10 1-3 innings.

Potato worked out with Havana, the team which this season spawned two of Washington's pitching mainstays, Conrado Marrero and Sandalio Conseugra. Cambria, who owns Havana and Big Spring and "discovered" all the Nats' Latin players, decided that the pocket-sized Potato (he's only 5 feet, 4 inches tall) needed another season in D ball under his belt.

Griffith said, "We're keeping an eye on the boy. He's still young, so he has a good chance of coming up with us if he keeps up the good work."

Steal in 11th Beats Cubs, 5-4

Chicago, July 7 (AP).—Connie Ryan stole home on Johnny Vander Meer today to score the run that gave the Cincinnati Reds a 5-4 victory in 11 innings over the Chicago Cubs.

Vander Meer, who entered the game in the tenth inning, lost his fourth decision without yielding a hit.

Browns Take Chisox in 10th, 4-3, After Losing to Cain, 5-2

St. Louis, July 7 (AP).—The St. Louis Browns edged Chicago, 4-3 in ten innings tonight after the White Sox took the first game of a twi-light-night doubleheader, 5-2.

Owen Friend drove in the winning run of the second contest with a single.

Young Bobby Cain hurled a five-hitter in the opener and Dave Philley's two-run homer in the seventh carried him to his fifth victory.

St. Louis' Roy Sievers gave Cain all his trouble, banging three hits including a home run.

Houtteman, Lemon Available for All-Star Game

Detroit, July 7 (AP).—Art Houtteman and Bob Lemon, two of the best right-handers in the American League, will pitch against each other Sunday and then be teammates on the American League's all-star squad Tuesday.

Each will be seeking his twelfth victory when they meet Sunday.

Then, even though they will have had one day's rest, the two will be available for service in the all-star game. Both Managers Lou Boudreau of the Indians and Red Rolfe of the Tigers have given the okay for using the two hurlers despite the short rest they will have had.

Rolfe at first was reluctant to tie up two pitchers in the charity game but gave his okay today. Rolfe telegraphed American League President Will Harridge at Chicago today saying "I feel sure that if Casey Stengel (all-star manager) wants to use him Art will again do a fine job . . . He can use my pitchers in any way that his own judgment dictates."

Patty Takes Wimbledon Title

Wimbledon, England, July 7 (AP).—Budge Patty, one-time international playboy who says he's a changed man, won the men's singles title today in the All-England Tennis Tournament.

The tall Californian defeated young Frank Sedgman of Melbourne, Australia, 6—1, 8—10, 6—2, 6—3, in the final.

Nobody in the crowd of 20,000 that jammed the center court arena was left with a single doubt but that the best player in the tournament won the crown.

Patty won eight of the first nine games and Sedgman, who had made death's door recoveries in both the quarter and semifinals, dug in for yet a third breathtaking comeback.

For a brief moment it looked as if he might make it. He broke Patty's service for the first time to square the second set at four games each and then hung on to level it again at 8—8 after Patty had taken the fifteenth game off his service.

Finally, Sedgman won the set at 10—8 as he beat Patty at midcourt with his best shot of the afternoon, a screaming backhand cross that left Patty helpless at the net.

Although he had squared the match he was through. At 2—2 and again at 2—4 he lost his service in the third set and Patty tucked it away, 6—2.

The new singles champion—he replaces the absent Ted Schroeder—didn't have enough steam left for his semifinal doubles match which went on the court three hours after the singles. With Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, he bowed to Geoff Brown and Billy Sidwell, of Australia, 6—4, 6—4, 6—3.

The old Australian Davis Cup team of Jack Bromwich and Adrian Quist won the other doubles berth. They downed Jaroslav Drobny and Eric Sturgess, 6—4, 3—6, 6—3, 6—4.

Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif., and Mrs. Margaret Dupont of Wimbledon, the defending champions, vanquished Mrs. Marjorie Buck of Boston, and Nancy Chaffee of Los Angeles, 6—1, 6—3, in one semifinal, and Shirley Fry of Akron, Ohio, and Doris Hart of Jacksonville, Fla., defeated Mrs. Tony Mottram of Britain and Mrs. Thelma Long of Australia, in the other, 6—0, 6—2.

In mixed doubles, Mrs. Pat Todd of La Jolla, Calif., teamed with Brown to conquer the Australian pair of George Worthington and Mrs. Long, 9—7, 6—4.

Miss Brough, aiming to duplicate her three-way sweep of two years ago, won her way into her third final in the other match.

Simmons' 10th Victory

Phils Jolt Dodgers, 7-2 Tie St. Louis for Lead

Brooklyn, July 7 (AP).—The Philadelphia Phillies tied the St. Louis Cardinals for first place in the National League tonight as bonus beauty Curt Simmons pitched the Phils to a seven-hit, 7-2 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The Phils snapped a 2-2 tie with a four-run rally in the sixth inning. The victory was Simmons' tenth of the season.

Willie Jones hit his 17th homer in the fourth. Andy Seminick's two-run double finished Branca in the sixth, and Hamner drove in two more runs with a single after Clarence Podbielan took over.

Bucs' Rookie Stops Cards

Pittsburgh, July 7 (AP).—The last-place Pittsburgh Pirates exploded for six runs in the first inning tonight, then went on to defeat the front-running St. Louis Cardinals 9-1 and snap a seven-game Redbird winning streak. It dropped St. Louis into a first-place tie with the Phillies. Vernon Law, 20-year-old rookie righthander, went the distance for the Bucs to register his first major victory against two defeats.

Sam Palumbo Boots in 3 at Charles Town

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Charles Town, W. Va., July 7.—Jockey Sammy Palumbo, who makes his home only a stone's throw from this race course, was the riding star this afternoon.

The 40-year-old reinsmen drove home three winners on the eight-race program including the victory of Bridgeforth and Wright's Bachelor Belle in the Frederick Purse, the headliner.

The former riding "king of the half-milers" crossed the finish line six lengths in advance of his rivals in the feature after stepping the six and one-half furlongs in 1:22 2/5 over a fast track.

The Virginia-bred mare's victory was popular as she ruled the favorite and returned only $5.60 for $2. In the second place came Mrs. F. C. Lamoureux's Marbacka while a length and one-half further back came D. Burgess, jr.'s Ike Junior who lost considerable ground all during the running.

Palumbo after clicking with Mrs. C. Ziemski's Binge in the fourth race which returned $9.20 came back to give T. H. Evans' Simon Pure a million dollar ride, to land the 4 to 5 shot favorite home by three lengths. The 6-year-old thoroughbred paid off at $3.60.

The Catonsville Purse, the day's secondary feature, brought a thrilling nose finish. Mrs. L. L. Voight's Good Grazing nipped Mrs. N. D. Lee's Jolly Star, the pair finishing three length in front of the Flamingo Farm's Mr. Fixit. Many fans thought Good Grazing fouled Jolly Star approaching the wire but Jockey F. D. Rivera, on the latter, failed to claim a foul. The winner paid $6.20 and was clocked in 1:19 for the about six furlongs.

Marine Team Wins

A three-run ninth inning rally by Prince Georges A. C. fell short, and Marine Corps Institute won a 5-4 Recreation League game at Anacostia Field No. 2 yesterday.

Dear Folks:

Doyle Gardner, the Clovis, N. Mex., lad who is leading the apprentices here, has former Jocker Emory Scott as an agent. Scott has been teaching the youngster the fine points of race riding. Since he piloted his first winner at Cumberland, Gardner has rolled home seven times. At the close of the meeting, Scott will take the boy to North Randall Park in Ohio. Members of the same families who are trainers cannot send their horses to the post in a race here unless they go as an entry. Due to the shifting of the Hagerstown and Cumberland dates, the only racing in the Washington area between the closing of this track July 15 and the opening of Bel Air August 10 will be the Baltimore trots July 14 to August 9.

BILL.

Stranahan's 286 Best of 3 U. S. Scores

By Glenn Williams

Troon, Scotland, July 7 (AP).—Bobby Locke came up with a fourth round 68 today that won him the British Open golf title for the second straight year and lowered a scoring mark that had stood since 1932.

The South African, widely known in the United States golfing circles, finished with a 279 on rounds of 69, 72, 70, 68, over the par 70 course. His aggregate wiped out the previous low winning total of 283 posted by Gene Sarazen 18 years ago.

Because it retained the championship for Locke did his hot round overshadow a sensational 66 which Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, fired in a vain attempt to place the Open trophy beside the British amateur award he won earlier this spring.

Stranahan finished with 286, the best of the three-man United States contingent. The Toledo muscleman "lost" the title chance in the very first round when he needed 77 strokes to tour the tiny fairways of the 6583-yard Troon layout on the seacoast where par is 70.

Johnny Bulla of Pittsburgh, wound up with 288 and Jimmy McHale of Philadelphia, posted 290.

Stranahan's card showed rounds of 77, 70, 73, 66, while Bulla did 73, 70, 71, 74. McHale's four efforts were 73, 73, 74, 70. The Ohioan's total put him in a three-way tie for ninth place, but gave him amateur honors. Bulla shared fourteenth place and McHale tied for seventeenth.

Behind Locke came Roberto de Vincenzo of Argentina, who carded a 281 and also broke Sarazen's record. At the start of the afternoon's round, Locke and Vicenzo were tied with Dai Rees of Wales for the lead with 211.

Here's how the leaders finished behind the first two:

Fred Daly, Ireland	75	72	69	66—	282
Dai Rees, Wales	71	68	72	71—	283
Eric Moore, S. Africa	74	68	73	68—	283
Max Faulkner, Eng.	72	70	70	71—	283
Fred Bullock, Eng.	71	71	71	71—	284
Arthur Lees, England	68	76	68	72—	284

At the start of today's two rounds, Locke was in third place two strokes off Rees' 139 pace. He dropped back yesterday when he needed six lusty strokes on the par three fifth hole.

In 'If I'da' Golf

Mrs. Torlinski Didn't Needa

"If I could only have another chance to drop that two-foot putt . . ." was the golfing moan that prompted the women at Army Navy Club to stage yesterday's IF-I'da Tournament.

All contestants were allowed to replay one shot on each of the 18 holes. A miss on the tee could be ignored; a drive into the rough could be laughed off; a short putt from six inches out could be sneered at. Some fun!

Anyway, Mrs. M. J. Torlinski won it with 81-5½—75½. Second was Mrs. I. W. Swanson's 84-3½—80½. 86-5-81 won third place for Mrs. William A. Schoech.

Laurel Draws Record 11,000

A record crowd of 11,000 fans came out to Laurel raceway last night as "ladies' night" made it's bow and another record crowd is expected tonight for the first renewal of the $15,000 Laurel cup pace.

Last night's record crowd saw Hi-Lou's Bella, piloted by Ed Myer, romp off with the first race, pacing the mile in 2:14 to return $19 for two and then saw a like payoff on Congressman, Hugh Bell driving, in the second race with the 7-8 daily double paying off $243.60 to 43 lucky ticket holders.

Virginia Breeders Hold Show Today

Warrenton, Va., July 7. — The Virginia Horsemen's Association's fifth annual breeding show opens tomorrow at 10 a. m. (E. S. T.) on the Warrenton Horse Show Grounds near here.

Some 80 exhibitors will show 177 individual horses from the leading breeding establishments of Virginia, Kentucky, New York, New Jersey, Ohio and Washington, D. C. with a total entry over 250.

'Mr. Glencannon' Kills Self and His Ill Wife

Santa Barbara, Calif., July 7 (AP).—Author John Guy Gilpatric preferred a "mercy" death for his wife and suicide for himself to watching her suffer with cancer, a sheriff deduced today.

Mr. Gilpatric

The bodies of Kilpatric, 54, writer of the Glencannon stories, and Mrs. Maude Louise Gilpatric, 52, were found side by side in a bedroom of a house they shared with a friend.

Mrs. Gilpatric had been shot twice behind the left ear. Her husband was shot once, through the mouth. A .32-caliber pistol was clutched in his hand.

Sheriff John D. Ross reconstructed the tragedy this way:

Mrs. Gilpatric kept an appointment with a physician. She was told she had a breast tumor but, evidently in kindness, was told it was not malignant. But she became hysterical.

Gilpatric was called in and told privately the tumor was malignant. The couple went home.

Robert H. French, who shared the residence, said he came home about 6 p. m. yesterday, saw no one, left and returned about midnight.

He thought the Gilpatrics were out, but by about 1:30 a. m. he became alarmed.

French saw a light in the kitchen, then found the bodies lying four feet apart.

Deputy Coroner James W. Webster said it appeared obvious Gilpatric shot his wife, then himself.

Gilpatric is survived by his mother, Mrs. May Gilpatric, and an uncle, Barrett T. Smith, both of New York City. The Gilpatrics were married in 1920.

Gilpatric, born in New York City, was a captain with the American Expeditionary Forces in World War I. Thereafter he devoted himself to writing magazine stories and books.

His character, Colin Glencannon, chief engineer on a battered British freighter, became famous in the Saturday Evening Post series. Glencannon was a scheming, resourceful, Scotch-drinking, salt-water sailor who for all his apparent vices was deeply religious.

Recently Gilpatric has been collaborating with Norman Reilly Raine, author of "Tugboat Annie" stories. Together they put "Annie" and "Glencannon" in a serial scheduled to start August 15. The magazine said the series resulted from suggestions in letters from fans of both characters and authors.

McCarthy's '49 Return To Be Eyed

By Edwin R. Bayley
Milwaukee Journal Reporter

Milwaukee, July 7.—Senator Joseph R. McCarthy's 1949 income tax return will get "careful scrutiny," Arthur E. Wegner, State Tax Commissioner, said today. Wegner promised special attention would be paid to McCarthy's claim for deductions of $15,172 for interest payments to relatives and banks.

McCarthy has paid no State income taxes for four years. He earned a total of $68,938 during this period, but his reported losses on the stock market and through interest payments canceled his reported income.

Wegner said the State Tax Department had checked McCarthy's returns carefully since 1943, when the Senator failed to report $42,000 in stock market profits while a Marine.

ICC Approves Commuters' Fare Boosts

The Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday approved commuter fare increases ranging from 21 to 25 percent on four railroads in New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia.

The increases go into effect July 15 and apply to interstate traffic. Railroads involved are the Pennsylvania, the Pennsylvania-Reading Seashore Lines, the Baltimore & Ohio and the Reading Co.

The ICC estimated the hikes will give the lines an additional $1,509,971 a year, if traffic does not drop. They are intended to help them meet higher operating costs.

Similar increases were authorized previously for the New York-North Jersey area.

Increases on the Pennsylvania will apply between Philadelphia and points in Maryland, Delaware and New Jersey; between Harrisburg and points in Maryland, and between Pittsburgh and points in West Virginia and Ohio.

Defeat in Senate Unit Seen for Health Plan

President Truman's Reorganization Plan 27 to create a new Department of Health, Education and Security appeared slated for certain disapproval by the Senate Executive Expenditures Committee.

The committee will vote Monday on a resolution introduced by Senator Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio) to disapprove the Chief Executive's plan to create a new Cabinet post taking in the present Federal Security Agency.

Informed committee sources predicted that the Senate group would turn thumbs down on the proposal.

The House is scheduled to vote on the proposal Monday. The most hopeful Administration prediction is that the vote will be "very close." It requires 218 votes to kill the plan in the House, and its supporters pin their hopes on the prevailing "absenteeism" in Congress.

The Senate group yesterday heard a long list of opponents and proponents of the measure.

Nelson H. Cruikshank, Director of Social Insurance Activities of the American Federation of Labor, was one of those urging passage of the reorganization move.

He said that the "far-flung interests" of the Federal Security Agency requred it to have Cabnet status.

"To the working people of this country it has long appeared as incongruous that the agency responsible for the direction of these programs which affect them most directly and in such vital matters as health, the education of their children and the underwriting of their economic security should not be afforded an equal status with departments of the Federal Government concerned with business affairs, labor matters, national defense, agriculture and others represented in the Cabinet," the AFL said.

On the other hand, spokesmen for thousands of doctors and dentists urged Congress to kill the plan.

Dr. Louis H. Bauer, representing the American Medical Association, said Plan 27 will in effect "elevate to the status of an executive department the existing Federal Security Agency."

"The administrator of that agency," Bauer continued, "who, it is reported, will be recommended for confirmation as the Secretary of the new department, has widely publicized his advocacy of a federal health program which would socialize or federalize the practice of medicine in the United States. To this date, the Congress has wisely refused to sanction such a program."

Also opposing the plan were spokesmen for the Association of American Physicians and Surgeons, the American Dental Association, the American Association of University Women, and Dr. Marjorie Shearon, former employe of FSA.

Dr. Frank Furstenberg of Americans for Democratic Action, Sol Markoff of the National Child Labor Committee, Louis C. Pakiser, executive director of the American Veterans Committee, and Earl N. Parker of the Family Service Association of America all urged Congress to approve the President's plan.

Dumbarton Walk Sunday

The two-hour walk through Dumbarton Oaks is to start Sunday at 3 p. m. instead of Saturday. The National Capital Parks, which is conducting the walk, yesterday issued a revised schedule to cover the change.

Rail, News Men Still Out; Bus Strike Ended

Chicago, July 7 (AP).—The National (Railway) Mediation Board called on the Switchmen's Union of North America today to end its strike against the 8000-mile Rock Island Railroad.

The Union announced yesterday that it was ending its strike against four of five Western and Midwestern railroads, but continuing it against the fifth—the Rock Island.

At Buffalo, N. Y., a bus strike that has tied up public transportation in the Buffalo-Niagara Falls area since Wednesday was settled.

Drivers, mechanics and clerks of the Niagara Frontier Transit Corp. ratified a proposal featuring an immediate $1.50 an hour wage scale after a three-hour conference late yesterday. Union leaders had recommended ratification by the members.

In New York City a two-hour mediation session failed to settle the CIO New York Newspaper Guild strike against the New York World-Telegram and Sun.

Firms Linked To Racketeers

Costello's venture into Texas and Oklahoma oil leases, along with Frank Erickson, the convicted bookie.

Costello, Peterson said, is "the most influential underworld figure in the country" despite his testimony before another Senate committee some time ago that he had retired from the rackets.

Peterson said Joe Adonis, Costello's lieutenant, "muscled in" on the New York auto business through Kings County Buick, Inc., selling cars in the black market.

Another mobster, Joseph Bonanno of Brooklyn, known as Joe Bananas, he said, worked his way Bananas, he said, has worked his way into several laundries and also controls the Colorado Cheese Co.

The Senators at the beginning of their inquiry weeks ago announced that they were beginning a study of the extent of penetration of legitimate businesses by racketeers. Kefauver said, after receiving Peterson's list, that it would be a valuable addition to information already gathered.

Peterson gave chapter and verse in listing the leading mobsters of New York, Florida, Chicago, the West Coast and other areas. He showed from records already public that these men know and do business with each other though they appear not to be formally organized into a single group.

He said racketeers cannot operate without "a tieup with the authorities" but he offered no evidence of such tieups today. Peterson disclaimed, on a reporter's query, responsibility for the report that racketeers have a 400 million dollar slush fund with which to bribe public officials. He told the Senators "you can't get evidence" on political contributions by mobsters.

Peterson did say he put the annual take by racketeers at 15 billion dollars but that the figure was "strictly guesswork."

As an example of interstate activity today, Peterson said Jack I. Dragna, whom he described as the most notorious underworld figure on the West Coast, had been in Chicago in recent weeks trying to get back on the lucrative payroll of the Illinois Sports News, a horse race information service. He formerly received $500 a week but had been cut off, Peterson said, when the fact became public. Now, said Peterson, he is out to get back in the money "or else."

cert and swooped down on it with happy war cries. Concert-goers twisted their necks unhappily. Pvt. John J. Huffman of the park police went to find out what was the matter.

When Huffman reached the parked buses, he was told of the fugitive bull snake. He courageously drew his flashlight and stalked into the bus.

Under one seat he saw what appeared to be a snake—a rattlesnake. He gave a quick tug, jumped and then looked back. It was only the dried skin of a rattler.

It took about 20 minutes before the Scouts were rounded up and herded back into their buses. The music lovers relaxed.

Oh—we almost forgot—they never did find that bull snake. It's just possible that at some future concert you may feel something coiling about your wrist.

Shake hands with him, reader. He's nonpoisonous.

Franco Cabinet Meets

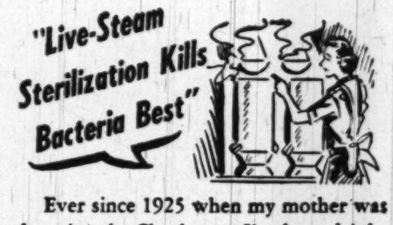
Madrid, July 7 (U.P.).—Generalissimo Francisco Franco today presided over the first session of the cabinet to be held since his illness from a stomach ailment.

Number 4 of a Seri

"I'm cooking on the front burner, Commissioner, so that everyone can see what steam sterilization means!"

I'm a young mother, Commissioner, and I don't know much about affairs of State, but . . . when you talk about steam sterilization of our District milk, you've landed right in my own backyard.

Take this baby bottle sterilizer the doctor advised me to get. It's the same idea as used for sterilization of instruments in hospitals or for milk-handling equipment on dairy farms. Boil the water and presto . . . live steam kills harmful bacteria on the baby's bottles in a few minutes. Simple, yes, but so vitally important to my baby's health, and to our community's health.



Ever since 1925 when my mother was learning the Charleston, I've been drinking the cleanest, sweetest, purest milk on earth. You see, the Health Officer forced every farm supplying the District from that time forward to sterilize every milk pail, milk can, and other utensil with live steam in a sterilizing cabinet like that shown above.

Now here's something to really make you sit up and take notice. The average price of home delivered milk in the District during 1949 was 20.8 cents per quart. The average for 56 cities across the country was 21.1 cents. You get the best for less.

But now we mothers know you gentlemen of the Commission are faced with a serious decision which really seems very simple to us. There's plenty of clean, sweet, pure milk from our District inspected dairy farms to fill all our District needs and at the right price. There's no need to continue the temporary laxity, particularly in regard to sterilization since no local shortage exists.

On July 10, a hearing will be held by the District Commissioners on the subject of making permanent chemical sterilization. The members of this association of dairy farmers are glad to keep steam sterilization and continue to give you the best milk in the world. They can't keep it if this double-health-standard is allowed in the District milk supply.

You Can Help

We hope you will go to this hearing, or get your church or club to send a representative. The Commissioners are interested in our babies' welfare. Let them know that sweet, clean, pure milk is of vital interest to you and yours.

Baker Gets 3 to 9 Years For Larceny And Arson

Concurrent Terms Given Restaurateur; Store Bandits Draw Identical Sentences

Richard (Tex) Baker, 47, was sentenced yesterday to serve two three-to-nine-year sentences, concurrently, for setting fire to his northeast chop house last July, and for housebreaking and larceny last April.

Baker was convicted in May of ...ing 20-year-old William P. Corley to set fire to Tex's Grill, 1361 ...st., ne. Corley, a former employe of the grill and a key witness in Baker's trial, pleaded guilty to attempted arson last month and was placed on probation.

The other sentence was for breaking into and blowing a safe in the Washington Supply Wine & Liquor Co., 500 K st. nw., last April, when Baker was awaiting a new trial on the arson charge.

Judge Jennings Bailey imposed sentence in District Court.

Three - to - nine - year sentences were also given to George McDaniels, 24, of 1536 5th st. nw., and Nathaniel Anderson, 27, of 205 C st. nw., for their part in the April holdup of a combination drugstore-postoffice in the 1800 block of 1st st. nw., in which more than $1000 was taken.

Russell L. Perry, 23, of 222 H st. nw., was sentenced to serve from two to six years, and Clarence J. Baldwin, 19, of 524 Quebec pl. nw., from one to three years, in connection with the holdup.

Soviet Friends Official Sentenced to Jail Again

Richard Morford, 39, executive director of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, was sentenced yesterday for the second time to three months in jail and a $250 fine for contempt of Congress. District Court Judge James W.

THE FEDERAL DIARY

Morris delayed execution of the sentence for 14 days to permit Morford to apply to the Court of Appeals for bail pending an appeal.

The sentence was identical to the one imposed on Morford at his first trial two years ago. That conviction was reversed by the Supreme Court, on the ground that the Government employes on the jury had not been sufficiently questioned on their feelings about the Government loyalty program.

Judge Morris tried the case without a jury this time, at Morford's request.

The contempt conviction springs from Morford's refusal to produce certain records of his organization for the House Committee on Un-American Activities, and his refusal to give the committee the names of persons in the council responsible for its publications.

Microfilm Peddler Placed on Probation

Herman Axelbank, the New York sign painter convicted of posing as an agent of the Office of Naval Intelligence while peddling "secret microfilm directly out of the Kremlin," was given a suspended sentence of one to three years in District Court yesterday.

Judge Bailey placed Axelbank on probation.

Axelbank was convicted of posing as an ONI agent to two ECA officials in Febfuary, and through them trying to get an appointment to see Dr. Franz Bluecher, vice chancellor of the Federal Republic of Germany. The FBI said Axelbank wanted to sell his films to Bluecher for $12,000. The secret films were actually newsreels worth $175, the FBI said.

Old Customer Held in Fourth Store Holdup

$6 Crime Laid to Man Jailed for Robbing Establishment Before

George H. Rogers, 24, is one of the most regular customers of the High's ice cream stores, but he visits them for cash and not for peach or pistachio, police asserted yesterday.

Rogers was arrested yesterday by Detective J. D. Williams of the Second Precinct, at 7th and Q sts. nw.

Within a few hours, police said, he had been identified as the man who on Thursday attempted to hold up a Palace Laundry branch, at 1634 7th st. nw., and, failing there, had gone on to a High's store, at 1310 11th st. nw., to successfully stage a $6 holdup.

Rogers gave police his address as 1414 N. Capitol st., but as recently as June 19 it was the Federal penitentiary at Springfield, Mo. Police said they found a certificate of parole from the penitentiary in Rogers' pocket.

This was the fourth time in less than 15 months that Rogers had held up the High's store at 1310 11th st. nw., according to police. They said he was arrested May 2, 1949, when he confessed a series of holdups of High's stores, three of them at the 11th st. store.

He was convicted here and later sent to the Springfield institution.

Police said Rogers admitted the Thursday holdups after he had been singled out in a lineup by women clerks from High's and the Palace Laundry. Police said he told them he did not have a gun but held his hand in his pocket to indicate he was armed.

2 Youths Held In Yoking Case

Two Virginians ran out of gas and out of luck here Thursday night.

Police, responsible for the latter but not the former, identified the pair as Chester L. Turner, jr., 19, of Rte. 2, Herndon, and Robert E. Sisk, 22, of Great Falls. Both have been charged with attempted robbery and assault.

Police said they ran out of gas at 28th and N sts. nw. Thursday night and decided to raise gas money from passersby.

Picked for funds was Arnold A. Ulin, 1034 31st st. nw., a confidential assistant in the Federal Communications Commission. He told police two men grabbed him from behind and threw him to the ground as he was walking along the towpath in the 3000 block of Canal st. nw. at about 10:30 p.m.

Ulin called for help and his would-be attackers fled, he said. Seventh Precinct police picked up Turner an hour later in the 1000 block of Wisconsin ave. and found Sisk at about 1 a.m. yesterday at 20th and N sts. nw. Ulin later identified his attackers.

The case came up in Municipal Court yesterday before Judge Walter J. Casey and was continued to July 13. Bond was set at $1000 each.

Youth Killed, One Hurt In Auto Crash

DISTRICT TRAFFIC TOLL:

1950 deaths to date	35
1949 deaths to date	34
Total 1949 death toll	71

A 19-year-old youth was killed, and a 17-year-old companion critically injured when their automobile struck a tree at 9th and Farragut sts. nw., last night about 10:50 p. m.

Kenneth Williams, 19, of 1741 Lanier pl. nw., died, apparently from head injuries, before reaching a hospital.

Richard A. Norton, 18, of 818 Crittenden st. nw., a passenger in the car, suffered a possible skull fracture. He was taken to Garfield Hospital and later transferred to Gallinger Hospital. His condition was reported as critical.

Williams and Norton were thrown out of the car, but not through the windshield, police said.

Reports at Station

A third youth, who jumped out of the 1935 Plymouth coupe and fled, reported at the Sixth Precinct station in company with his father shortly after midnight.

The youth, William F. Zimmerman, 17, of 5233 8th st. nw., said he had been in a daze when he left the scene of the accident. He said Williams was driving the car.

Members of the police Accident Investigation Unit said the car was badly damaged, but had not turned over.

Earlier, three District children were injured in separate traffic accidents. In each case the child walked into an automobile. Police made no arrests.

Donald Cunningham, 3, son of Thomas and Evelyn Cunningham, 1332 V st. nw., suffered knee and scalp abrasions when, according to police, he walked into the left fender of a taxicab being driven by Gardie B. Duckett, 38, of 2016 Gales st. ne. The accident occurred in front of 1320 V st. nw. Donald was treated at Children's Hospital.

Suffers Head Bruises

At 53d pl. and E. Capitol st. se., 10-year-old Kenneth Baggage of 5055 A st. se. was bruised in the head and shoulder when he ran from between two parked buses into the fender of a car driven, police said, by Cleotha Thomas, 25, 5417 Central ave. se., a laborer at the Washington Terminal yards. The boy was admitted to Gallinger Hospital.

Sheila Kirby, 7, of 209 8th st. se., was walking in Anacostia Park, near the 11th st. bridge, with her parents, Denner and Hild Kirby, last night, when she broke away and ran into an automobile driven, police said, by James G. Barnard, 52, of 2024 14th st. se., on Anacostia pkwy.

She was admitted to Casualty Hospital for possible internal injuries and multiple abrasions.

Arlington Man Fined $250 For Speeding

A 20-year-old Arlington man yesterday was fined $250 and costs in Hagerstown, Md., for exceeding 70 miles an hour on a dual highway.

Police identified the man as Douglas Ferrell Davis, of 2110 S. Culpeper st., Arlington.

The fine, levied by Trial Magistrate Harry E. Snyder, was said to be the stiffest ever imposed in his court.

It was one of a series of heavy penalties yesterday in Maryland's crackdown on speeders. Snyder called Davis' attention to a meeting in Baltimore of state and city traffic officials, who recommended suspension of permits of speeders and reckless drivers.

Arlingtonian Cleared In Traffic Death

Fredericksburg, Va., July 7 (AP). A charge of involuntary manslaughter lodged against William Edward Fox, jr., of Arlington, in connection with the highway death of Mrs. Julia M. Proctor, 38, of Alexandria, was dismissed in Stafford County Trial Justice Court yesterday.

Mrs. Proctor was killed when she was struck by an automobile driven by Fox the night of June 18

Driver Jailed on 4 Charges After Police Say He Did 80 mph

Montgomery County police early yesterday chased a fleeing auto at speeds they said exceeded 80 miles an hour and captured its two occupants, whose sedan crashed into a Wisconsin ave. lamp pole.

The driver of the car, identified as Ned A. Bower, 19, of 2107 S st. nw., was sent to Rockville jail when he failed to raise $1352 bond on four traffic charges resulting from the chase. A police court hearing is set July 17.

Jorge A. Zea, 25, of 1812 G st nw., an occupant of the fleeing car, was released after a preliminary hearing in Bethesda Police Court, where he posted $52.50 collateral on a disorderly conduct charge.

Police Pvts. James C. Stair and Frank E. Fisher said the pursuit began as they investigated a parked car on Springfield rd. near the Kenwood Country Club.

The sedan's doors were locked, its windows up, police said, and in the back seat Bower and Zea.

Bower, the policemen said, jumped into the front seat, started the motor and drove off suddenly, nearly knocking the two policemen to the ground.

The police scout car chased the fleeing auto through three stop signs down River rd. to Dorset ave., then down Dorset to the end of Wisconsin ave., police said.

On Wisconsin ave., the officers said, the car passed a red light, missed a right turn, jumped the center highway strip, plowed into the left curb and hit the light pole. Neither Zea nor Bower was injured.

Pets and Dolls Vie for Honors at Playgrounds

PRETTY DOLLS—A large Japanese Geisha doll attracts the attention of (from left) Jenny Hanessian, 5, of 4100 Military rd. nw.; Sheila Gardner, 8, of 4104 Military rd. nw., and Barbara Kennedy, 7, of 5323 42d pl. nw., as they lined up their dolls for judging at the Chevy Chase playground, 41st and Livingston st. nw. Jet on Fire, Pilot Bails Out; Saved in Bay

Navy Helicopter Rescues Airman From Chesapeake

A civilian test pilot yesterday was rescued from the Chesapeake Bay by a Navy helicopter after bailing out from a burning experimental Navy jet fighter plane.

The pilot, Paul Thayer of the Chance Vought Plane Co., who recently took the plane to the Patuxent Naval Air Station from Dallas, Tex., escaped injury. The plane, however, was demolished when it fell into a wooded area and exploded near Drum Point, Md., across the Patuxent river from the Air Station.

A spokesman at the station said Thayer had taken the plane on a routine test flight, when it began to smoke and sputter. He was about 15,000 feet up at the time. He made several passes at the Air Station's field, some straight-up barrel rolls and then used a fire extinguisher inside the plane, but had to bail out, the spokesman said.

Men at the air station's Naval Air Test Center saw Thayer was in trouble and sent out the helicopter, which picked him up shortly after he landed in the bay. He was taken to the dispensary. The helicopter pilot then picked up several firemen from the station and took them to Drum Point, where the plane had fallen. They extinguished the last of the flames but were too late to save the plane, the spokesman said.

Fire Destroys Tenant House; 8 Made Homeless

Flames that apparently began in a faulty chimney yesterday destroyed a Montgomery County tenant farm house and made homeless its occupants—a family of eight.

It was the home of Mrs. Annie Johnson and her family, on a farm owned by Clagett Jones on Travilah rd. near Rockville. Damage was estimated at $4000.

When the Rockville and Gaithersburg fire departments responded they found the two-story frame house enveloped in flames. Work was hampered by lack of water.

The Montgomery County Red Cross disaster committee, headed by Chairman B. C. Wilson, gave the family emergency food and clothing. The family is now staying with relatives and friends.

Gallery Lecture Sunday

Margaret Bouton, lecturer at the National Gallery of Art, will speak on Jan Van Eyck at 4 p.m. Sunday in the gallery's lecture hall.

Right—It's Wrong

Man Jailed For Crime on Aug. 17, 1950

Robert Lucas was sentenced to serve from one to three years in jail yesterday for a grand larceny he was convicted of performing six weeks from now.

That's right, six weeks from yesterday, August 17, 1950.

The grand jury did not have a crystal ball. The district attorney's office made a "clerical error," Prosecutor Robert Scott explained —1950.

District Court Judge Jennings Bailey yesterday denied a motion asking that the judgment of guilty be arrested on the ground that Lucas was indicted and tried for performing an impossible act.

Judge Bailey denied the motion. He said he had brought the matter to the attention of Lucas' attorney, James Cobb.

Scott said it was proved during the trial that Lucas stole $175 from Arthur W. Butler, 1407 North Capitol st., on August 17, 1949, not 1950.

Open Window Leads to Suspected Housebreaker

A window open on a three-foot areaway, a smudged white T-shirt and leg scratches yesterday led police to arrest William Butler, 24, of 1318 Columbia rd. nw., on a housebreaking charge.

Police received a call at about 4:45 a. m. yesterday from Mrs. Naomi Chisholm, 22, of 1320 Columbia rd., nw., who had seen a man in the bedroom of her third-floor apartment. She said she wakened her husband, Lindsey Chisholm, in time for him to see "ends of feet" going out the window.

Police found no body three floors below, and no evidence of an escape. They saw an open window across the 3-foot areaway, and marched up the three flights at 1318 Columbia rd. to find Butler in bed. Next to the bed was the smudged shirt. On Butler's legs were fresh scratches. Police said he could not explain either. The housebreaking charge followed.

Butler was arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Cyril S. Lawrence yesterday and his case was continued to July 19. Bond was set at $3500.

Beetle War Planned

A campaign to eradicate the Japanese beetle has been launched by the Palisades Citizens Association, it was announced yesterday. Residents of the community will be asked to have their lawns sprayed to eradicate the pest in the grub stage.

Housebreakers Rounded Up, Police Report

Last 3 Members Of Alleged Gang Held in Montgomery

Marlboro police yesterday announced the capture of the last three members of a band they accused of breaking and entering six Prince Georges County business places.

A fourth member, John George Gonzaga, 19, of 726 I st. se., is awaiting action by the county grand jury. He was arrested June 12.

Charged with six counts of breaking and entering yesterday were Roger Jarin, 20, of 925 Massachusetts ave. nw.; Thomas Olson, 18, of 1001 K st. ne., and James Hern, 26, of 7900 Allentown rd., Oxon Hill, Md.

Marlboro detectives said Jarin and Olson were arrested by police in Charleston, S. C., on July 4, when they were questioned for unauthorized use of an auto. Hern, detectives said, was picked up at his Oxon Hill home June 2. Lookouts had been broadcast for all four after a filling station owned by Elmer E. Batterton at 5321 Marlboro pike, Hillside, Md., was broken into June 12, when Gonzaga was captured at his home.

Man Waives Hearing In Wife's Shooting

Homer H. Whitlock, 28, of 5360 Edgewood dr., Camp Springs, Md., accused of shooting his wife May 28, yesterday waived preliminary hearing in Marlboro Police Court and was released in $500 bond for action of the grand jury.

His 23-year-old wife, Dorothy, has recovered from the bullet wound police say Whitlock inflicted with a .25 caliber German-make automatic pistol, after the couple had argued.

Shutdown of U.S. Fields Called for To Help Airport

Senate Unit Approves D.C. 1950-51 Fund

A 12 million dollar Federal payment to the District for the current fiscal year will be recommended to the Senate by its Appropriations Committee.

Members yesterday said the committee decided in an executive meeting to erase the 10 percent reduction that the House ordered.

The fund for the District, fixed at the 12-million-dollar level by statute, is carried in the omnibus appropriation bill. It would help finance the District's record 119-million-dollar budget, the rest of which is paid by taxes and other revenue.

House economy groups led the move to cut the payment to $10,800,000. If the Senate approves its committee's action, the issue will then be settled in conference.

Members said the committee also voted 10 million dollars to start a new Senate Office Building facing the present building. The site fronts on 1st st., and extends from B to C sts. ne.

A protest by Senator Allen J. Ellender (D., La.) against luxurious details of the building as first proposed had halted the project.

Presidential Action Is Urged to Shift Air Traffic From Bolling, Anacostia

By Edward F. Ryan
Post Reporter

Representative Carl Hinshaw (R., Calif.) yesterday called for immediate closing of the Bolling and Anacostia military flying fields to increase the capacity of Washington National Airport for civilian aviation.

Hinshaw made the demand during a House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Subcommittee hearing on Senate-approved legislation to create a second major civilian airport for the Capital.

Civil Aeronautics Administrator D. W. Rentzel told the subcommittee the elimination of Bolling and Anacostia air traffic would increase the capacity of National Airport by about 45 percent. He said Washington still would need a second major airport in the next five years, a point on which Hinshaw agreed.

One Step Toward Solution

Hinshaw recommended the elimination of Bolling and Anacostia air traffic as one step in a three-stage solution of the airport problem.

The second step, said Hinshaw, should be the conversion of Andrews Field, now headquarters of the Military Air Transport Service, to a major civil airport. Rentzel said that would cost eight million dollars. First estimates for the wholly new airport provided by the Senate bill is 14 million dollars and the total cost as additional facilities are added is placed at 24 million dollars.

Hinshaw said his final projects would be the moving of MATS from Andrews to Patuxent Air Base, now used for testing work, and the provision of an airfield in Virginia easily accessible to the Pentagon to take over the military flying and training flight operations now centered at Bolling and Anacostia.

Rentzel said these ideas had been gone into by CAA and the Air Force before the Budget Bureau. He said the Budget Bureau conclusion was that the Defense Department needed its existing air field setup in the Washington area.

Too Near National Airport

Hinshaw said the military is "hell bent" on keeping Bolling and Anacostia. But he said the national interest demands the closing of those two fields to flying because of their proximity to National Airport. He said Bolling and Anacostia, totaling close to 1000 acres, could be the site of future Government buildings.

Hinshaw urged the subcommittee to write President Truman asking that he order the closing of the two fields.

Subcommittee Chairman Lindley Beckworth (D., Tex.) said he had no conclusion "to state at this time" about the Hinshaw proposal or the idea that it should be taken up with President Truman.

Maj. Gen. Roger M. Ramey, director of operations under the deputy chief of staff for United States Air Force operations, conceded that at present Andrews field could take the traffic of Bolling and Anacostia. But in an emergency, he said, the plan would interfere with the tactical mission assigned to Andrews field, including service as an interceptor base for the defense of Washington.

County Studies Plan to Pave Streets Itself

Arlington may have to start paving its own streets because of the high cost of asphalt and bituminous street surfacing.

County Manager A. T. Lundberg, in a private conference Wednesday with county board members, said he is going to find out the cost to the county of doing the work with its own personnel, rather than by contract as is now the practice.

One reason for Lundberg's investigation is a 20-percent jump in prices submitted for county work when bids were opened this week.

In June, the Arlington Asphalt Co. said it could handle asphalt resurfacing of one third of the county's streets for $119,480. Now it wants $145,200 for the same job. Its bid for bituminous resurfacing was $27,055 a month ago, but has now risen to $32,474.

This week's bid opening was the second on the paving job. Original bids, submitted in June, were rejected when an error was discovered in the bid advertisement.

County board member Mrs. Florence Cannon said she was "thoroughly disgusted" by the higher bids. Board Chairman Daniel Dugan said the new bids "look legitimate" and added earlier bids may have been "considerably low."

In the original bidding, the Newton Asphalt Company of Arlington submitted the lowest figure on the asphalt contract — $117,140. The bid was disqualified because the company was not registered with the State Board of Contractors. It was not able to register in time to submit bids a second time.

Arlington Asphalt Co. was low bidder on the second round.

County Director of Public Service R. M. Wirt said yesterday that tentative cost estimates show the county can purchase necessary capital equipment for its road surfacing, plus needed materials, for less than the recent low bid.

However, he said the problem of equipment upkeep, plus maintenance of a seasonal labor force, were other factors to be weighed.

Two Area Pianists Win Trophies in Boston

Two Silver Spring piano students were among 15 contestants who won trophies yesterday at the 1950 convention of the International Piano Teachers Association in Boston.

The Silver Spring students, both of whom qualified in the artist group, are Miss Barbara Shytle, 17, who will be a senior at Montgomery Blair High School in the fall; and Craig Lundberg, 15, of 9310 Old Bladensburg rd., who will enter Montgomery Blair as a sophomore.

Ambrose Says 'Not Guilty' to Fraud Charges

Harold F. Ambrose, former special assistant to the Postmaster General, pleaded innocent in District Court yesterday to charges of operating a $630,000 get-rich-quick stamp scheme.

Judge David A. Pine gave Ambrose's attorney, Edward Bennett Williams, until August 21 to file answers to the 24-count indictment charging Ambrose with four different kinds of fraud.

Williams told reporters he would attack the indictment as "defective" and described the proceedings before the grand jury that indicted Ambrose as "irregular."

Ambrose is accused of inducing persons to buy special stamp issues with the understanding that they could be resold at profits up to 150 percent. He is free under $2500 bond.

Suicide Verdict Given In Death of Nurse

District Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald yesterday issued a suicide certificate in the death of Mrs. Martha Greutman, 55, of 1121 24th st. nw., whose body was found hanging in her apartment Thursday.

The registered nurse had been in ill health, Dr. MacDonald said. Police explained she had lost a temporary appointment in the Veterans Administration. Police are still trying to locate her relatives.

'Maniac Bandit' Loses Personal Plea to Dismiss Indictment

Ronald Harris, once known as Baltimore's "maniac bandit," yesterday appeared in his own behalf in Prince Georges County Circuit Court on a 6-year-old robbery indictment.

In two hours of oral arguments before Judge Charles C. Marbury, Harris introduced motions among which were pleas that the indictment be dismissed, that a change of venue be granted, that witnesses be summoned from the State penitentiary, and that a speedy trial be granted.

Judge Marbury denied all motions except that for a speedy trial. The case has been set for jury trial at the October term of court. Harris, 44-year-old native of Chestertown, Md., is now serving a 10-year sentence for auto theft in the Maryland Penitentiary.

Heart Attack Fatal To Bricklayer, 76

A 76-year-old bricklayer, William H. Gilmartin of 162 T st. ne. died after a heart attack yesterday at 7:30 a. m. shortly after he began work on the top floor of the new building of The Washington Post at 1513 L st. nw.

Police said it was Gilmartin's second day on the job. He had laid only half dozen bricks on the west exterior wall of the building when he was stricken.

Area Milk Prices May Go Up August 1

Milk prices in Greater Washington may rise half a cent a quart August 1 to cover higher costs expected to result from the 5½-day week won by dairy employes last month.

A move toward raising the price on that date has been taken by the Alexandria Dairy, which has asked the Virginia State Milk Commission for a hearing within 15 days to consider "adjustment" of milk prices in the Alexandria-Arlington-Fairfax area.

While the request to the commission did not specify a price increase, Alexandria Dairy officials expect to ask for half a cent more, they said yesterday.

The Virginia commission sets prices within that State only, but Virginia prices are customarily adopted by dairies serving Washington and suburban Maryland customers as well.

Nine area dairies are affected by the labor contract signed after the eight-day milk strike last month. Its provisions for a shorter work week go into effect August 1.

At that time, it was estimated a half-cent price increase would approximately cover the expected higher costs involved in hiring about 150 additional employes necessary under the shorter work week.

The last change in area prices came last April 1, when they dropped one cent a quart. The present price is 20½ cents a quart for Grade A or plain homogenized milk, delivered at the home, with Vitamin D homogenized delivered for 21½ cents. Store prices vary, but many retailers charge 2 cents less than the delivered price.

Thompson's Dairy here also asked the Virginia commission for a price hearing, but the request was later withdrawn. An official said the original request was made in error.

The State commission will consider the Alexandria Dairy request at its next meeting Wednesday.

Templeton Mixes Fun With Skill

By Paul Hume

This job's getting out of hand. One night it's cannon. The next, Alec Templeton's playing something called "Rag Mop."

That isn't all Templeton did last night at the Watergate, either. Why, he even dared to combine Gounod's immortal music from Faust with a flashy piano piece called "Nola." And then, before words fail me utterly, he went so far as to play the great master Beethoven, of course), in the style of Shostakovich.

Yes, sir. He took the slow movement of the piano sonata in C Minor, known to the masses as the "Pathetique." And he played it as he thought Bach, Ravel, Chopin, and finally that heathen, Shostakovich, might have written it. Beethoven bore up pretty well under the strain.

And "Gnats to You"

And do you know? The people at the Watergate loved it! Yes they did. And what's more they encored him so much he came out and played something original called, "Gnats to You." I think it must have been suggested to him by the orchestra, which spends so much time shooing away pesky bugs.

And finally Templeton took Mozart and actually dared to suggest he might have wanted to be a hit on Broadway, just like Rodgers and Hart. The very idea! Why, everyone knows that Mozart was thrilled to death to work for the few pennies he could squeeze out of that Salzburg archbishop.

Early in the program, Templeton played a concerto. And everyone seemed to like that too—it was the one by Grieg, and he played it tenderly, and with good feeling for the contrasting moods. You know, when you think of it, it is one of the miracles of the concert world today that a man who has never seen a piano keyboard in his life can get up and play so well that thousands of people for over a decade have preferred his playing to that of any other pianist.

More Power to Him

Alec Templeton, with his wit and imagination, his gift for parody and original humor, is a living symbol of the power of an individual to conquer over the greatest handicaps. More power to him for years to come!

Howard Mitchell surrounded Templeton with music by Weber, Ravel's Noble and Sentimental Waltzes, and Mary Howe's Song of Palms for women's chorus and orchestra. The ladies of the Sesquicentennial Chorus, trained by Paul Callaway, sang the Howe.

The music is familiar, and sounded as well as possible last night, with full orchestra. The chorus was audible throughout, but mike placement and general barge setup made it hard to get the text.

The new Bennett arrangement of music from Cole Porter's "Kiss Me, Kate" was a handsome curtain-closer. Sunday night, North American Night, with Conductor Alfred Wallenstein of Los Angeles, and soprano Lois Marshall from Canada.

Education Committee Names Washingtonians

Two Washington residents have been elected to office on the Citizens Federal Committee on Education, the Office of Education announced yesterday.

John T. Corbett of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, 10 Independence ave. sw., was named vice chairman. Mrs. Edmonia Davidson of 1333 R st. nw., a member of the National Council of Negro Women, was named an executive committee member.

Tradition That Only the Finest Are Accepted Is Potent Magnet at Marine Recruiting Post

By Henry Rohland—Washington Post

'BEST OUTFIT'—The young men who have been invading the Marine Corps recruiting station at 14th and Pennsylvania ave. nw. in a steady stream, are all convinced that the corps is the best outfit. These men who want to be Marines (from left) Lyon J. Chapman, Jerry D. Mopps, Byron T. Chen and Jorge Villacres admire Marine "dress blues"

It's more than the Korean crisis that is sending young men into the Marine Corps beachhead at 14th st. and Pennsylvania ave. nw.

Basically, it is the romantic tradition that the ready-for-anything organization contains only the finest of the Nation's youth.

Capt. Warren F. Lloyd, in charge of the recruiting station, said the allure of "being in the Marines" is what draws youths in a steady stream to sign for a hitch. Since the Fourth of July, when enlistment quotas were wiped out, 120 men have tried to join.

Yesterday Jerry D. Mopps, 17, of 1468 Clifton st. nw, a suntanned muscled boy in dungarees and polo shirt, had a blunt answer to why he joined:

"You've got to be in good shape to get into the Marines. It's the best outfit and the hardest to get into. That's why I want to."

Mopps is from Charleston, Mo. After graduation from high school, he became a sheet metal worker and two weeks ago came to visit his mother, Mrs. Marcille Layne.

Another visitor yesterday was Byron Thomas Chen, 22, of Union Bridge, Md. He was in the Marines for 19 months, winding up in Tientsin, China, and after his discharge got a degree from Western Maryland College.

He dropped in to inquire about a commission. Why?

"Well, as things are now, I see no reason to go on for an advanced degree. Things are unsettled. I'm not sure what to do. I've broken my engagement with a Baltimore nurse twice now.

"I don't have faith in many things, but I do in the Marines. If I don't get a commission, I may go back anyway," he explained.

Another youth who wants to be an officer is Lyon Joseph Chapman, 17, son of Dr. Albert Chapman, 4105 Wisconsin ave. nw. He applied for the Marine Corps Reserve.

"I always planned to join the Marines on account of the admiration I've always had for them. When I finish another year of high school, I plan to make it my career and sign up for a four-year hitch and put in for OCS (Officers' Candidate School)."

Jorge Villacres, 17, 2416 Lee blvd., Arlington, was also interested in the Reserves. "I have a friend in the Marines. He had fun in it and I might join the Marines, too, after I finish up in civil engineering at Catholic University," he said.

And for further proof of the corps' selectiveness, of the 120 signed, only 11 have been accepted. Many are washed out on the intelligence test or the physical requirements, but the majority lose on their marital status. There is no family allowance available.

On the other hand, Captain Lloyd reminds that "the men we enlist today will be the non-coms of tomorrow. And many will be wearing stripes and bars before the conflict's over."

Officials last night announced the office will go on a seven-day week beginning today. The office will be open from 8 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. daily.

40 Air Marine Reserves Go to Camp Today

Forty local members o fthe Marine Air Reserve will leave today and Sunday for two weeks' training at Cherry Point, N. C.

The Cherry-Point-bound Marines will work on ground control intercept during their training period.

Then, on August 5, 200 local leathernecks will fly to California along with other reserve units in what is described as the Nation's largest peacetime coast-to-coast mass movement of reserve air fighters in mobilization tests. They will be stationed at El Toro, Calif., for two weeks.

The local fliers will be under the direction of Lieut. Col. W. F. Cornnell, USMC, of 142 S. Pershing dr., Arlington. He will head up Marine Reserve Fighter Squadron 321 and Marine Ground Control Intercept Squadron 24 on the maneuvers.

A total of 41 Marine Air Reserve Squadrons will be in the over-all lifts flying on a wartime basis.

Annexation Suit In Fairfax Court Delayed 3 Days

Hearing of the Falls Church-Fairfax County annexation suit was halted temporarily in Fairfax Circuit Court yesterday when one of the three presiding judges was unable to appear.

As attorneys prepared to proceed with the trial, Judge Burnett Miller sent word by a deputy sheriff that he had been detained in Culpeper. Judges Paul E. Brown and J. R. H. Alexander then agreed to recess the suit until 10:30 a. m. Tuesday.

After cross-examination of the final Falls Church witness Tuesday, attorneys for the county will proceed with their defense against the annexation effort. The case has been under way for three weeks and is expected to continue at least two weeks more.

Transportation Unit Will Move to Eusfis

Fort Eustis, Va., July 7 (AP).—The Army's Transportation Development and Experiment Station, formerly the Transportation Corps Board, along with its test section, will be moved next month to Fort Eustis from its present headquarters at the New York port of embarkation.

The transfer, according to the NYPOE public information officer, will begin August 1 and will be completed in about two weeks.

It will, in effect, bring the headquarters for the Transportation Corps, recently made a permanent part of the National military establishment, to Eustis. The Chief of Transportation, Maj. Gen. Frank A. Heileman, however, will remain in Washington and as chief will direct the activities of the corps.

Rotary Head Installed

Roger B. Sprigg was installed as president of the Arlington Rotary Club Thursday at the Washington Golf and Country Club. Other officers who began their terms were Frederick E. Westenberger, vice president; Carroll V. Shreve, treasurer; and S. Sterling Swart, secretary.

ABC Board Hearing Set

The District Alcoholic Beverage Control Board will hear charges July 13 at 10 a. m. that the Globe Liquor Store, 620 7th st., sw., violated ABC regulations by failing to cancel and affix tax stamps to bottled beverages.

Sesqui Exhibit Opens Tonight At Corcoran

President and Mrs. Truman and Vice President and Mrs. Barkley have accepted invitations to view the "American Processional" art exhibition at 8:30 tonight at the Corcoran Gallery of Art, the Sesquicentennial Commission said yesterday.

However, the White House said the President's appearance at the opening was not definitely scheduled as of last night, and the Vice President's office was not sure whether he would be able to attend.

Some 3000 persons have been invited to the private showing tonight, in advance of the public display that opens Sunday and continues until December 17. The exhibit will be open from 2 to 5 p.m. on Sundays, 12 noon to 5 p. m. on Mondays, and 10 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. on the other days of the week.

The display will include more than 300 works of art depicting notable figures and events in the Nation's history. They will be shown in chronological order.

Tickets for another Sesquicentennial event, the symphonic drama, "Faith of Our Fathers," by Paul Green, were placed on sale yesterday in a trailer in the triangle at Pennsylvania ave. and 14th st. nw. The drama opens August 4 in the new Rock Creek Park amphitheater for a 7-week run. The tickets will also go on sale on Tuesday at the amphitheater box office near 16th st. and Colorado ave. nw.

$250,000 Damages Asked in Suits for 3 Air Crash Deaths

Civil suits asking $250,000 damages each for the deaths of three American correspondents, killed in an air crash in Bombay, India, last July, have been filed against the Royal Dutch Airlines in Federal Court in New York.

The three, who were among 13 correspondents and a total of 45 persons killed in the crash, are: Bertram D. Hulen of the New York Times Washington Bureau, whose widow, Mrs. Katherine Hulen, lives at 3020 Dumbarton ave. nw.; Thomas A. Falco of Business Week, whose widow, Mrs. Anna-liese Falco, lives at 2708 30th st. se., and William Henry Newton of the Scripps-Howard newspapers, whose family lives in Columbus, Ohio.

D. C. Man Is Injured In Maryland Boat Blast

Edgewater, Md., July 7 (AP).—A Chesapeake Bay bridge worker was injured in a boat blast last night on South River.

Anne Arundel County police identified the victim as John Pasahkivick, 21, 3721 Carpenter st. se., Washington.

He suffered third-degree burns of the head and arms when a 26-foot cabin cruiser exploded at its pier as he started the motor. Police listed the owner as Lewis Hiban, 5602 40th ave., Hyattsville.

Firemen said Pasahkivick jumped into four feet of water and waded ashore. His condition was satisfactory today in Anne Arundel General Hospital.

Korea Thanks Fliers Who Offered Services

About 100 Americans, including some 10 residents of the District, have offered to fly for the Korean government, a Korean Embassy spokesman said last night.

The embassy has thanked the volunteers, but advised them that such service would not be allowed under United States laws and suggested application at local recruiting offices.

S. E. Roman Rites Held; NIH Executive

Funeral services were held yesterday for Sidney E. Roman, 43, purchasing chief at the National Institutes of Health, who died Wednesday after a series of heart attacks.

Burial was in the Arlington Cemetery. Services were held at the Bethesda (Md.) Methodist Church.

Mr. Roman of 5500 Charles st., Bethesda, had served at NIH since 1931, three years after he came to Washington to work in the Government.

A native of East Orange, N. J., he began work at NIH, research arm of the Public Health Service, as a junior clerk. He advanced to the position of full responsibility for all supplies and purchases at the institutes.

A member of the Bethesda Methodist Church, he also served as secretary of Cub Scout Pack 220 in Bethesda.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Violet E. Roman, and five children, William E., Lorna Mae, Betty, Robert and Sidney, jr., all of the Charles st. address. His mother, Mrs. Minnie Roman of Kearny, N. J., three brothers and two sisters also survive.

Heart Ill Fatal To G. R. Salb, D. C. Druggist

Dr. George R. Salb, 64, pharmacist and drugstore operator in the Northeast section for more than 35 years, died of a heart ailment yesterday at Providence Hospital. He had retired about a year ago because of ill health.

A native and lifelong resident of the District and a member of an old Washington family, Dr. Salb was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Salb. He lived at 2731 31st pl. nw.

After attending the old Business High School and George Washington University, he received his doctor's degree in pharmacy from Catholic University.

Dr. Salb joined a chain drugstore firm for a time and later went into business for himself, operating a drugstore at 6th and K sts. ne. for many years, and more recently at 316 H st. ne. This store is still operated under his name.

He was a member of the Holy Name Society of St. Thomas the Apostle Church.

Dr. Salb's wife, the former Miss Katherine Kirby, died in March, 1944.

He is survived by two sons, George R. Salb, jr., and Lewis J. Salb, and a daughter, Miss Margaret Mary Salb, all of the 31st pl. address. He is also survived by three brothers, John, Frank and Walter Salb, and a sister, Miss Marion Salb, all of Washington.

High requiem mass will be said at the St. Thomas the Apostle Church, 27th st. and Woodley rd. nw., Tuesday at 10 a. m. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Lungs Affected

Rescue Trip Futile; Boy Dies of Polio

Twelve-year-old Harold Kogod, polio victim rushed to Children's Hospital on Monday in a drama-filled rescue trip, has succumbed to the dread ailment.

He died at the hospital that had been his home for all but one week since he was first stricken with infantile paralysis last September 6.

Harold succumbed to pneumonia and lung congestion brought on by mucus accumulation in his disease-crippled lungs, his pediatrician said. Normally, mucus is readily expelled by healthy lungs, but in Harold's case it was an ever-present danger, the doctor said.

The patient had been home only a week when he had breathing distress on Monday. The family summoned the Bethesda-Chevy Chase (Md.) Rescue Squad.

District firemen and police also responded to the call from the boy's home at 2219 Observatory pl. nw., to help swing him and his 1800-pound iron lung into the rescue truck. Then, en route to the hospital, a portable motor for the resuscitator failed.

While Harold lay gasping for breath, rescue workers entered a home at 32d and Q sts. nw., and plugged the motor into the house current to get the iron lung functioning again. Harold's forced breathing returned to normal for the remainder of the trip.

But despite the rescue work and medical attention at the hospital, Harold died Thursday afternoon.

Funeral services were conducted at 3:30 p. m., yesterday at the Danzansky funeral home, 3501 14th st. nw. Burial was in the cemetery of the Adas Israel Congregation, at 1422 Alabama ave. se.

Harold was the eldest child of Samuel Kogod, merchant, and Mrs. Edith Gogod. They have two other children, Leslie, 5, and Ronald, 2.

Dr. E. C. Kefauver's Rites Set for Today

Frederick, Md., July 7.—Funeral services will be conducted Saturday afternoon for Dr. Elmer Clay Kefauver, 82, former Frederick city and county health officer, who died at the Frederick Memorial Hospital last night of a heart attack.

Dr. Kefauver served from January 1, 1924, until his retirement in 1947 as health officer for both city and county. He was a native of Middletown Valley and a graduate of Franklin and Marshall College and the University of Maryland Medical School. He practiced medicine in Middletown and Thurmont before he was appointed health officer.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Mary Alice Atlee Kefauver, and one daughter, Mrs. Sherman P. Bowers, Frederick. Burial will be in Rose Hill Cemetery, Hagerstown.

J. Harry Hurst Dies; Agriculture Employe

J. Harry Hurst, 40, an administrative officer with the Agriculture Department's Food Distribution Program's Branch, died unexpectedly early yesterday of a heart attack.

He was visiting the home of a friend, Robert Moyer, 1380 Peabody st. nw., Thursday night, when he suffered the attack. He was pronounced dead at 1 a. m. after efforts of a Fire Department rescue squad to revive him failed.

A native of Columbus, Ga., Mr. Hurst came here in 1945 and made his home at 707 N. Wayne st., Arlington. He had been with the Agricultural Department for 14 years and had served as State director of commodity distribution in Georgia before coming here.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Frances Hurst, and a son, J. Harry Hurst, jr.

The body will be shipped today to Columbus, Ga., where funeral services and burial will be held.

Argentine Colony Honors Hero

By Marie McNair

THE Argentine Ambassador, Jeronimo Remorino, entertained at dinner last evening at the embassy following ceremonies at the Pan American Union commemorating the 100th anniversary of the death of Argentina's national hero, Gen. Jose de San Martin.

The Honduras Ambassador, Dr. Rafael Heliodoro Valle, was a speaker. So was Luis Quintanilla, chairman of the Council of OAS, and Harold E. Davis, who traced the history of Latin-American countries. The three were among the Ambassador's guests at dinner.

The new eagles on Col. Godfrey McHugh's uniform were reason for the cocktail party Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, Air Force Chief of Staff, and Mrs. Vandenberg gave yesterday at their quarters at Fort Myer. Colonel McHugh, who's a bachelor, has been aide to General Vandenberg for more than a year. Before that he served as foreign liaison and protocol officer.

Famed Sculptor Honored at Party

MR. AND MRS. DALE MILLER entertained at cocktails yesterday for Felix de Weldon, famous sculptor, recently named a member of the Fine Arts Commission by President Truman. Mrs. de Weldon shared honors with her husband at this pleasant party in the Miller's air-cooled apartment at the Mayflower.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller recently purchased a house in Spring Valley but they keep the apartment, which they've occupied for several years, as a downtown base for air-cooled entertaining.

Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. John W. Snyder were among those invited. So were Dr. John Steelman, Assistant to President Truman, and Mrs. Steelman; Mrs. Clifton Cates and Mrs. Frank Wozencraft, wives of absent generals; Gen. and Mrs. Matthew Ridgway, Admiral and Mrs. J. J. Clark, Admiral and Mrs. Valentine Schaeffer, Capt. and Mrs. John Pearson, Maj. and Mrs. Floyd M. Johnson—she's a cousin of the host.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Morris were admiring the tinted sculptures by Mr. de Weldon of the three Miller children, Marta, Dale jr., and Mead.

Others who attended were Mr. and Mrs. George Vournas, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Porter, Mr. and Mrs. William P. MacCracken, Mr. and Mrs. Carrol Cone, Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Buchanan, Mr. and Mrs. George Muth, Mr. and Mrs. C. Raymond Wire, Mrs. Blake Clark, whose husband is away on one of his Reader's Digest assignments, Mr. and Mrs. Lamar Caudle, and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bendetson.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller will entertain this evening at a small cocktail party honoring Mr. Miller's cousin Mrs. Floyd Myron Johnson the former Alice Estill) and her husband Major Johnson.

New Press Attache Cocktail Guest

COMDR. and Mrs. Gardiner Luce entertained at a farewell party yesterday in honor of Miss Genevieve Reynolds who will leave at the end of the month for her new duties as assistant press attache of the U. S. Embassy in Rio.

Assisting the hostess were Mrs. John L. McMillan, wife of Representative McMillan of South Carolina, the guest of honor's home State; Mrs. H. R. W. Herwig, Mrs. Ernest Becker, Mrs. John Gibbs, Mrs. George Mattusch, and Miss Grace McGerr, who like Miss Reynolds, is a past president of the American Newspaper Women's Club.

M. and Mme. Chautemps will leave today with their three children, Jean Pierre, Jean Louis and Antoinette, for their cottage at Avon-by-the-Sea, N. J. They will be in New York August 15 to meet Mme. Chautemps' father, Andre Durand, noted mathematician who will arrive that day on the Ile de France from France.

Hoosiers Ready to Greet Indiana Invasion Tuesday

By Nicha Soure

MAKE way for an Indiana invasion!

The Indiana State Society will be hosts to the 3000 Hoosier visitors who are coming to Washington on Tuesday to participate officially in the Sesquicentennial Celebration.

The visitors will be members of the Indiana Home Economics Choruses, hailing from 92 counties, who will present a concert at the Senate Office Building Mall under the direction of Albert P. Stewart, director of the Purdue University Glee Club.

The first important event after the women arrive in Washington will be the dedication program of the Tall Sycamore of the Wabash. The ceremony will be at Union Square 100 feet north of Grant Memorial in the Capitol Grounds at 4:30 p. m.

The program will open with a half-hour concert by the Navy Band to be followed by the president of the Indiana Society Major General Lewis B. Hershey's introduction of the Hoosier Governor, Henry F. Schricker. The Secretary of Agriculture, Charles F. Brannan will be a speaker on the program.

Senator Homer E. Capehart will give a brief history of former Senator Dan Voorhees in whose honor the tree is being dedicated by the Indiana Society and the Home Economics Choruses.

Senator Voorhees, who because of his height was called "the tall sycamore of Indiana," introduced the bill in the Senate of which the present Congressional Library is the result.

On Wednesday, 8:30 p. m., the Indiana choral group will present Hoosier Heritage, a program of James Whitcomb Riley poems adapted to song by the Indiana composer, John McGee. The event, sponsored by the National Capital Sesquicentennial Commission, will be held at the Senate Office Building Mall. Governor Schricker will give the prologue in the program.

Information about the two Indiana events or about the Watergate Concert on Tuesday night which will be attended by the Indiana delegation may be obtained by calling Mrs. Esther Costa at Randolph 5689.

SUNDAY, the Ohio State Society of Washington will contribute its bit for the Sesquicentennial Celebration.

Governor Lausche will be present to dedicate "Ohio Drive" at Hains Point at 3 p. m. The drive was formerly called Riverside Drive.

This completes the list of States which have been honored with streets named after them in the Nation's Capital. Representative Tom Jenkins, whose indefatigable efforts were successful in having Ohio so honored, will assist in the ceremonies as will the new president of the Buckeyes in Washington, Representative John McSweeney.

The Ohio Girls Club, under the leadership of its president, Miss S. Naomi Williamson, will provide hostesses for the Sunday reception. Music will be played by the Navy Band. Admission to the dedication is free, but Ohioans in the District are urged to register at the society's registration desk at Hains Point, preceding the ceremony, for reserved seats.

Other officers of the Ohio State Society recently elected with Representative McSweeney are Associate Justice of the Supreme Court Harold H. Burton, honorary president; Mrs. Ruth Coe, Robert J. Hanger and Miss Arista Huber, vice presidents; John S. Bartlett, secretary; Miss Gladys M. Riggs, assistant secretary; Howard H. Rutan, treasurer; Mrs. Oscar Pyle, assistant treasurer; and Miss Alice B. Coleman, historian.

THE Coloradans in Washington will hold their annual picnic at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Grigsby in Landover, Md., on Sunday.

At the picnic, which will be from 3 until 8 p. m., there will be facilities for broiling steaks, roasting hot dogs or whatever foods members bring. Iced coffee and tea will be furnished and cold drinks will be available.

On the program will be sporting events such as softball, badminton and horseshoes, campfire singing and an election of officers.

The Coloradans are using the share-a-ride plan in arriving at the Grigsby home. They will form a Colorado Caravan which will meet at the steps of the Old House Office Building, New Jersey ave. and Independence ave. (at B st.) sw. and leave from there at 3 p. m. sharp.

If it rains on Sunday, the picnic will be held on July 16 at the same place and with the same arrangements.

THE Floridians in Washington will band together on July 11 to say farewell to retiring Representative J. Hardin Peterson of Lakeland, Fla., and Mrs. Peterson.

Meeting place will be the Madrillon Restaurant from 5:30 p. m. No reservations are necessary but State Society members are asked to bring along their membership cards.

So there can be no doubt that this is a Florida party, Eastern Air Lines are flying in souvenirs for the members directly from the home State.

Combination Vegetables

Green lima beans and thinly sliced celery makes a good combination when they are with French dressing on salad greens.

For Dessert

Brides Get Tips on Male Sweet Tooth

YOUR bridegroom has a sweet tooth, you'll probably discover. And what's more, it's unlikely that he'll ever outgrow it. To start you off on your career in the kitchen, Prudence Dorn tells you how to make some extra-attractive dessert dishes, in McCall's magazine:

LEMON CREAM SHERBET

1/3 cup sugar
Grated rind of 1 lemon
¼ cup lemon juice
½ cup light corn syrup
1½ cups milk
1 cup heavy cream

Beat eggs until pale yellow and airy-looking, then beat in the sugar, a tablespoon at a time until smooth as cream. Now grate lemon and squeeze out the juice. Mix lemon rind, lemon juice, syrup and milk into egg mixture and pour it into a large refrigerator tray or two small ones. Freeze in refrigerator at the coldest temperature until mushy (takes about 2 to 3 hours).

Transfer the mushy sherbet to a large bowl and beat hard until fluffy. Now whip the cream thick and mix it very gently into the sherbet. Pour back into refrigerator trays or into a mold and freeze until firm (takes about 2 to 3 hours longer). Serve this wonderfully cool and tart dessert to four.

CHERRY COOKIE PIE

1 cup vanilla cookie crumbs (12 small)
3 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
1 No. 2 can pitted tart cherries
1 pkg. cherry gelatin
Pinch nutmeg

Line a 9-inch round cake pan with waxed paper (let paper extend over edges of the pan so you can lift finished pie out of pan easily). Then crush cookies into fine crumbs and mix them thoroughly with melted butter or margarine. Pat a compact layer of crumbs on bottom and sides of pan.

Next drain cherries (saving the juice to use as part of the liquid for the gelatin). Then cover the bottom layer of crumbs with a layer of cherries. Chill in your refrigerator until crust is firm (about 30 minutes).

Follow directions on box for preparing gelatin but substitute cherry juice for part of the water called for in recipe. Flavor with nutmeg and cool until mixture becomes thick but is not completely jellied. Add remaining cherries to gelatin and spoon it over the cherries in the cookie-lined pan. Cool in refrigerator until mixture is good and firm (about 2 hours).

Dress the whole business up with whipped cream and cherries if you feel extra-fancy and serve right away to four cherry-lovin' people.

For Company Dinner

Barbecued chicken is usually a good main-course choice for a company dinner. Serve baked potatoes, green peas, a salad, and hot buttered crusty rolls with it. A light dessert such as strawberry or pineapple Bavarian cream would be welcome.

Who's Younger, The Teaser Or the Teased?

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

WHY do grownups—so-called—get so much satisfaction out of teasing children? Their very age gives them such an outsized advantage that they should feel ashamed instead of pleased at being able to upset the child.

Mrs. D. L. thinks her sister-in-law is acting like a child when she teases her little boy. "She is always at him about something," she writes, "and recently it was to get her a handkerchief or she would take all his toys away. The poor child was afraid to move away from them in order to carry out her order.

"She is always snatching up his possessions and running off with them. Then he cries and talks mean to her and she remarks what a bad boy he is.

Merely Pouts When Reproved

"IT annoys me so much to have her aggravating him and nullifying my own lessons to him about being nice to company and sharing his toys. I am trying to teach him that so he will be unselfish when he is older. Now he is just three.

"This situation has existed since he was a small child and she cannot understand why he wants nothing to do with her. Talking her is hopeless, as she merely pouts."

She sounds very immature. She probably has no art with children and feels, nonetheless, the desire to be noticed by them, so she uses this method of getting attention. By now she should be convinced that it is a poor one.

Change Child's Attitude Best

SINCE you cannot change the aunt, apparently, the next best thing would be to change the child's reception of her teasing. Because you are annoyed, he is frightened. If you smiled and told him this is her way of being funny and he should laugh at it, you would pull the fangs from the teasing. Children had best learn this response to teasing, it will serve them well all through their lives—and, in this case, preserve better relationships between you and this immature sister-in-law.

Long Korean War Foreseen By British

London, July 8 (NYHT).—A substantial proportion of Great Britain's military experts are fearful that the Korean war will be a long one and drain away from what they consider to be the areas of decision far too much in manpower and armament.

With Britain's military strength dissipated by commitments in Germany, the Middle East, southeast Asia and the Korean theater, these British experts now are visualizing a somewhat similar situation being forced upon the United States.

Winston Churchill may offer comfort as he did in last Wednesday's debate on Korea when he said: "The forces required for the defense of South Korea, or even its recapture should that become necessary, would not make any decisive or even appreciable difference to the situation in Europe. The immunity of Western Europe from attack depends overwhelmingly on the vastly superior stock pile of atomic bombs possessed by the United States."

But whatever Churchill says, the "immunity of Western Europe from attack" continues to depend, in the minds of Britain's military chiefs, on infantry, tanks, guns and planes.

With an army of about 400,000 men, Britain's ground force strength at home is negligible. Just under two British divisions are tied up in Western Germany.

Class Z reservists comprising nearly three million veterans of World War II make up Britain's largest manpower pool. But these reservists could do nothing about a sudden attack in the West.

British military strategists also fear a surprise thrust by the Russians in Iran. It is almost traditional with the British that they develop jitters about the Middle East at the slightest provocation. But in this instance there appears to be good reason.

For one thing Britain has only one division scattered about the Middle East and she has no strong military ally in the area.

Supreme Court Bars a Review In Pritchard Case

The Supreme Court yesterday refused to review the conviction of E. F. Pritchard, jr., Paris, Ky., on charges of ballot box stuffing in the 1948 election.

Court aides said a mandate affirming Pritchard's conviction was sent to the United States District Court of Eastern Kentucky, which found him guilty of fraud. The court refused to review the Sixth United States Circuit Court of Appeals decision, which upheld the lower court.

This action was taken, aides said, because a quorum of the justices was not available after Chief Justice Fred Vinson and Justices Reed, Frankfurter and Clark disqualified themselves.

Court procedure provides for affirmation of lower court decisions when the Supreme Court cannot muster a quorum and the other justices see no possibility of reviewing a case in the succeeding session.

The lower court now will be required to call in Pritchard and enforce the sentence to two years' imprisonment.

Son Turns Down $2,131,252 in Box Offered by Father

Birmingham, Ala., July 7 (U.P.). Robert Ingalls, jr., turned up his nose at a cardboard box containing $2,131,252.50—in cash.

He didn't even bat an eye. He merely looked at the box, phoned his lawyer and said, "No."

The money was offered to him for 4501 shares of Ingalls Iron Works Co. stock he holds. It is an issue in a dispute between Ingalls and his father.

The money was taken from a bank vault, put on a hand truck and pushed into the conference room under armed guard.

At a court hearing last week, a company official said the stock was worth between $750 and $800 a share, or almost twice what young Ingalls turned down.

GE Giving Boost Of 3 Pct. to Almost 160,000 Employes

New York, July 7 (AP). — The General Electric Co. today said a 3 percent pay increase is being put into effect for almost all its 160,000 employes throughout the Nation.

The company said the raise "is all we intend and expect to do in the area of wages" when added to other economic elements in a recent offer.

The pay boost—with 4 cents an hour as the minimum—is being made effective "with no strings attached" as of "the first work in July."

East German Reds Ban Recordings Of Toscanini

Berlin, July 7 (AP).—East German Communists have banned the recordings of Conductor Arturo Toscanini, according to a blacklist published today in the West Berlin press.

Toscanini was called a conductor who "left his national roots behind and became tainted with Western tendencies."

Others blacklisted on a circular attributed to the ruling Socialist Unity (Communist) Party were writers Andre Gide and Jean Paul Sartre; Igor Stravinsky, composer, and Ignace Paderewski, the late Polish pianist.

Broken Casting Blamed In Wreck Killing 9

Chicago, July 7 (U.P.).—The Santa Fe Railroad today announced that a broken brake casting derailed its El Capitan streamliner at Monica, Ill., causing a crash with another train that killed nine persons.

Two cars of the El Capitan jumped the track early yesterday and jackknifed into the path of the Santa Fe's Kansas City Chief, traveling in the same direction on a parallel track.

The Chief rammed into two cars and the crash pulled other coaches of the El Capitan from the track. Some 70 persons were injured.

Alexandria Man Heads Veteran Flying Group

French Lick, Ind., July 7 (AP).—Veterans of the 388th Bombardment Group of World War II held a reunion here today, recalling their experiences flying B-17s over Germany.

New officers elected by the group are: President, Lieut. Col. Gilbert Goodman, Alexandria, Va.; vice president, Walter V. A. Harrison, Baltimore; secretary, Harold Rosenn, Wilkes-Barre, Pa., and treasurer, Charles R. Beatty, Frankfort, Ky.

Columbus, Ohio, was selected as the site fo rthe 1951 reunion.

2 Church Groups Hit Plan to Cut Point 4

New York, July 7 (AP).—Officers of the Nation's two largest Protestant interdenominational bodies today protested the 25-million-dollar cut recommended by the Senate Appropriations Committee in 35 million dollars authorized for President Truman's Point Four program.

The proposed cut in United States aid for underdeveloped areas of the world was labeled as "false economy" and as a "retrogressive step" from peace by spokesmen for the Foreign Missions Conference of North America and for the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America.

Laborer Killed By Falling Block

Mack Lucas, 50, of 14 I st. nw., a laborer on a construction job at 1625 I st. nw., was fatally injured yesterday at 7:50 a. m. when he was struck on the head by a falling cinder block.

Lucas was taken to Emergency Hospital, where he died four hours later of a fractured skull and broken neck. Dr. A. Magruder MacDonald, District coroner, has issued a certificate of accidental death.

U. S. Oil Firms Not to Ship Oil to China

By the United Press

American ail companies have agreed to cut off petroleum shipments to Communist China for the duration of the Korean war, but Britain has refused, it was disclosed yesterday.

The State Department issued a formal statement confirming earlier reports that it had asked American firms to halt shipments which might "directly or indirectly" reach Communist North Korean forces. It "suggested" that Britain take similar action.

A department spokesman said American firms which normally export to the Orient, including Standard-Vacuum and Caltex, agreed "promptly" to the request.

But a British Foreign Office spokesman in London said British oil firms will not be asked to join the embargo because their shipments to China are too small to add anything to the Red war potential.

British sources here said Britain has been sending less than one tanker load of petroleum per month to Communist China, and that the shipments have been mainly household products such as kerosene for lamps.

Golfing Couple Robbed of $2800

That was their estimate of the value of jewelry, medical instruments and drugs stolen from their Cadillac sedan while they practiced driving on the East Potomac Golf Course.

Dr. Herbert Abramson of 4000 Cathedral ave. nw. said the theft occurred between 8:30 p. m. and 9:30 p. m. Thursday, when someone broke the right front window of the car parked in the golf course parking lot, and stole a black leather pocketbook containing $44 in cash, a woman's wrist watch in a platinum case, a diamond bracelet, and a platinum wedding band studded with diamonds from the glove compartment. Also taken was Dr. Abramson's medical bag.

3 Boys Held in Theft Of $65, Cigarettes

Three teen-agers yesterday were held for action by juvenile authorities in the theft of $65 and 70 cartons of cigarettes from a grocery store at 1919 Benning rd. ne.

Police said the theft was discovered in a routine door check of the grocery, owned by Irving Greenberg. They said they found a 13-year-old hiding under an auto in the rear of the store. The youth identified his two companions, both 16, who were arrested later. The loot was recovered in an alley, where police said the boys dropped it in their flight.

Sinatra Ordered to Pay Wife $2750 a Month

Santa Monica, Calif., July 7 (AP).—Crooner Frank Sinatra today was ordered to pay temporary support of $2750 monthly to his estranged wife Nancy and their three children pending trial September 8 of her separate maintenance suit.

Sinatra was ordered also to pay $4500 attorney fees under stipulations by counsel for the singer and Mrs. Sinatra.

Sinatra has gone to England, where Actress Ava Gardner is making a picture.

Hunger Strike Continues

Glen Gardner, N. J., July 7 (NYHT).—The hunger strike of three men and two women of the World Citizens' Community which began midnight Wednesday to protest the fighting in South Korea continued today with the participants reporting continuation of their daily tasks at a diminishing rate.

Doctor Dies in Operation

Bogota, Colombia, July 7 (U.P.).—Dr. Urbano Osorio died today from a heart attack while performing a delicate operation. His patient was saved by quick action of a nurse in calling another surgeon to complete the operation.

Teachers Vote To Bar Reds, Subversives

St. Louis, July 7 (AP).—The National Education Association, largest professional organization in the country, today voted to bar Communists and other subversives from membership.

Willard Givens, executive secretary, refused to announce figures on the vote by some 3300 delegates, but said the resolution carried "by an almost unanimous vote."

When the convention opened Monday it was announced the New York Teachers' Union, Local 555, had withdrawn, contending the proposed change in bylaws was an attack on academic freedom.

As amended today, the bylaw states:

"No person shall be permitted or continued in membership in the NEA who advocates or who is a member of the Communist Party of the United States or of any organization that advocates changing the form of Government of the United States by any means not provided in the Constitution of the United States."

The association declared its opposition to Federal aid for parochial schools following a sharp debate, with a minority warning that adoption of the resolution would imperil Federal aid to education at this session of Congress.

"The NEA believes the American tradition of church and state should be vigorously and zealously protected," the resolution stated. It was adopted on a voice vote.

In another resolution, the teachers voiced support of the decision by the United States and the United Nations Security Council to fight aggression in Korea.

Miss Corma A. Mowrey, Clarksburg, W. Va., was elected president of the association. Paul A. Grigsby, Granite City, Ill., was named first vice president, and Gertrude E. McComb of Terre Haute, Ind., was reelected treasurer.

Jet-Fighting Rocket Shown

London, July 7 (U.P.).—British designers today unveiled their answer to high-altitude jet bombers that are too fast for "old fashioned" fighters and too maneuverable for most jet interceptors.

The answer is a radio-controlled pilotless rocket with wings, especially designed for high altitude interception. It has been flown successfully off the Welsh coast. More and improved models are on the way, authorities said.

The rocket was tested by a previously hush-hush unit.

Performance details were still secret.

Reliable sources said, however, that senior army, navy and air force officers who watched the interceptor's tests were impressed by its speed and ease of control.

Britain, whose traditional concentration on fighter aircraft gave her superiority over the German Luftwaffe, has been worried since she first successfully tested the electric Canberra twin jet bomber.

Names of Lost In Aleutians Crash Are Made Public

The Air Force and Navy last night announced the names of seven men missing in the crash of a B-17 during a flight across the Aleutians last Tuesday.

Next of kin have been notified that wreckage of the plane was found in the open sea, with no trace of survivors.

Missing Air Force personnel are First Lieut. Eldon J. Burrell, Seattle, Wash.; First Lieut. Robert J. Kaufman, jr., Barberton, Ohio; Sergt. Louis A. Hatin, Memphis, Tenn.; Sergt. Bill Carns, Reedley, Calif., and Sergt. Marshall R. Sclotzhauer, Miami, Mo.

Missing Navy personnel are Lieut. (jg) Richard J. Stanwood, Mount View, Calif., and Hospital's Mate Third Class Dean R. Rutherford, Frisco, Colo.

GOVERNMENT OF THE DISTRICT of Columbia, June 30, 1950. A public hearing having been held by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia in the matter of closing certain street area and public alleys in the District of Columbia, as hereinafter described, and, as the said Commissioners are of the opinion that the street area and alleys referred to should be closed, notice is hereby given that under date of June 22, 1950, they have prepared the following order: "ORDERED: That pursuant to the provisions of Public Act. No. 307, approved December 15, 1932, the street and alley areas as shown in green color on plats filed in the office of the Surveyor of the District of Columbia and numbered as Maps 3609, 3610, 3611, 3612, 3613 and 3614, are hereby ordered CLOSED; same to take effect on and after JULY 31, 1950; the title to the land comprised in said areas so closed to revert to the abutting property owners as shown on said maps; the said closings to take effect jointly or separately by subsequent order or orders on the effective date aforesaid, according to Items 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6 described as follows: (1) Closing of part of Reno Road, N.W., between Highland Place and Ordway Street; (2) Closing of the east and west public alley and the easterly north and south public alley in Square 1504; (3) Closing of part of Oak Street N.W., east of 17th Street, and providing for a new street dedication for a turnaround; (4) Closing of part of V Street, N.E., east of Bladensburg Road; (5) Closing of part of 36th Street, N.W., south of Prospect Street, abutting Lot 832, Square 1202; (6) Closing of part of Dahlgren Circle, abutting Lots 37 and 38, Square 3937. Any and all parties interested must file, in writing, with the Commissioners, D. C., objections, if any, to these closings, or as to any item providing for the closing listed above before JULY 31, 1950; otherwise said closings shall become effective on and after that date, in accordance with the provisions of Public Act No. 307, approved December 15, 1932." NORTHWEST PARK APARTMENTS
Offers Private Living Similar to Your Own Home

On New Hampshire Ave. Extended, North of University Lane

Ready for Immediate Occupancy

EXAMINE THESE FEATURES. COMPARE THEM WITH OTHER APARTMENTS. AND BE AMAZED!

1. Private entrances, and broad, private terraces for family living, face a whole mile of cool, wooded parkland . . .
2. Twenty individual spacious layouts of one, two, and three-bedroom units, some with bedrooms upstairs . . .
3. An unusual roadway system provides safety for children, with one-way traffic, and brings the car to your own front door . . .
4. Almost half the units are end units, with sun, air and long views on three sides . . .
5. Masonry walls between units provide complete sound-proofing . . .
6. Stair-climbing reduced to a minimum, as private entrances (70 percent of total) enter directly at ground level.

TV Grabs Talent

Radio Hard Put To Keep Its Shows

By C. E. Butterfield

NEW YORK, (AP).—If all current indications pan out, television this fall will be right in the forefront as a dispenser of star talent. Radio won't exactly be left behind, but it may find itself hard pressed to keep at least neck and neck.

This swing into TV, begun last season, has considerably intensified this summer as preparations for the new year are being made. More and more of the men and women who played a part in giving radio its appeal, like Fred Allen, Eddie Cantor and Frank Sinatra, along with talent from other sources, are becoming serious about video.

Basis for the changing situation is said in TV circles to be due primarily to the continued transfer into television of sponsors who carry with them the lucrative offers that attract the higher priced talent. This in turn is being brought about by expansion of the viewing audience. The country now has 105 TV stations, plus more than 6,000,000 receivers, a figure expected to climb higher. An added factor is improvement in program techniques.

To gvie some idea how the stars are to line up this fall, here's a rundown of the categories into which many of them will come:

Television only, or primarily so: On NBC—Fred Allen, Eddie Cantor, Martin and Lewis, Milton Berle, Paul Winchell, Morey Amsterdam, Kay Kyser, Wendy Barrie, Sid Caesar, Imogene Coca, Jack Carter, Jerry Lester and Ransom Sherman.

On CBS—Ed Sullivan, Gertrude Berg (Molly Goldberg), Ed Wynn, Alan Young, Ken Murray, Frank Sinatra (also probably a radio show), Burns and Allen, and in the fall, Joan Davis. She is now radio only.

ON ABC—Edward Everett Horton, Paul Whiteman (he's on radio, too, for the summer), Arlene Francis, Irene Wicker and Neil Hamilton.

Both radio and television: On NBC—Groucho Marx, Kate Smith (radio Mrs.'; Dave Garroway, Bob Hope, Fibber and Molly, Robert Montgomery (radio ABC., Bert Parks (both ABC and NBC-, and Fred Waring (TV on CBS) also William Gargan with TV on NBC and radio on Mrs. and Billy Slater with various radio and TV assignments.

On CBS—Garry Moore, Arthur Godfrey, Robert Q. Lewis, Amos and Andy and Gene Autry.

On ABC—Don McNeill.

Radio only as far as can be determined now, with possibly some shifting later into TV: On NBC—James Melton, Phil and Alice, Gordon McRae, Fanny Brice, Art Linkletter Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Colman, Dick Powell, Ezra Stone, Jimmy Durante, Robert Young, Ed Gardner, William Bendix, Dennis Day and Judy Canova.

On CBS—Jack Benny, Edgar Bergen, Red Skelton, Ralph Edwards, Bob Hawk, Bing Crosby, Jean Hersholt, Vaughn Monroe.

Jackpots Being Slashed

SUPER-DUPER Jackpots of the top giveaway quiz shows apparently are on the way out. Recently both Stop the Music of ABC and Sing It Again of CBS have realigned their prizes so that the overall amounts have been considerably lowered.

The latest Stop the Music radio jackpot was made up of U. S. savings bonds instead of a fabulous list of goods, with the amount for the most recent broadcast up to $16,000 maturity value. The bonds were donated by the same manufacturers who had been providing the prizes. At one time this program's jackpot reached a peak value of $35,000.

The TV version of Stop the Music also has lowered its boom. Neither series announces the values of the prizes anymore to meet objections that the values did not always coincide with market prices.

Sing It Again, now radio only but planning a TV version, has changed to what CBS calls a "streamlined jackpot." Instead of the former minimum of $25,000 in goods plus $25,000 in cash for a special question, the award has been stabilized at $10,000 in goods plus $5,000 in cash, but no extra questions.

The DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

The Young Folks Think It Was FDR

Charlie Williams of 1405 53d ave., Hillside, Md., who drives a District Cab, caught me off base with the question:

"Who was the first President to live in the White House?"

"John Adams," I replied triumphantly. "That's one of the few things I know."

"Wrong," came back Charlie, even more triumphantly. "It was Teddy Roosevelt. Before his time the White House was officially termed 'The Executive Mansion.'"

ON BEING DISTRACTED

An official Corporation Counsel ruling once held that a motorist who listens to his auto radio may be cited for failure to give "full time and attention" to his driving.

On the face of it, this position may not appear too logical. But from my own experience, I'd say that an auto radio can very definitely be distracting to a driver who is threading his way through heavy traffic.

I doubt whether Transit Radio has been in use here for a long enough period to furnish us with any worthwhile accident statistics. But it will be interesting to follow the figures in future months, to see whether the radios have any effect on professional drivers.

Life being what it is, these same chaps no doubt hand out their share of tickets to motorists who fail to give "full time and attention" to their driving.

Yet, from the standpoint of society's need for self-perpetuation, one might make out a pretty good case for permitting a young man to drive with one arm around a young woman. But I see no similar necessity for encouraging motorized chitchat among policemen.

GIVE-AWAYS

"Playful, affectionate, healthy mother cat and her three 6-week-old kittens." (Columbia 4719 after 6 p. m.)

"Expectant mother cat; will deliver." (Temple 4011.)

MAIL BAG

Dear Bill:

I'm disappointed in you. You ought to take a higher line than "It's wonderful that people come to Washington and leave dollars behind for businessmen."

Washington is wonderful. Right now, the Archives and the Mellon Gallery have shows that are a sight more interesting than most movies that come to town. And they're air-conditioned.

As for night spots, the most thrilling is the Naval Observatory. Go take a look at Saturn and lift up your heart.

Find out what there is to see here that people may not know about and tell 'em, instead of griping about Mount Vernon and the Monument.

Esther Galbraith,
118 Lexington dr.,
Silver Spring, Md.

Dear Esther:

Gulp!

Yes ma'am. Bill.

BULLSEYE

This newspaper recently carried an item about a rookie policeman who is not doing much sitting these days, because he accidentally shot himself in the pants while cleaning his gun.

Hayden Talbot of 2153 California st. nw. complains that the man who wrote the headline for the story showed no imagination whatever. All he said was: "Rookie Policeman Is Shot In Pants Cleaning His Gun." Hayden points out that a vastly more effective caption would have been:

Nobody Can Call This Rookie Cop A Sitting Bull

PET PEEVE

Molly Guertler of 608 N. Ivy st., Arlington, Va., wants to know why it is that when dinner is 15 minutes late the family swears it's about to starve; but when everything is on the table on schedule, nobody is hungry.

TWIN BILL

"Look For The Silver Lining," "Under My Skin."

ADD SIGNS

Bill Houston of 4015 71st ave., Landover Hills, Md., reports that a store window on Florida ave. ne., bears the legend:

Bloodworms
Park in the Rear

PETE IN WONDERLAND

R. P. "Pete" Dickerson, former local newsman, has gone off to New York to work for Broadcasting Magazine's office there.

Strictly a small town boy at heart, Pete is greatly impressed by The Big Town. I have a letter from him in which he describes his first visit to the Cordon Bleu where, upon viewing the right-hand side of the menu, he was struck with "a sudden giddiness just over my left hip pocket." As Pete puts it:

"It's the kind of place where you walk in over a plush entryway carpet and an attendant immediately replaces it with a fresh one."

Why Korea Was Unprepared

By Drew Pearson

Ike Eisenhower got his comeuppance from sardonic Adm. William D. Leahy at a recent White House meeting.

When Ike greeted Leahy, who was chief of staff to President Roosevelt in World War II, the Admiral looked Eisenhower over carefully and replied:

PEARSON

Ike shook his head vigorously.

"Well," Admiral Leahy commented, "I can't call you 'Mr. President'—yet."

Ike flushed and changed the subject.

Driblet to Korea

There's been a lot of talk as to why only a driblet of aid was sent to Korea—$200,000—when Congress voted $10,500,000 more than a year ago.

Republican Senators Homer Ferguson of Michigan and William Knowland of California have been raising Cain about this, and quite rightly.

There were two inside reasons for this shocking neglect. One was a wrong guess by Military Intelligence, the other was a stand-off attitude by General MacArthur. Part of this story came out at a closed-door meeting of the Senate Appropriations Committee, but not all.

Here is the rest of the story.

1. The National Security Council, on advice of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, also MacArthur's SCAP headquarters, also Central Intelligence, all specified that Korea's problem was "internal security." Attack by an enemy army was ruled "possible but not probable." This meant that Korean aid, under a Joint Chiefs of Staff directive, was limited mainly to replacement parts for the $110,000,000 in military equipment left behind by U. S. occupation troops, and small arms.

Actually, the "internal security" program was effective and 5000 guerillas had been knocked off in recent months.

2. Aid to Korea was put in a low priority by the Security Council, behind arms for Western Europe, Greece and Turkey. It was not until Ambassador John Muccio returned to Washington this spring and pleaded desperately for speed that haste was ordered. Muccio argued that, contrary to military reports, an emergency existed in Korea.

3. The able and conscientious military aid coordinator, Maj. Gen. L. L. Lemnitzer, tried to persuade General MacArthur to release materiel from his stocks in Japan for immediate shipment to Korea. General Lemnitzer argued this would save from two to four weeks time. But General MacArthur said he could not afford to release the requested supplies.

Congress Takes Time

As a result of all this, less than $200,000 worth of supplies had left U. S. ports by June 26.

4. Congress itself was in no hurry to push military aid. President Truman sent his message to Capitol Hill in January, 1949. Hearings began in late July. The House passed the bill August 18, the Senate September 22. The law was signed October 6, 1949, and the appropriations approved 22 days later.

Another delay holding back General Lemnitzer's staff lay in the fact that the treaty with Korea was not signed until January. Then, the job of assembling, ordering, transporting arms began. The General had to fight the apathy and slowness of a military bureaucracy which was none too alert, even in getting aid rolling to Europe.

Note—Ironically, some of those now crying the loudest about "shocking disclosures" tried to stop aid to Korea. Both Ferguson and Knowland voted for the amendment by Senator George of Georgia to cut military aid 400 million dollars. Knowland was author of a defeated amendment to cut 300 million dollars. Other critics are Ohio's Republican Senators Bricker and Taft, who voted against aid along with 22 other Senators.

Senator George W. Malone (R., Nev.), who attacked Administration incompetence on aid to Korea, not only voted against the bill, but said on the Senate floor: "The whole present proposal is a waste of money."

Who Pays the Bill?

California Democrats are still burnt up over a $634.04 bill handed them to pay for a luncheon in honor of Secretary of the Interior Chapman at Perino's swank restaurant in Los Angeles after his Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner speech.

In fact, Amerigo Bozzani, treasurer of the Democratic State Central Committee, was so burnt up that, for about three months, he refused to pay the bill.

No criticism of Secretary Chapman was implied, for Chapman did not know what he was getting into.

For, though Chapman is a vigorous foe of California in regard to tidelands oil, he found himself seated with A. T. Jergins of the Jergins Oil Company, William Keck of the Superior Oil Company, a devout Truman-hater; Fred Bixby, an oil-well owner; and radio executive Lewis Allen Weiss, one of the most rabid Truman-haters on the West Coast.

In fact, the luncheon was so heavily larded with oil men, Republicans, and aviation executives, that Chapman got the impression it was a lobbying setup.

Democratic Treasurer Bozzani, who got the same impression, figured the GOP oil and aviation moguls could pay for their own luncheon. He saw no reason why it should be charged to the Democrats. So he refused to pay the $634.04. However, George Lucky, Truman's No. 1 Democrat in California, overruled him. Bozzani finally paid the bill, but marked at the bottom: "Paid by order of George Lucky under protest."

Thus, though Secretary Chapman came out to California to raise money for the Democrats at the Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner, he found himself the unwitting excuse for nicking the Democratic state treasury to the tune of $634.04.

Merry-Go-Round

The salmon industry has raised $150,000 to fight Alaskan statehood. It fears higher taxes... An Ohio political survey indicates that Senator Taft's endorsement of Senator McCarthy is the worst political blunder Taft has made since March 9, 1941, when he told the Cincinnati Enquirer: "War is even worse than a German victory."... The Democratic National Committee will purchase a seven-story office building opposite the Mayflower Hotel in Washington. Only 18 months ago the Democrats were having trouble meeting their telephone bill—nothing succeeds like success.
